In the development of any publication many changes occur in the concept of format, content, and of the particular aims to which the publication is dedicated. The year of 1956 is one of basic change for the Arbutus.

The new concept of a yearbook for Indiana University has grown for the most part from a desire to provide the kind of yearly record that will keep pace with other contemporary publications in appearance and accomplishment of purpose. The growth of the University also necessitates an expansion in the size of the yearbook. Looking a few years to the future, we realize that this expansion will present new production problems. Therefore, this year's changes are the beginning of a program which will enable future staffs to meet this challenge.

The Arbutus is dedicated to two purposes. First, it must provide a comprehensive story of the year at Indiana University; and second, it must be constructed so as to be an adequate source of reference of the persons, residential units, and organizations of the University. The 1956 Arbutus is divided into two parts, each designed to accomplish one of these aims.

In the first section of the Arbutus we have attempted to capture a segment of time and imprison it by means of words and pictures on these pages. It was necessary to devise a theme which would serve as a vehicle to carry the story. How would it be possible to create a basic idea simple enough to convey a clear and accurate picture when complexity had become the essence of a university as large as I.U.?

We found our answer in . . .

... the simplicity of color

Three basic elements of campus life blend to create a story. Three basic colors combine to create all shades and colors visible to man. And for our story we must have a setting ...

The Place is I.U. Constructed of stone and steel, brick and mortar; sparkling in newness and aged by the weather; embroidered by nature with a pattern of trees, hills and valleys, and a stream named the River Jordan. A place to study, play, or hang your hat. But a place has a cold blueness without ...

The People. They bring the brightness of life to the story, the brightness of a second element or color which enriches the picture. People add ideas and the complete range of human emotion to the total picture. Their attitudes and actions are the ingredients which create a personality for I.U. They plan and work and emerge as the principal creators of the plot, pieced together from ...

The Events, the action, the splash of red that carries impact and completes the painting.

To begin to paint the picture and tell the story we select blue and look at ...

The team and fans, the Fieldhouse, and a basketball game are the elements of a bright segment of campus life.

The Place

A campus beauty that sets I.U. apart . . . A special place where man-made magnificence and natural tranquility blend subtly . . . where the cacophony of daily routine is muted by the shadowed velvet of a secluded glen.

Color existing in a place is derived from

The drama of the operating room which comes as part of the medical training at I.U. Motion pictures are often taken of operations for instructional purposes.

...the glitter of play

Union for all. The Union Building, where most student activities and social events take place, will change its profile in the next year. Plans to expand the building have been completed and construction is scheduled to begin soon.

A moment of magic captures the crowd at the Opening of Formal Dance in December. The multi-colored sparkle of dresses and decorations complemented by the flowing tones of the band combine to create a memorable evening.

The Fieldhouse is a place for cheers or tears depending on how the team is doing at the moment. The projected plans for a new fieldhouse will relegate the present building to a place of relative obscurity within two or three years.

...the tension of competition

An attempted steal results in a scramble between I.U.'s Choice and two Ohio U. players.

An air attack by Brown gives I.U. the rebound and the chance for another basket.

... the beauty of culture.

I.U. Auditorium. The scene of the extra cultural events which help enrich the lives of students, faculty, and townspeople.

The contrast of form and grace in black against the splash of a red-orange backdrop. The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo offerred a varied program of modern dance and traditional ballet as a part of the extra-educational program this year.

Place and color combine to create many moods.

The green of Summer days envelops the Main Library.

Autumn colors dominate the landscape around the Fieldhouse, B. & E. and Auditorium.

The breath and newness of Spring give a new view to residents of Rogers Center.

The people . . .

We are a generation of classifiers. We learn at an early age to create mental compartments and store everything in neat little packages. This practice, we have come to believe, permits us to break the complexity of life into workable units.

We are most often inclined to play this game of "categories" when we think of people. We divide and subdivide and attach tags referring to their age, origin, and basic philosophy until the person is obscured. We glibly file a coed under "girls to date" until circumstance causes us to refocus and reshuffle and drop her into the "girl to marry" slot.

Since we are bound by the rules of this game, we have developed the story of the people of I.U. through a "classifying" approach. An average amount of the egotism of youth causes us to look first at . . .

... the students

There are about 11,000 of us on campus.

Freshman camp is often the first contact a new student has with I.U. It serves as a part of the fall orientation program.

Academically we are classified

Bursting with enthusiasm, freshmen lay seige to I.U. Noticeable in new slickers and saddles, they look for the English Building. After exploration, a triumphant freshman rushes to a seat to discuss the escapades of Odysseus. As the freshman hunts for I.U. night life, he discovers "Big Ferg" and the custom of having coffee dates. Freshman students attend "en masse" the pep rallies and buy "en masse" stickers and stuffed animals. Thus, freshmen develop into college Janes and Joes.

Amazement at campus art registers on the freshman.

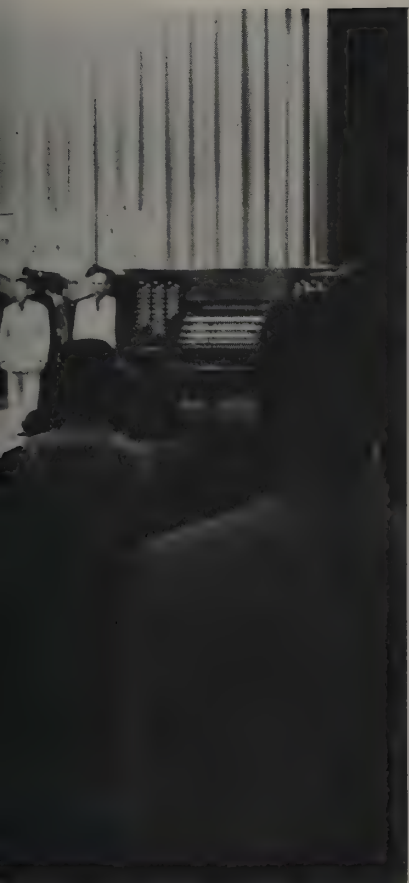

At freshman convocation the top school personnel are introduced.

Homesick, the freshman calls home to see how the folks are doing.

A little more sophistication, but we still enjoy the common touch.

...sophomores

A sophomore emerges from the freshman masses as a lower upperclassman. He is now proud of being an "old" I.U. student and shows it. If he was a pledge, he is particularly exultant to realize he is now an active with his pledge duties far in the past. If he lives in a dorm, he shows his superiority by explaining the facts of life to the newcomers. A pink and white Ford, a red convertible, or maybe a '49 Plymouth also gives the sophomore a feeling of superiority. (Cars are simply forbidden fruit to freshmen.) His cloud is jarred a little when he learns the Freshmen enroll before him. Many girls now have the distinction of living in sorority houses. A sophomore, through previous freshman experiences, qualifies for leadership positions in extra-curricular activities. Another honor bestowed only on a sophomore is a term paper for English W-103. Many hours are spent digging into aged material in the library the day before the paper is due. Oh, the sophomore leads a sad life, but just wait 'til next year!

The glory of having a car and not being a freshman are two of the advantages of being a sophomore.

I was trying to explain to this freshman and . . .

. . . her eyes got as big as saucers.

Building muscles the Atlas way.

Now what do you think of that.

Discussing the lighter side of life.

Junior girls spend many hours in activities. Newspaper clippings are saved in scrapbooks for later reminiscing.

... juniors

One of the bright events in any junior girl's life is getting pinned. Here, she tells the secret of her success.

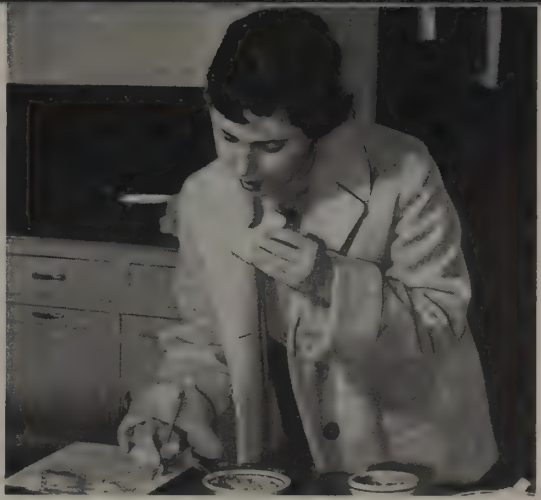

Sauntering about campus in worn slickers and dirty gray saddles, the Juniors represent the lower segment of the elite upperclassmen. They return to school with assorted collections of dance programs, ticket stubs, and other souvenirs. Also uniquely characteristic of this class are crib-notes for third-year language courses and an immunity to "No Doz" pills. Through concentrated efforts at daily lessons in the Commons, they become proficient at bridge. Juniors are a rare group. They can even remember when I.U. won the Big Ten!

• With the junior year comes advanced R.O.T.C. That uniform must be immaculate.

A junior rushes to meetings.

Time out for picking up letters from home.

Finally an upperclassman and authority brings some special favors from the lowly frosh.

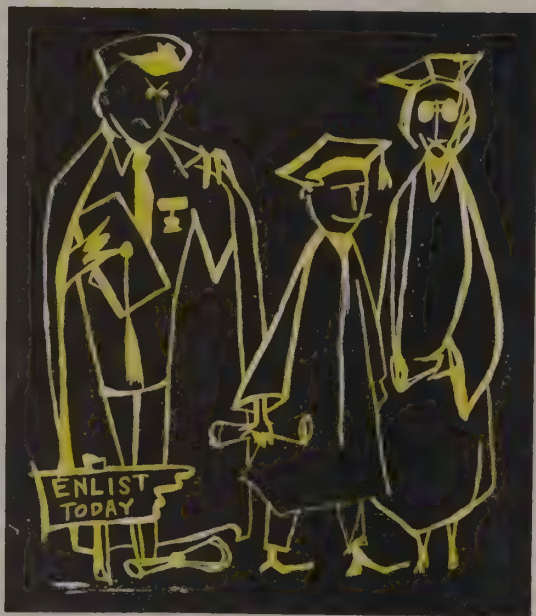

A friend is great for discussions.

A special friend is great for . . . discussions and companionship.

... seniors

Ah, yes. The toils and tribulations of having a car on campus. It must be a really big date.

And they must study, too.

Man's best friend is great for companionship.

Wheels—big, little, round, square, or spoked—all are seniors. These students have a monopoly on the relaxed, nonchalant air. Generally they appear far more bright-eyed than the underclassmen—no 7:30's. The senior men are denoted by yellow "cords." The Med-Law Boress, the highlight in the lives of the aspiring medical and law students, consists of a week's "debating" and culminates in a savage football game. Music students prepare for recitals, education students leave campus for their practice teaching to discover if their methods Profs. were right. There are struggles to be sure, but generally senior life is associated with the best and easiest of everything—best seats at the games, prominent offices in all extra-curricular activities, and the fun of Senior Week. First to arrive at their favorite spot in Brown County or the best quarry pool, seniors are always ahead. Suddenly, realizing their campus days are nearly over, they feel a compulsion to attend every function and do everything they can squeeze into their already busy schedule. The last semester brings job interviews, fittings for caps and gowns, orders for graduation announcements, wedding plans, and finally the commencement festivities. Seniors signify the hopes of the "green" freshmen, the aspirations of the sophomores, and the awaited seniority for the juniors—truly the zenith of college life.

During the last semester on campus, the senior applies for interviews for future jobs.

Dean Ralph E. Cleland is responsible for the smooth internal workings of the Graduate School.

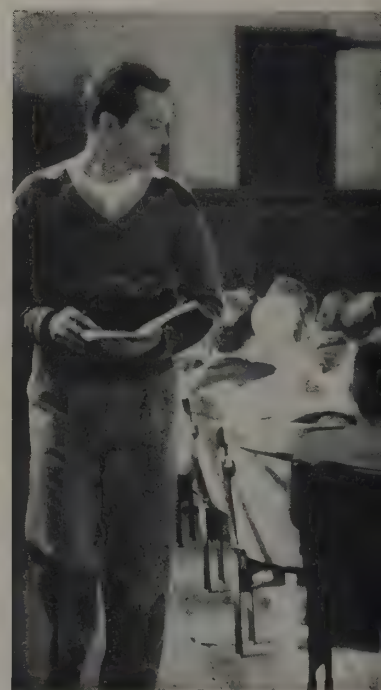

Emphasis on work at the graduate level has been increasing at I.U. for the past several years. Curricula have been extended to allow graduate work in many schools and divisions of the University.

This year students working toward graduate degrees comprise about one-fourth of the total full-time enrollment.

The Graduate School is responsible for the advanced education of approximately 1,000 Arts and Science graduates. In addition, the School of Education, the School of HPER, the School of Business, and the School of Music offer graduate work. These students with the students of the Graduate School and those finishing undergraduate degrees in conjunction with classes in the School of Law number approximately 4,000.

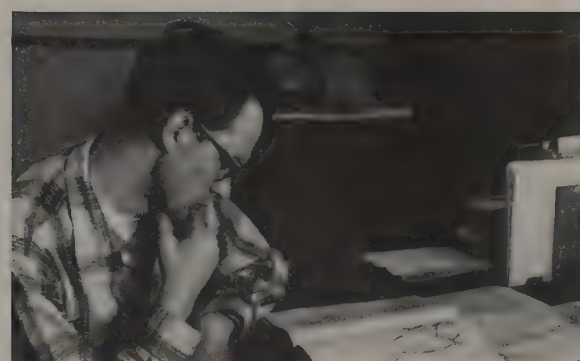

It's simple now . . . but try teaching it to an undergrad.

Might as well be comfortable.

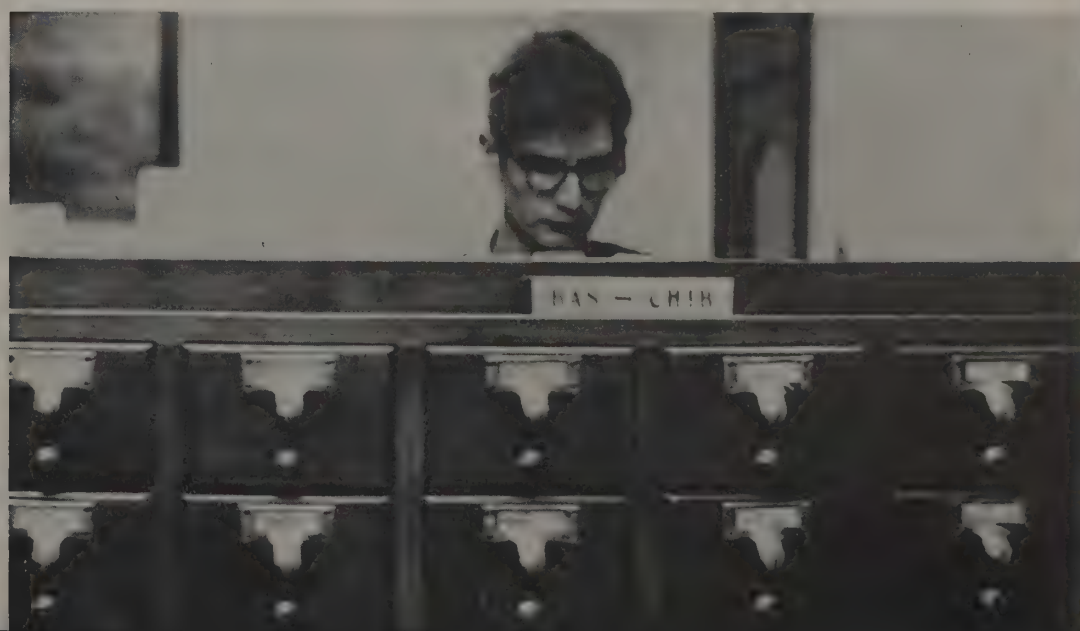

Concentration . . . a skill the graduate must possess.

Graduate students are those campus personalities who dress like professors but whose still unproven opinions prevent them from being typical professors. Most I.U. graduate students live in town or Rogers Center and can frequently be found doing research in the libraries. The majority of their classes are clinics or seminars. Some who are instructors can be differentiated from other graduates by their folder of ungraded papers. Some of the more fortunate grads (or unfortunate, depending on how you look at it) are counselors in housing units. These are no doubt doing graduate work in juvenile delinquency or child psychology. Tired of studying, graduates are anxious to begin their occupations. They may be rather cynical toward undergraduates and their rah-rah college attitude. But graduates are still collegiate and do play a necessary part in campus life at I.U.

Proctoring looks easy . . . but he takes tests just like the rest.

The card catalogue, a great invention for anyone doing research.

College life is not entirely academic . . . .

We study and go to classes only part of the time. Coke dates, coffee breaks and three per week date nights constitute a large part of our college days. Almost closing hours—now the end of a perfect evening, the prelude to a lovely tomorrow.

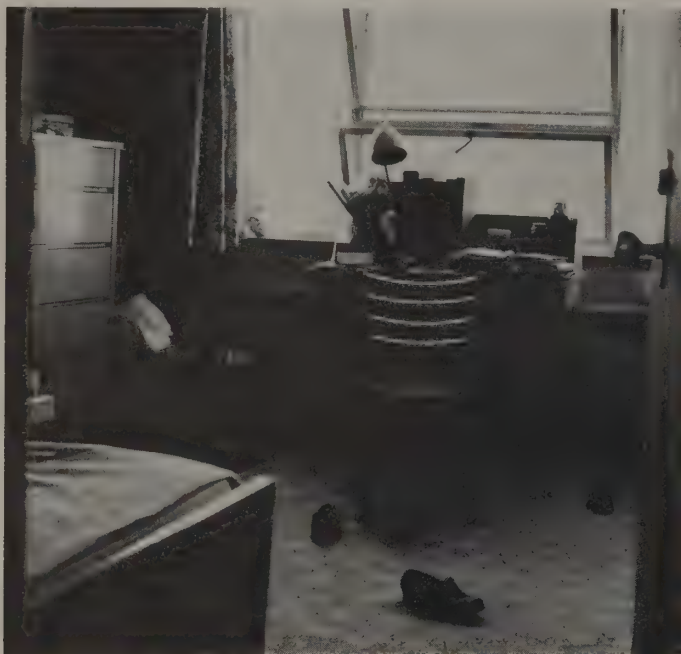

A modern housing unit for I.U. students. The breezeway—wind cooled, sun warmed—is the middle man between the rest of the campus and the Quad inner court. This particular breezeway is bicycle haven in spring and intermission hangout at the formal dances.

... so some of us classify ourselves by the places in which we live.

We live in dorms . . .

Approximately 6,000 I.U. students call the dorm their "home away from home." The dorm is not just a place to hang the hat, but a place to learn how to meet and get along with a variety of types of people. Many adjustments to college life must be made by the freshman leaving his home perhaps for the first time. Upperclassmen are willing to take him under their wings to show him the ropes. Next year he will be doing the same for more unsuspecting freshmen. He will also renew the friendships of the past year and, of course, make many more. Many dorm activities will keep him busy: offices, committees, chorus. And one always remembers the nameless delicacies served in the dining halls. A great place, the dorm.

The home away from home. But where's the fourth shoe?

Dorms provide entertainment on date nights. Here, music hath charms.

The first stop in the dining hall.

Down the line.

Cigarettes over dessert and coffee put the finishing touches on the evening meal.

The snack bar of a women's dorm is a popular place. Why? Service with a smile.

Women's . . .

A woman's typical day begins with breakfast in the dining hall, if she has an early class. Between classes, if she has no pending exams, she meets with others in the dorm to share the latest news concerning social activities of the sharp fellow in her "Econ" class. Tuesday evenings at 10:30 her time is spent in a corridor meeting where she learns the official dorm news. If she has a date, she must return by the specified time or she will be presented with a lovely "pink slip." If there is nothing else to do, she may decide to study during the quiet hours set especially for such activity.

"What is it this time?" It may not be quite like "Mom's" cooking, but every one looks healthy.

Life in a men's dorm is somewhat similar to women's life in a dorm with the exception of fewer restrictions. A favorite pastime is the midnight boress. A fellow can take just so much studying. Also important are intramural sports in which most men participate. Football and basketball rank high in interest with softball, track, tennis, volley-ball, and ping pong running close seconds. The units compete in activities other than sports, such as the Little 500, but all are united in competing against other residence centers in such things as homecoming decorations. The units are governed by men selected from each unit who sit on a governing board. A variety of social functions are held with the women's dorms, among which are costume parties, mixers, exchange dinners, holiday dances, and picnics. At the end of a year each can say, "A good time was had by all."

He can study in spite of the "homey" atmosphere.

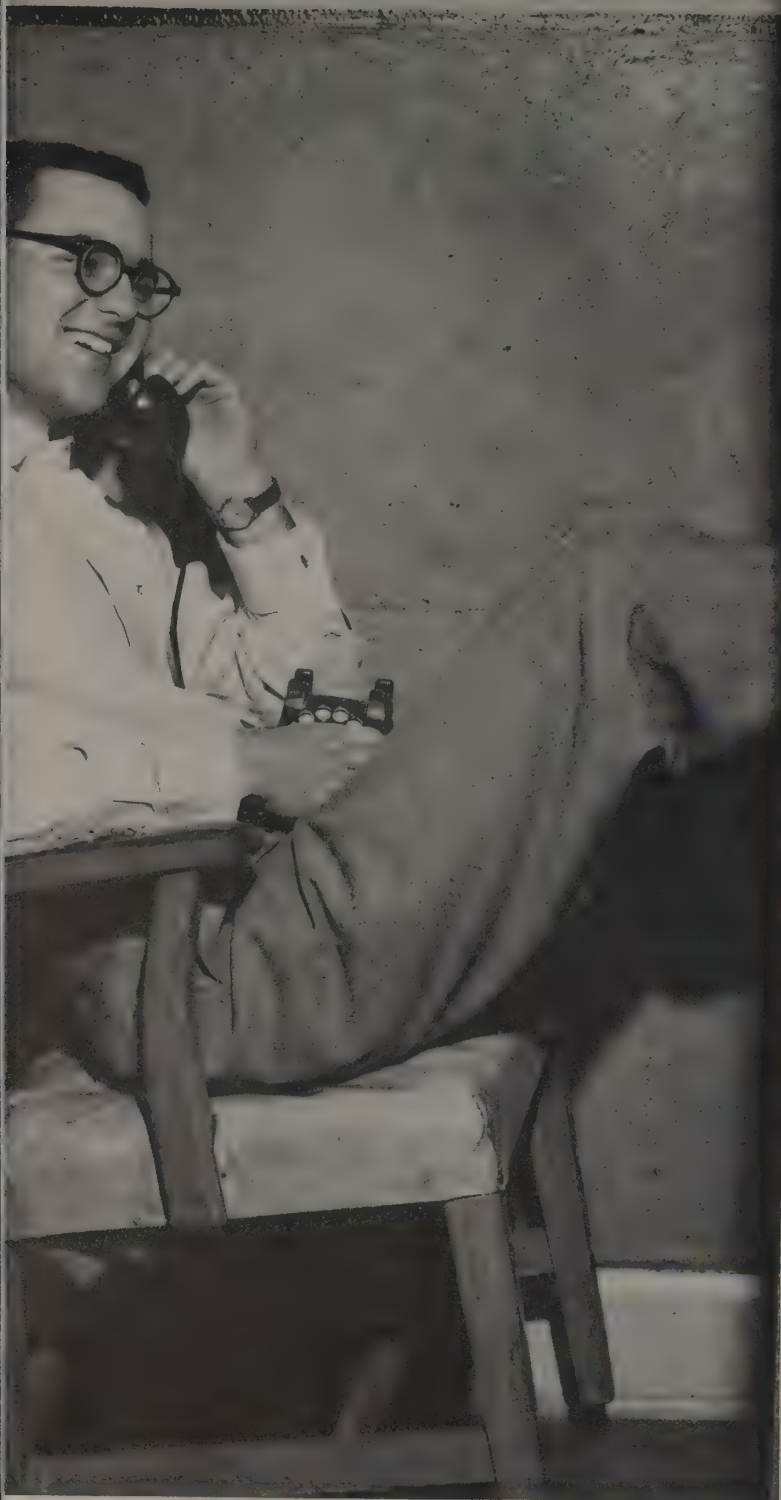

"Have you ever heard of such a thing? The things these texts proclaim!"

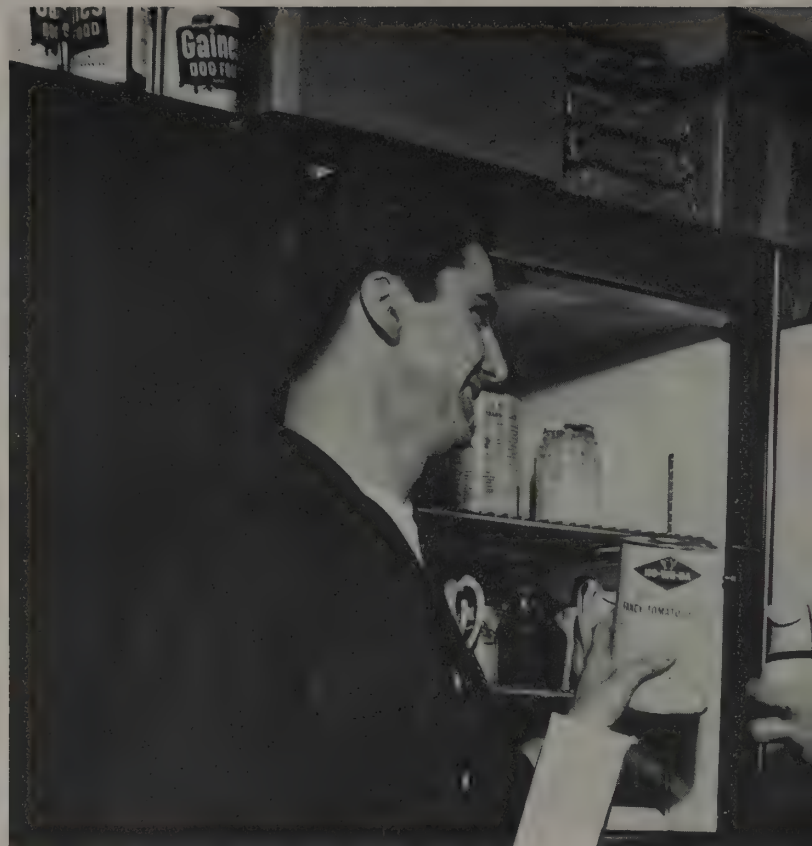

Everything from a football field to the cleaner's is near to the dorm.

Someone gave me your name. . . .

Raiding the ice box! Tomato juice and milk?

fraternities . . .

The Greek begins by being a pledge, which consists of a variety of activities too numerous to mention. He can be noticed on campus by his bright green pod, which gets pretty bedraggled-looking after a few weeks of hard wear. On Wednesdays he can be found on campus all dressed up in a suit and tie. After more than a semester's pledgeship, he finally becomes an initiated member. He, along with his fraternity brothers, participates in many campus functions, as well as the activities of his own particular fraternity. The social whirl of his fraternity includes open houses, formal dances, record dances, exchange dinners with sister Greeks, serenades, Mother and Dad days, state days, and many, many more. Each fraternity works as a unit for homecoming decorations, Little 500, and the I.U. Sing. All groups work together in Interfraternity Council, the organized party, and in making the annual Greek Week a success. But life in a fraternity is not all social. Scholarship is also stressed. Yes, fraternities are a very necessary part of college life at I.U.

Do you mean to tell me you're studying?

At least three are engrossed in an all-important play.

The last minute touch.

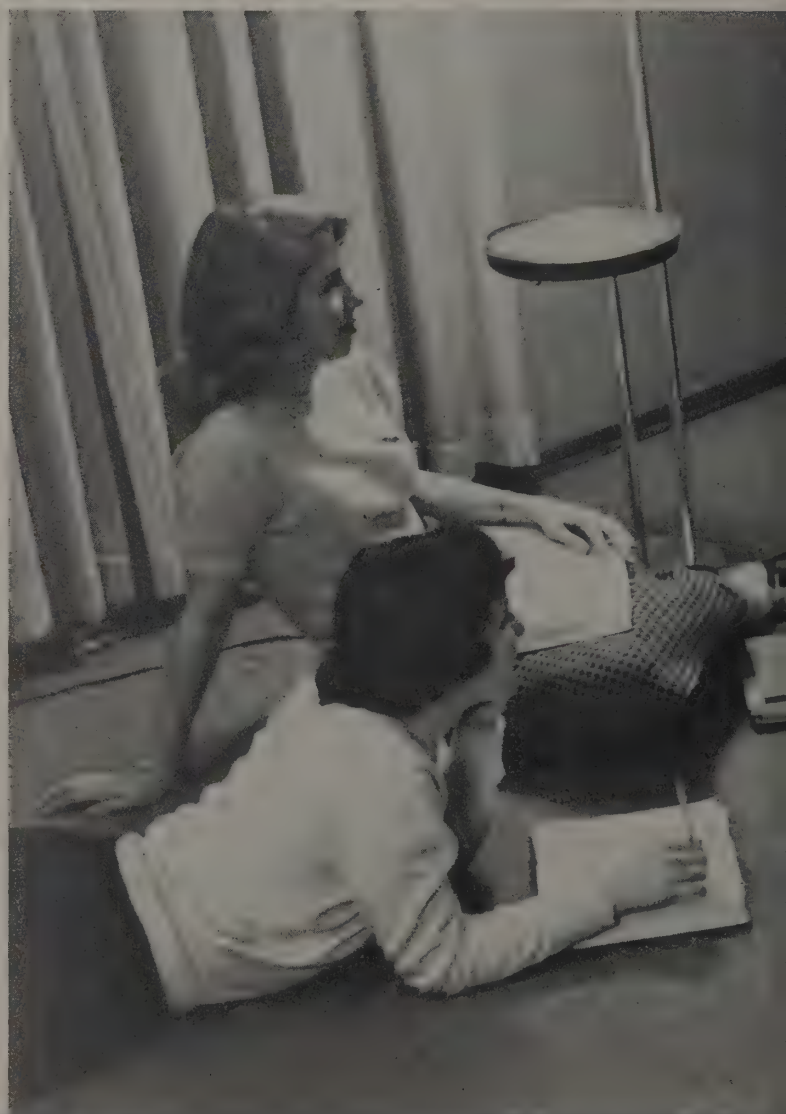

Rush, the largest function of a sorority, determines the new members of the group. Rush week for freshmen is held at the beginning of the second semester. Prior to this many plans are made in anticipation of fine new pledges. After a girl is pledged, she finds herself in a different kind of life, one of much activity on campus and in her sorority, combined with her studies. Sorority activities are much the same as those of the fraternity: dances, openhouses, exchange dinners, and campus functions such as the Fall Carnival and Greek Week. The sorority presidents are members of the Panhellenic Association here on campus. Through this group all the sororities work together as a whole, helping to solve each other's problems and making decisions that affect all houses. Living with her sisters and housemother as one big happy family is the greatest advantage of sorority life. Just ask any sorority girl.

Before the studying begins, a jazz session with the "uke" is a lively time.

Dinner at the house.

Studying and television just don't mix. TV and Como win out.

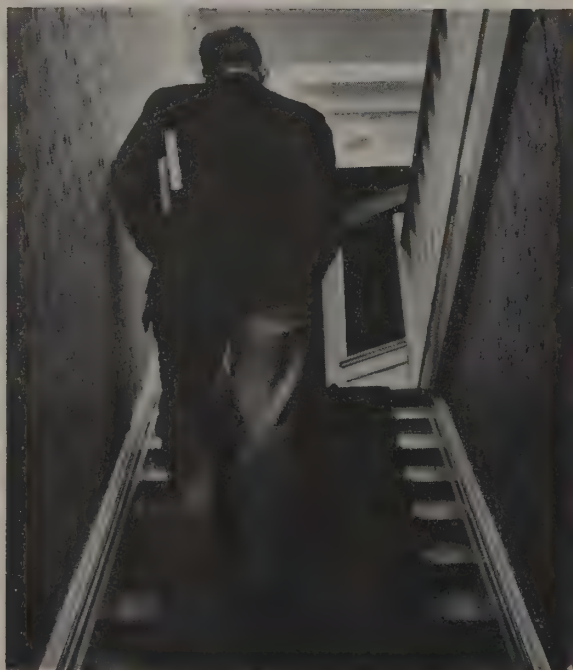

Cars belonging to those who live out in town have the luxury of having roofs over them.

out in town . . .

Late hours . . . some eyes will rest . . . some stay open.

Up the stairs to the room that is his home for the school year.

Some students prefer living in private homes that are approved by the university to living on the campus proper. Here, they can find privacy and independence that they feel is so important. To some students, the longer walks to classes might seem inconvenient, but the feelings of being on one's own more than outweigh this. Many of the out-in-town students do odd jobs in the home to pay for part of their board and room.

Bloomington students find living at home very convenient and economical. They still may participate in campus activities. Mom's home-cooking is certainly nice to come home to after a hard day's work on the campus. The greatest difficulty is training little brother to observe quiet hours.

Candy Cummings finds her mother's cake tastes as good as it looks.

Living at home and helping Mom with the dishes is fun when a delicious cake is the reward.

From study Bob Luddy goes. . .

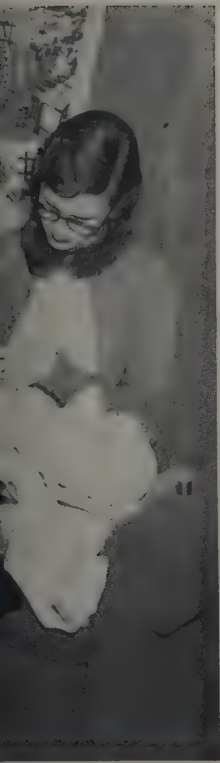

. . . to recreation with his wife and son.

The neighborly touch . . .

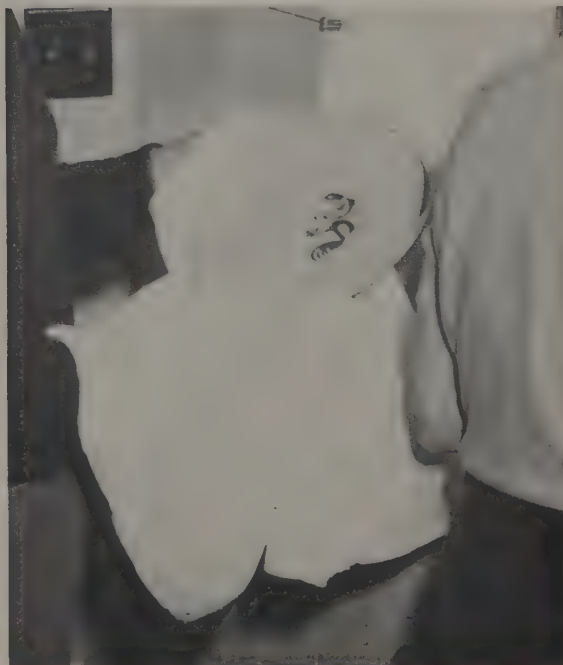

A little baby sitting. . . .

Many students marry before completing their college education. The University offers several types of housing for these students: trailers, the modern University Apartments, and the new accommodations in the Hoosier Courts. Of course, students may rent apartments or homes off campus, or may own their own trailers. A married student takes part in various "extra-curricular activities," too, such as doing the marketing or washing out diapers. The main problem is to find time to spend with the family and to have time left for studies. If both the husband and wife are students, they must share the household duties and baby-sitting hours. There are many cases of the wife putting her husband through school.

. . . Those extra bucks,

. . . and a helping hand . . . all have their place.

As an extension of where we live we decide how we vote . . .

Jim Lakatos rises to give a nomination speech, a very important part of any political convention.

Jim Droege and Sam Furlin contemplate the slate.

The call . . . brings a huddle of delegates to decide on their candidates.

Organized or . . .

. . . and the count reveals how the trading went.

"Last year we did it this way." John Heiney, former chairman, and John Bulkley, present chairman, confer.

Smoke filled? Yes, but the air is sometimes filled with other things.

Campaign and hard work brought honor to the Independent Party a year ago when Jerry Strauss was elected Student Body President. Representatives from the dormitories, married students, and out-in-town students met last fall in convention. Independent leaders under the guidance of the party chairman, Dave Willis, paved the way for the election of the Freshman class officers.

... independent

How about this one?

The distaff side of the convention discusses a candidate.

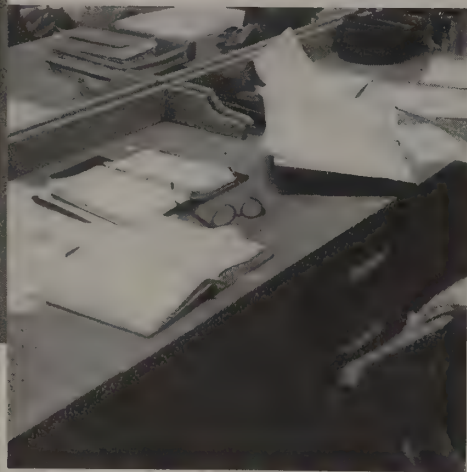

The issues are varied as the convention opens.

Depending on which approach we take to the serious side of college life we divide ourselves into groups which . . .

Believe it or not, there are students enrolled at I.U. who are primarily interested in securing an education. These students do everything possible to gain all the knowledge they can. Studying takes up most of their time—time they feel is well spent. Extra-curricular activities do not appeal to them unless they occur in their field of learning. Cut classes? No, both time and money would be wasted. These are the people who are graduated magna cum laude and who are elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

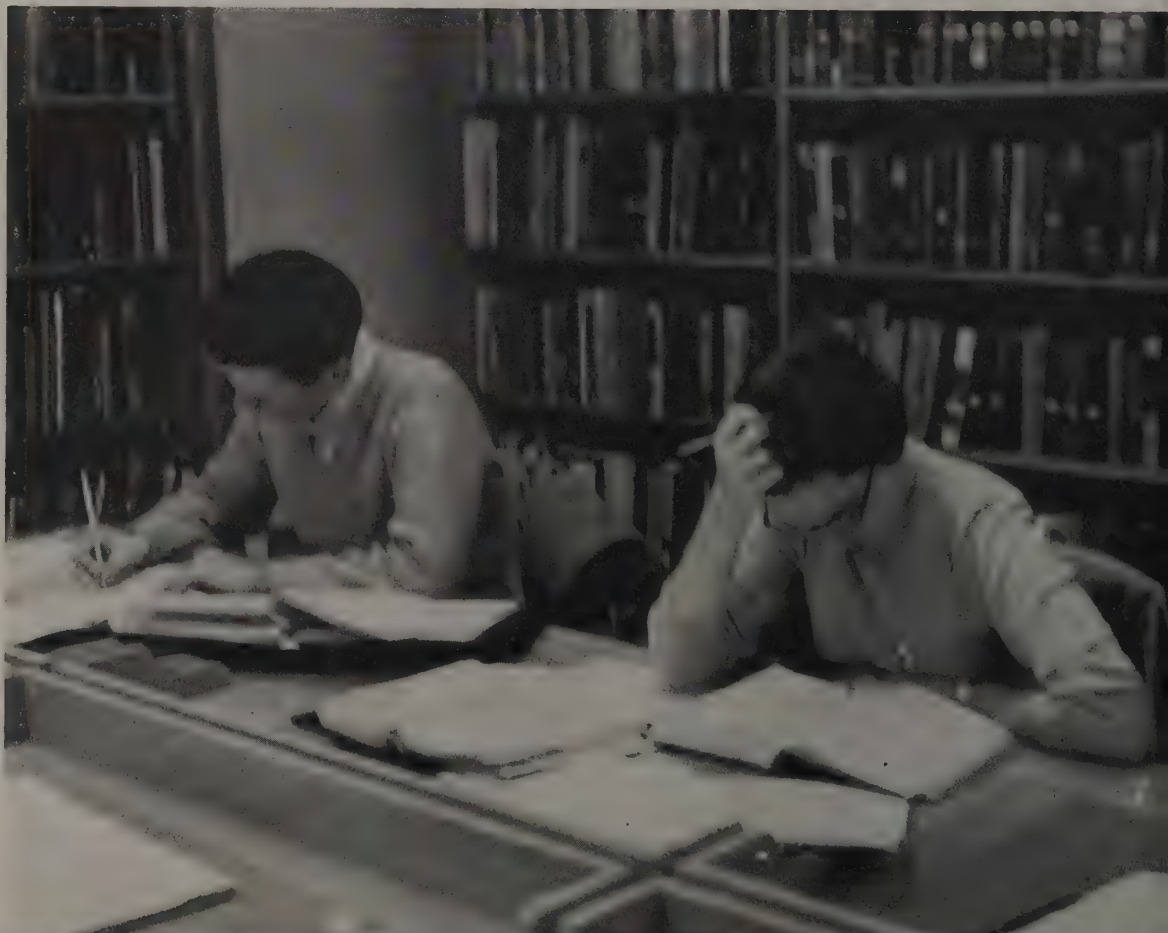

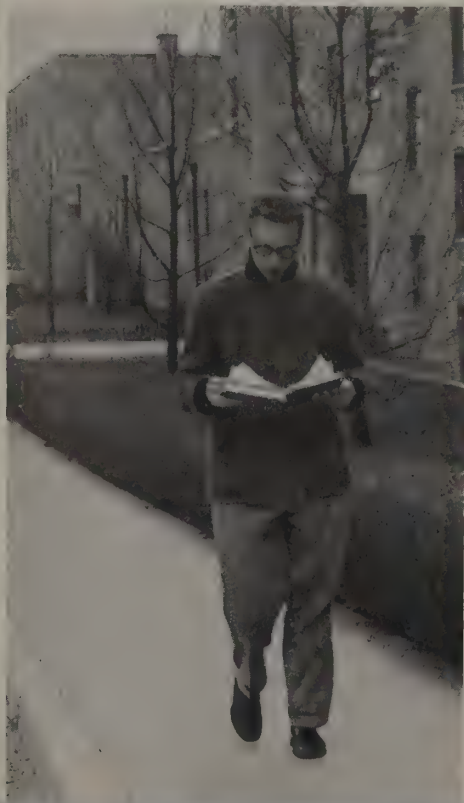

A break once in awhile gives a chance for the brain to catch up.

. . . grind . . .

Studying can even be done on date nights.

Always time for studies.
It must be a big exam.

Many people find the lounges very conducive to studying, certainly more comfortable than hard desk chairs.

Television is a great thing. People can always be found in the lounges in front of the set.

... hit a happy medium

Study time, week-end dates, time to talk to a troubled friend. These are characteristics of the "happy medium" collegiate—the one who takes his college life seriously, yet socially. He believes a college education means studies and social life. He realizes that while college is the place to gain intellectual knowledge, it is also the place to learn to live individually and in a group, and to learn to know, appreciate, praise, and sympathize with others. He has time to study, time for dates, time for letters, time for meals, and time for sleep. Because he doesn't go to extremes in anything, he has a well-rounded life. Yes, he'll be back next year.

Enter, oh "T.G.I.F.-er"!

Some spend their spare time in the Union, but not always behind the 8-ball.

The Frenchwomen appear to have taken over.

... or play.

Commons hour daily . . . week-end picnics . . . campus dances . . . boress time . . . movies . . . coke dates. Classes? A convenient place to catch up on sleep. Smoke-ups? A passing evil. Study? Let's have fun instead. More important aspects of college are parties, dates, social life. Final week? Already? Cram, cram, CRAM. That's just the first semester. Second semester—settled down? No, second semester brings Spring fever. Final week again? The weather's too nice to study. Well, it was a great year.

The campus is a great place for recreation. There's nothing like a bike ride up and down the hills.

Ah, the quarries! Nothing like 'em in the spring.

We may scoff at the activities man or accept the extra-curricular as an important part of college life . . .

Although some students put their fingers in every pie, the student who is really interested in activities finds that he must be selective and limit the activities to his interests so that he can do justice to each of them. He finds he can work to the top quicker if he is sincere and learns as he participates. He thus becomes a wheel.

Jane Allen has shown how important extra-curricular activities can be in one's college life. The A.W.S. gavel and the Mortar Board jacket symbolize Jane's hard work and achievement.

Work at student government . . .

There are many areas of student government on the I.U. campus. The key position is the student body president. He is elected by the students in the spring from slates nominated by the organized party, independent party, and any other parties that appear from time to time. The president takes office the following year after his election. Besides upholding the Student Government Constitution, the president presides over all meetings of the Student Senate which occur weekly and is the executive head of all its activities. The Student Court justices are appointed by the president. He must also fulfill all the social obligations delegated to his office. This office is more than the glory of the title. The president is kept busy serving the students of Indiana University.

. . . and so do the senators. Wayne Kimmel in action here.

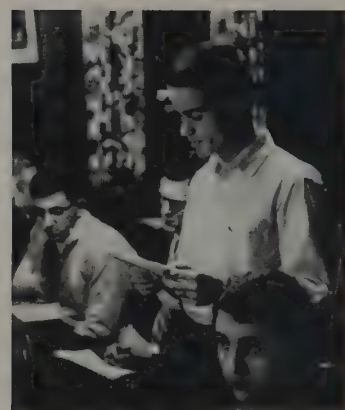

What's that he's saying?

And Wayne . . .

Now I don't know . . .

. . . goes on.

What's this?

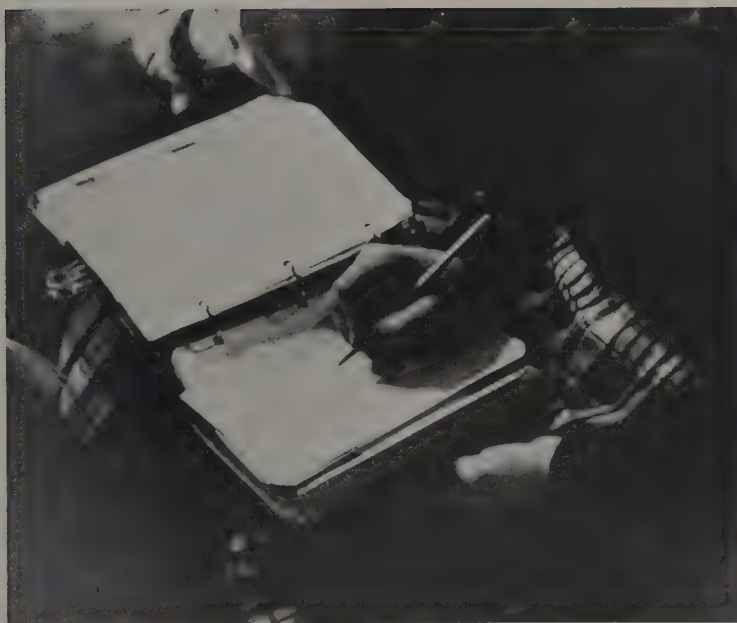

Oh, all right.

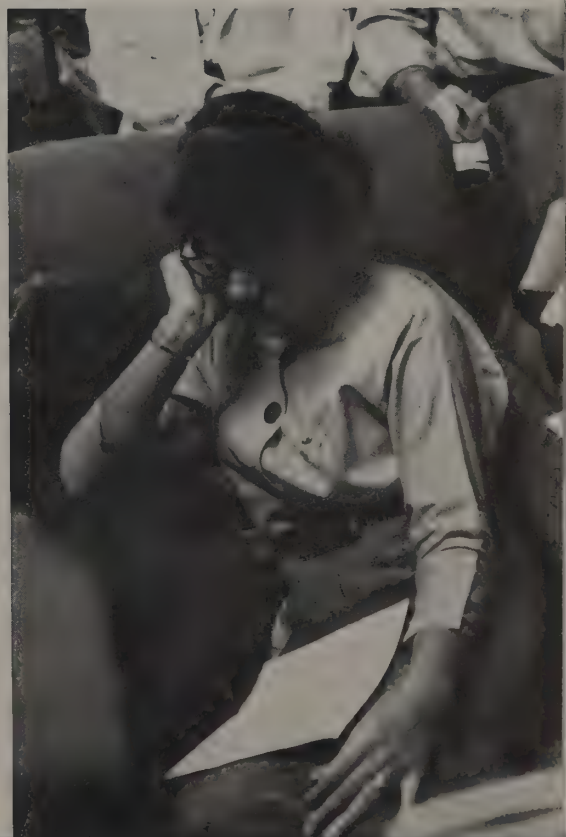

The Student Senate consists of 31 senators. 12 of these are presidents of other campus organizations, 2 are elected from approved minority groups, and 17 are elected by housing units and organizations grouped geographically. Meetings are held weekly. All funds are received from the university subject to the approval of President Wells and the Board of Trustees, of course. Among the duties of the Senate are to check the constitutions of all campus organizations, accept petitions, be responsible for the Campus Chest Fund, supervise the social affairs of all organizations, develop recreational facilities, and organize the Little United Nations Assembly. The Student Council consists of 9 justices appointed by the student body president with the approval of the Student Senate. All cases involving the Constitution and infractions of university rules are heard and decided upon by the Student Court.

The woman's view is respected but often lengthy.

Now get this. Notes for reports to constituents are important.

Deep concentration.

Just waiting. . . .

. . . and listening,

. . . and wondering,

. . . and discussing

Also a part of the student government at I.U. are the class officers, consisting of president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and directors for each of the four classes. The election of these officers takes place in the fall with each student voting only for the officers in his class. The main duty of class officers is to organize the social functions of the classes. The Freshman Tyronian, Sophomore Cotillion, Junior Prom and Junior Week, and the Senior Barbecue and Senior Week are the main highlights of the social whirl.

Chief Justice Thorson finds the unexpected.

There are many governing and advisory organizations on the I.U. campus for the students. The women's organizations include the Council of the Association of Women Students, the Board of Standards, which is a judiciary and advisory body of A.W.S., and the Panhellenic Association for the organized women on campus. Women's and men's halls of residence have executive boards which have certain powers to regulate life in the dorms. The Board of Aeons advises university administrators on policies affecting student life. The Union Board supervises all Union activities. Organized men are regulated by the Interfraternity Council.

Flying interest brings together at the Bloomington airport many students into one organization, The Flying Club.

... special interest organizations,

The Chess Club in action.

There are many organizations to which a student belongs if he has any particular interests or hobbies. The Flying Club, recently organized, provides activities for the aviation-minded. Bridge enthusiasts, musicians, hikers, swimmers, bowlers, politicians, sailors, photographers, student wives—all can find an organization to fit their interests. There are organizations that promote understanding among foreign and American students. These clubs help to stimulate specific interests and provide grounds for mutual interest.

Bright pods are proudly worn by actives of I.U. honoraries. There are three main types of honoraries: recognition groups, activities honoraries, and scholastic honoraries. They consist of both men and women, organized and independent students, students majoring in particular fields. All have one general purpose; to improve campus relations and build student character.

The Y.W.C.A. has many projects including work at the Christian Center.

For inspiration as well as enjoyment, the various religious groups on campus are open to all students. The YMCA and YWCA, two organizations based upon the Christian way of life, are major groups on campus which sponsor various activities for all students, including foreign students and new students. Their activities extend off the campus and into the community and foreign countries. Other fellowship groups on campus include the Canterbury Club, the Hillel Foundation, and many others connected with the churches in Bloomington.

... on publications,

Put a head on it.

A college newspaper often comes under the heading of an extra-curricular activity. At I.U. it is a laboratory project for journalism students. There are those who sometimes embroil themselves in the turmoil of getting out a daily newspaper just for the fun of it, but for the most part The Indiana Daily Student draws its staff from the ranks of those pursuing a major course of study in journalism.

Here is the opportunity to turn classroom theory into active practice. Get the story, write it, edit it, evaluate it and write a head, and dummy it in the page. Watch it take form on the linotype machine and finally appear in print. Learn the challenge of meeting a deadline. Live and think newspaper for three years. With stamina, study, and a little luck you may emerge as a journalist.

Set the type for it.

Putting it together is an important part of production. Harry Hudson, backshop foreman, begins to assemble the pages.

Proof-reading helps to prevent many late errors.

Down the line to be put on the press.

To press. Early morning hours see The Daily Student become a reality.

The campus paper has a special responsibility to those it serves. It is often the only media of frequent distribution that exists to keep students informed. The task is difficult and often criticism is the only response.

The paper is a clearing house for student opinion, and it must seek to reflect that opinion honestly. If reporting ethics and the plea for a responsible press are often repeated in journalism class it is for a good purpose. The mechanics of journalistic writing are not easy to learn. Acquiring the ability to think, act, and believe like a good newspaper person is even more difficult.

And into the files.

Any student publication that requires a meticulous finesse will have its problems. Problems are only solved with patience, a good sense of direction, and a few long hours of work. This is essentially the story of the 1956 Arbutus. Its editors and managers have turned a campus activity into an ebullient business by forgetting the headaches and frustrations and concentrating on a book that is presenting a new format in the student yearbook field.

This year a new training program helped focus a complex production for the uninitiated. Color blended the year into coalescent patterns. The reference aspect of the yearbook became discrete and an album section was created to hold the valuable records.

Here a taste of journalism is often sought, and a diet is found. Here a year is neatly wrapped up between hard covers to be kept for a lifetime.

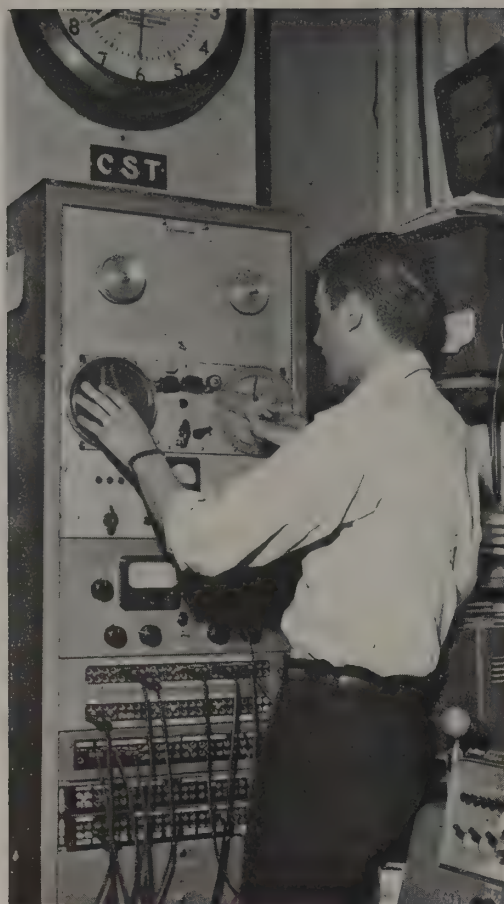

Check and recheck was the byword in preparing the Arbutus general index.

... in radio and TV,

"This waiting around for the show to begin gets me. Oh, to be an actress!"

The center of campus television activity is located in the radio-TV building in Trees Center. Here, students may obtain all kinds of practical TV experience—acting, producing, writing, announcing. Almost every day of the week, students participate in some capacity in various types of shows. Monday through Friday educational shows consisting of courses, such as government or linguistics, are offered for college credit. Sunday mornings a children's program, "Play Room," is produced. Creative television programs, written by students, come over channel 4 every Sunday evening. This year a rear screen projector, which makes the background scenes in productions come alive, was added to the equipment. This equipment along with I.U. talent of the best kind make the productions excellent entertainment for the I.U. students.

And now let's hear. . . .

Intently they watch a monitor as the show is in progress.

Television is not a one-sided affair as many viewers think. Without the camera and man behind the camera there would be no show.

... or in bringing glory to I.U. through

The spirit of competition is representative of the American way of life. The competitive spirit, ever evident on a college campus, is expressed especially well in sports. It is a spirit which molds champions. A favorite among sports is football. To every member of the team, each game is a challenge. These men, carefully selected by expert coaches, come from far and near. Their home towns read like a tourist map of the U.S.A. For the senior on the squad, college football days are over. But as he thinks back over his four years at I.U. he recalls many significant associations and events. He came to campus as a freshman after a Summer of conditioning, the possessor of a scholarship to play for I.U.

Scholarships enable many athletes to obtain a college education. Bob Skoronski, of Derby Connecticut, and Coach Bernie Crimmins discuss scholarship requirements.

competitive sports.

Perhaps the most significant periods the player spent at I.U. were his freshman and senior years. Playing on the freshman team, he eagerly anticipated the day he would become a varsity player. He worked hard as a freshman running offensive against the varsity team. Fall training ended in November. For the next few months, he concentrated on his academic studies.

After the strenuous season, Bob settles down to another program.

ROTC affords training similar to athletics—discipline, form.

Hand-ball is good exercise, but a rub down is sure relaxing after the workout. The trials of training. The stadium holds happy memories too.

February ended, Spring training began. The squad began conditioning—playing handball and basketball, running the stadium steps. Now members of the varsity team, they began to practice six days a week. June arrived—school ended . . . Summer conditioning again. On September 1st the team reported back to campus for pre-season practice—double sessions daily for three hours each until classes began. Night meetings were frequent . . . defenses were studied . . . movies of opponents were shown . . . scouting reports were discussed . . . then, long months of hard work began to pay off. Donning their helmets, the new varsity men rushed onto the field for the first big game of the season . . . some played in the game . . . others did not get their chance that time . . . all had one thought in mind . . . to fight for the glory of I.U.

Four long years these Fighting Hoosiers fought. They fought hard on the field and worked hard at their studies. For many of them their labors will reward them handsomely in the years to come. For many, their football days are over. A few will go on to play pro-ball.

Lad-lass rendezvous. It is coke time, talk time for Bob and coed Ruth Ann Asher.

Step lightly. It's up and down, day in, day out.

Games were won and games were lost in this passing parade of the world of sports. Ohio University, Michigan State, Notre Dame, Iowa, Michigan, Northwestern, Ohio State and Purdue—a worthy succession of opponents for a worthy team. How much fight went into those last few inches to the goal posts . . . and how many tears were shed when we didn't make them? How often did they play their hearts out to win back the Old Oaken Bucket from Purdue . . . and how often did they share their bitter disappointment in defeat?

Looking back on his four years at Indiana, it is difficult to realize that it is all over. No more calisthenics, no more Summer conditioning, no more running the stadium steps, and no more triumphant Saturdays at Memorial Stadium. The final Purdue game is history and the senior is on his way out, making way for underclassmen who seek their claim to gridiron fame.

Practice is the life blood of a winning team. It is exhausting, at times almost more than even trained muscles can take, but that extra touchdown makes the work worthwhile.

Some of us draw a line between the persons who attend regular session or the Summer session only.

Each Summer numerous students enroll in the Indiana University Summer School. They come to ease the load next Fall . . . to graduate earlier . . . or just to have fun.

There is no rushing to classes in the Summer. Those who are gaining extra hours have learned the art of being a Summer student. They know where to study . . . cool corners on campus, shady nooks by the Jordan, or a tub full of water with a fan blowing.

The heat causes conversation. Every one offers his ideas on how to evade a sun-stroke . . . an afternoon at the quarries or a ride in the country are favorites. But all are convinced that the sun's bright face helps create a friendly atmosphere on the Summer campus.

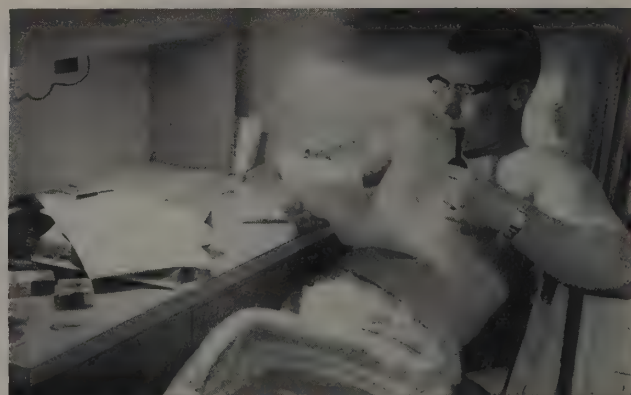

Cool and refreshed in the morning, the students gladly took 7:30's to escape the inevitable.

Heat . . . irrepressible and unquenchable. . .

Students endeavored to concentrate on higher learning.

Summer theatre was one of the highlights of the Summer Session.

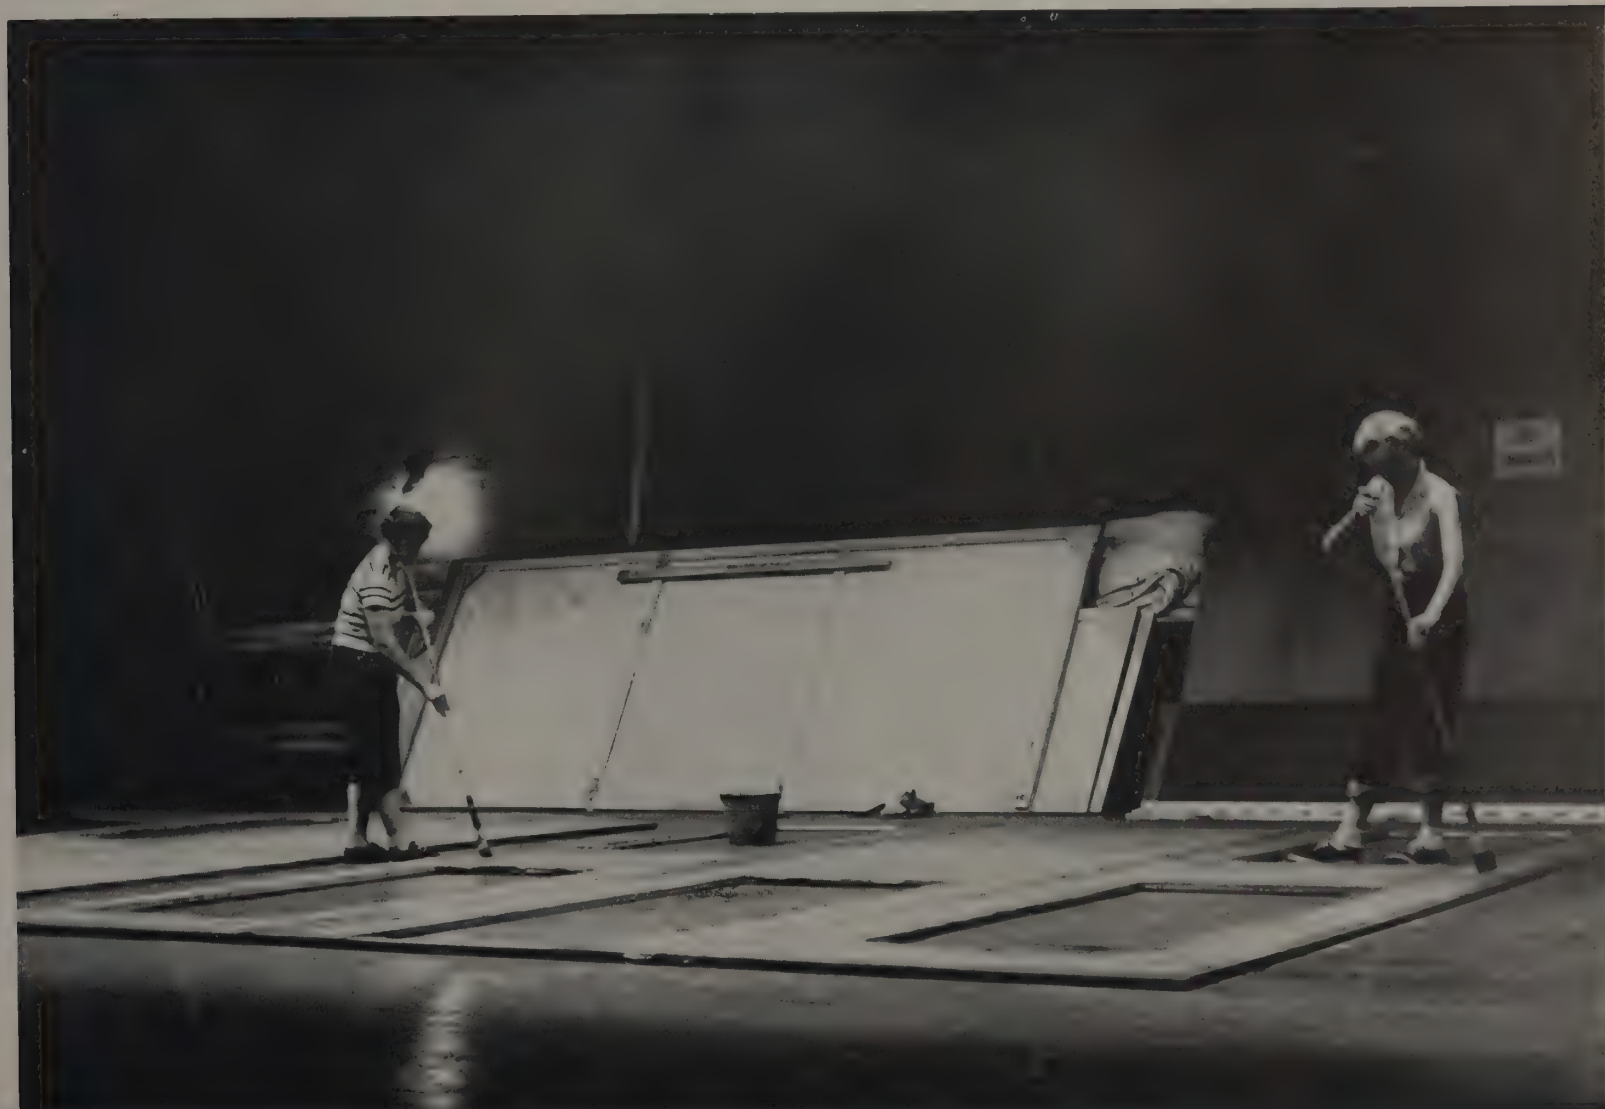

Summer heat didn't discourage rehearsals.

Talent thrives during the Summer session, and especially last Summer. Brown County Playhouse presented excellent shows with its Summer stock, while the School of Music produced Oklahoma and Wonderful Town.

Flocks of people travel to the campus and Brown County to enjoy these cultural advantages. Cast members of musicals and plays put much work into their respective parts, while also carrying a load of subjects. As outsiders, the audience views a performance, forgetting the pressure placed on the cast. But these students are in show business . . . and love it.

The night gave forth sets and props to design and paint . . . turning canvas and wood into backgrounds for a Summer Musical.

While Mom and Dad labored over studies and jobs. . . .

the children met . . . played . . . and had their friendly arguments. . . .

oblivious to all . . . entranced in their own world of enjoyment.

Mounds of dirt and pipe confronted the students, stopping all shortcuts to classes.

Students were awakened by the rat-a-tat-tat of construction workers digging ditches to lay pipes for the new heating system. After the first weeks, these sounds became a part of the usual din, and thoughts were turned to the anticipation of warm buildings for the frosty days next Winter.

However, the machine noises did not constitute the only construction difficulties. Pleasant paths were demolished, a dust film was in the air, or when the rains fell . . . mud, plain, sloshy, I.U. mud, which is familiar to all.

Even with its trials, Summer session is fun. Children of students on campus, perhaps teachers studying for their Masters degree, have a gay time. When the last test is over, and bags are packed, roommates may agree, "We'll be back next Summer!"

Finishing touches were put on the new Women's dorm.

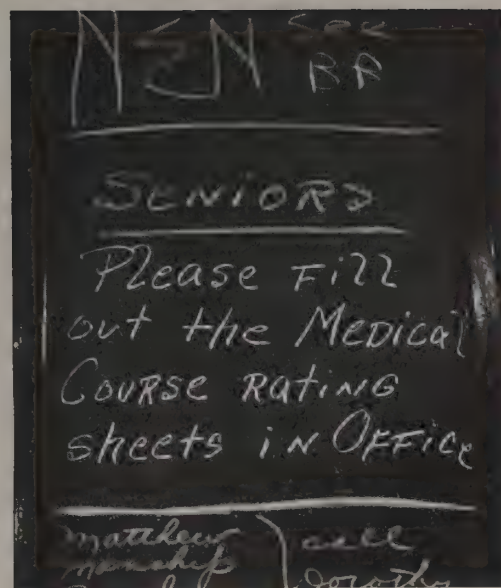

A pilot's eye view of the Indianapolis campus. From the students' point of view a mighty fine place, a campus away from campus.

Others make the difference between those who attend on the Bloomington campus or those who go to extension centers or the Indianapolis Medical Center.

Life—efficiency, skill, and time—the importance of a room.

Instructions. Despite the printing press, radio, etc. the blackboard still serves a purpose.

Under construction. The Medical Science Building will provide additional classroom space.

Medical Center

The quiet of hospital halls . . . the clean odors of ether and alcohol . . . the endless vigil of a supervisor. It is in these surroundings that students at the I.U. Medical Center in Indianapolis receive their training.

In addition to hospital experience, students at the medical center attend classes ranging from applied psychology to surgical nursing. Thus while actual experience is being gained, the students are able to continue in their academic studies at the Center.

There are many areas of study which provide opportunity for theory and practice. Among these are medicine, surgery, obstetrics, and pediatrics. Psychiatry is also offered and, for some students, an elective in public health is available.

These varied courses aid the student in his evaluation of his aptitude and interest in medicine. This may also help him to determine what branch of the medical profession to strive for.

On her way to the day's duties this student nurse also finds herself well on the way to success.

Approximately one-half of the students' training at the Medical Center consists of class lectures. Discussion groups and individual projects, the use of modern audio-visual aids in the form of moving pictures, charts and slides, comprise the theoretical aspect of the training.

There are also clinical classes conducted in the hospitals. These give students an opportunity to observe actual clinical cases and to assist in diagnosis and treatment.

Emphasis is placed on the appreciation of expert care and the recognition of a patient as an individual. Preventative medicine and the necessity of building a responsible community attitude toward an adequate health program are stressed as part of the public service aspect of medical training.

Good morning Doctor . . . and in this case teacher . . . is the standard greeting in the medical classroom.

Rest comes where you find it when long hours of study and duty keep you up all night.

Relaxation after a strenuous day on the wards or in surgery is the element that makes it possible to keep up the demanding program.

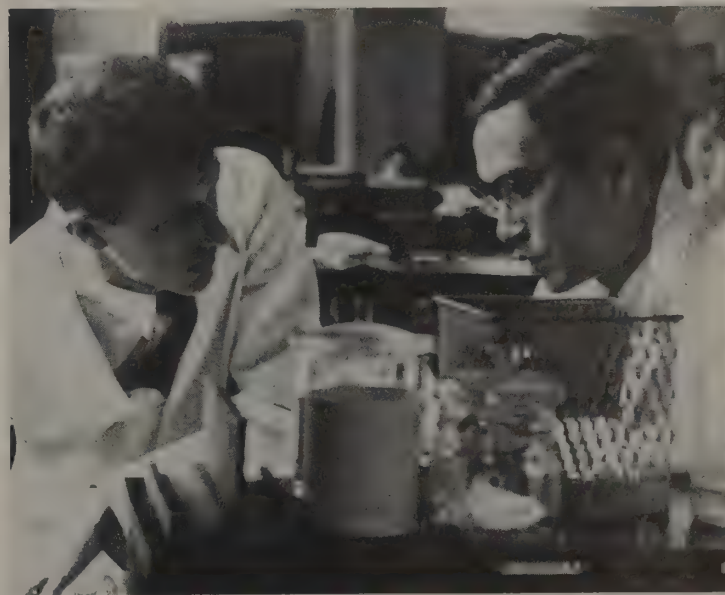

Students in pre-med, after completing a three year course on the Bloomington campus, have three more years of schooling at the Medical Center. Training is then completed with internship and special training at various hospitals throughout the state. After one or two years on the I.U. campus, students in pre-nursing also transfer to Indianapolis, where they attend the nurses training center.

When hours and studies seem especially long and difficult, students can relax at the Center's Union Building by swimming in the pool.

It's in the bottle. Med students contemplate some specimens.

This won't hurt. Dental students learn techniques while the trusting patient gets special attention.

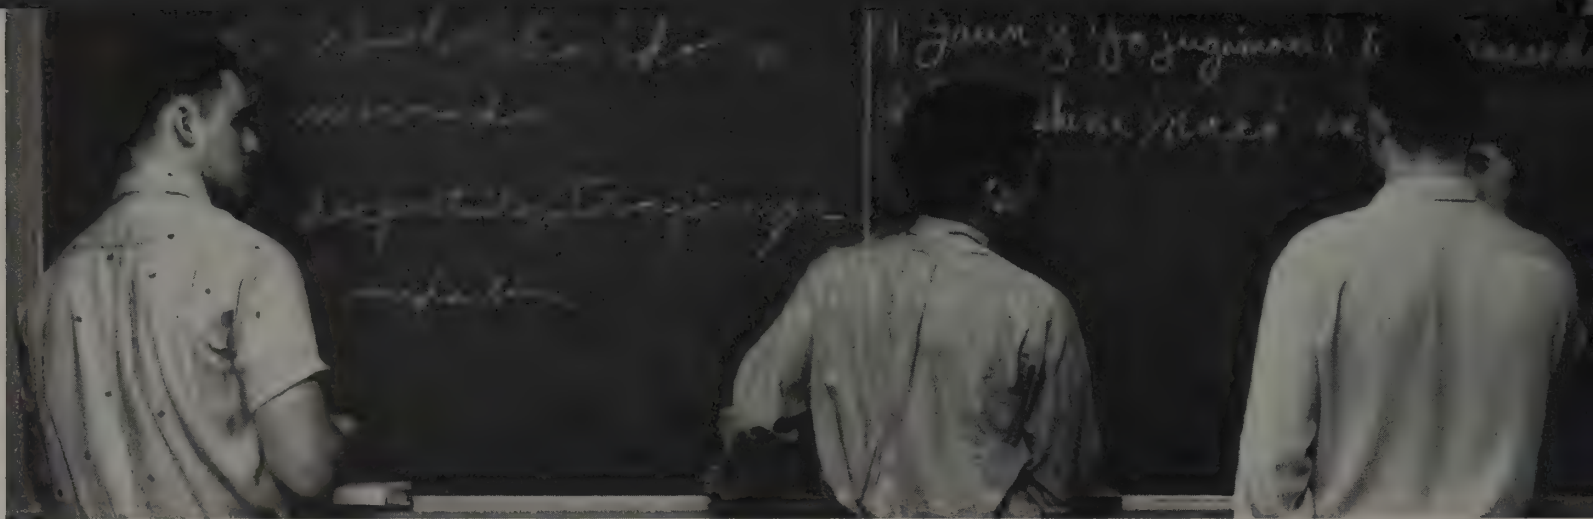

The solution to many problems is found in the comparison of notes.

Tricks of the trade . . . technicians learn by doing.

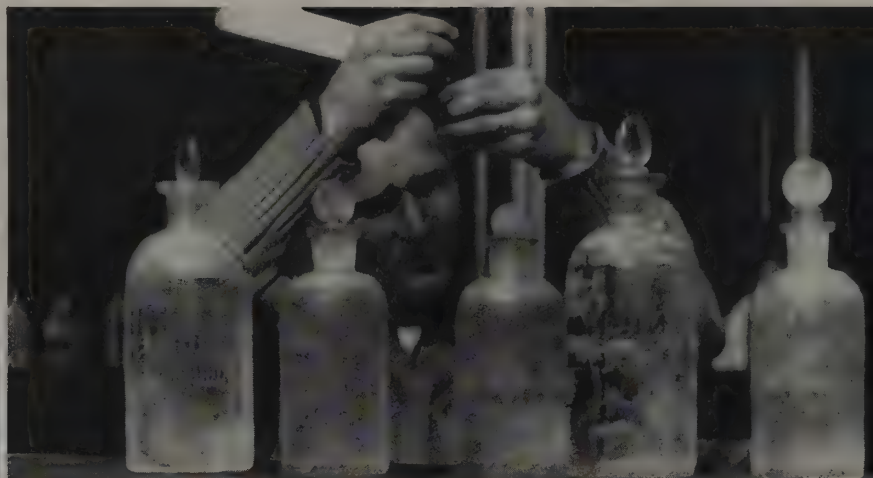

Spanish . . . German . . . French . . . a variety of languages being taught to coincide with contraction of distances in the world.

Like radiating fingers of a star, I.U. Extension branches reach throughout the state. Indianapolis Extension Center has been serving inhabitants of Marion County since 1912. Meeting all facility and scholastic requirements of the state, the Extension strives to provide campus advantages coupled with convenience of location. No one can appreciate this opportunity more than those who have benefited from the Center's program.

Among the tombs of books, one can find forgotten sources of information.

Indianapolis Center

Concentration and exactness are required when experimenting with various chemicals.

A break between classes provides relaxation in addition to the exchange of ideas.

The center's bookstore provides an easy arrangement for students to get needed supplies.

Successful student activities at the Extension are correlated with those of other I.U. students through the guidance of a Student Union Board located at Indianapolis Medical Center. A spirit of fellowship and unity is achieved through the efforts of instructors and mutual cooperation of the students. Having achieved this aim, the Extension looks in only one direction—higher. Next year, the Indianapolis Extension Center celebrates an anniversary—an anniversary of accomplishment for Indiana University and the state as a whole.

A lone student wearily trudges to his evening meal . . . later to return to an evening class.

Gary Center

Unlimited opportunities—inquire within.

One of the largest of nine I.U. centers throughout the state is located in Gary. Its office, open 63 hours a week, offers unlimited services to the community. Any individual interested in furthering his education may acquire 60 hours credit at the Center or through correspondence courses given by the extension.

As added inducement, Service Scholarships offer financial aid to two graduates of each high school in Gary on the basis of scholastic ability and financial need. If the student needs continued aid after finishing the extension course, two other scholarships are offered to help him continue his studies elsewhere. The Gary Indiana University Alumni Club Scholarship annually awards full tuition to a student who completes 20 credit hours at the center with a 1.5 average. The other, offered by the Sam Lakin Foundation, is awarded to one junior and one senior wishing to finish a four-year course at a college or university.

Working steadily toward its goal of improvement, the Gary Center now plans to erect a new building.

Library staff—unnoticed, hard working, essential.

The Student Social Club is organized to provide various activities for student interests. In addition, a newspaper, The Ingot, is produced by the journalism class, providing a media which links the student group together. Another organization is the Student Faculty Discussion Group, whose function is to work toward better teacher-student relations.

Education in many sizes—all the same—learning at I.U.

South Bend Mishawaka Center

All work and no—?

Hours not counted when credits are handed out.

Studies pay dividends. Most persons learn in time.

Familiar poses, familiar setting—regardless of size, a class.

From business to teaching, the program at the South Bend-Mishawaka Center has blossomed over the years into 125 courses, varying enough to include graduate, undergraduate, and teaching credits. Students have helped the advancement through a newly formed Student Council. The most recent project is plans for a new library, so modern and efficient that it will utilize the Congressional Classification System, have booths for recording, and will contain microfilm rooms.

Class individuals vary—teachers vary—goals remain the same.

Calumet Center

Just as opportunity is a symbol of America, so I.U. extensions are a symbol of opportunity. One prime example is our Calumet Center in East Chicago. Most individuals here are raising their own families and have no time to take part in school activities, yet schooling is provided for all, regardless of their obligations at home. The Center offers up to two years of college work. If an individual is unable to attend even the Extension, instruction at both college and high school level is provided through correspondence.

Fort Wayne Center

One of the nine extension centers belonging to Indiana University is the extension in Fort Wayne. Students come to this center from areas surrounding Ft. Wayne, and from the city itself. Classes are offered both during the day and in the evenings. This enables the students who work at different times throughout the day to attend some classes. These classes are offered not only to students seeking a college degree but to the adult citizens of Fort Wayne who may wish to enroll in a class for enjoyment or for additional knowledge.

At the Fort Wayne Center, scholarship and service to the University are recognized each year at the Student-Faculty Banquet. The students who have contributed much to the student body and University, and those on the Dean's Honor list are given recognition at this annual dinner.

This year, in addition to the many student activities, the Center was the co-sponsor of two free series of lectures presented to the Fort Wayne citizens: The Nineteenth-Century American Men of Letters and Problems of the Senior Citizen.

Doorstep to a future of advancement.

Odds are what count—in any game.

Leisure time—welcome in any school.

The sound of music drifting from a phonograph . . . sandwiches, cokes, and potato chips . . . companionable laughter . . . the swish of net and the gleam of swirling taffeta on a dance floor. Blend these sights and sounds together, and you will have a picture of the social events that take place at the I.U. Center located in Fort Wayne. These different activities are largely planned by the Student Congress. There are record dances, card parties, or perhaps both, planned about twice a month. Highlighting the list, however, are the formal dances, one of which is during the Christmas season, the other taking place in the Spring.

There are also organized activities at the Center, such as the FTA, the Student Chorus, and for those who have journalistic ambitions, the I. U. Student.

The welcome grin . . . a way to understanding.

University builds . . . Indiana thrives.

Earlham Center

Another of Indiana University's extensions is located in Richmond, Indiana. The southerly situated center has its home within the confines of Earlham in Richmond. This center is a joint organization sponsored by Earlham College and Indiana University. Students who are enrolled at either school will have their credit hours accepted by either Earlham College or Indiana University. January of this year marked the tenth anniversary of the combined schools.

On each evening when classes meet, the Richmond Center holds an informal "coffee club." This is a very popular function, with faculty and students participating. The coffee break promotes closer relationships between the faculty and students, and among the students themselves.

Students have no monopoly . . . everyone works.

The old supports the new . . . education endures time.

Vincennes Center

The Indiana Extension in Vincennes has an arrangement similar to the Richmond Center. The Vincennes Extension conducts its classes in the buildings of Vincennes University. The credits of both schools are interchangeable to give students the best selection of classes.

Because the enrollment is rather small at the Center, all social events are sponsored by Vincennes University. Students at the Center are welcome to try out for any University drama or to work on such social activities as dances. The students from both schools work together and enjoy attending the various functions throughout the school year.

Boress, Center style. The word and the custom are just as much a part of the day as on the campus.

The practical aspect of education is particularly important in the extension center where adult education is a major part of the program.

It's like this. The sage words of the professor go into student notebooks.

A little studying never hurt anyone. Study rooms are usually filled as students spend free periods absorbing a few facts.

Jeffersonville Center

The hustle and bustle of older students returning to school and new students entering a different life is the same at the I.U. Southeastern Center campus as it is in Bloomington. The new semester began this year with many activities. A welcome to its 23 new members by Alpha Delta Kappa, the Center's honorary scholastic fraternity, headed the list. Later in the semester, the fraternity sponsored a dance, the Yuletide Folies, set in a cabaret atmosphere which was complete with a student talent review.

There are many other activities such as the Student Council, the Psychology Club, and the German Club, which present many events for the students. This year the German Club held an art exhibit which was displayed in the Center Library.

Supplies and textbooks are purchased in the extension bookstore.

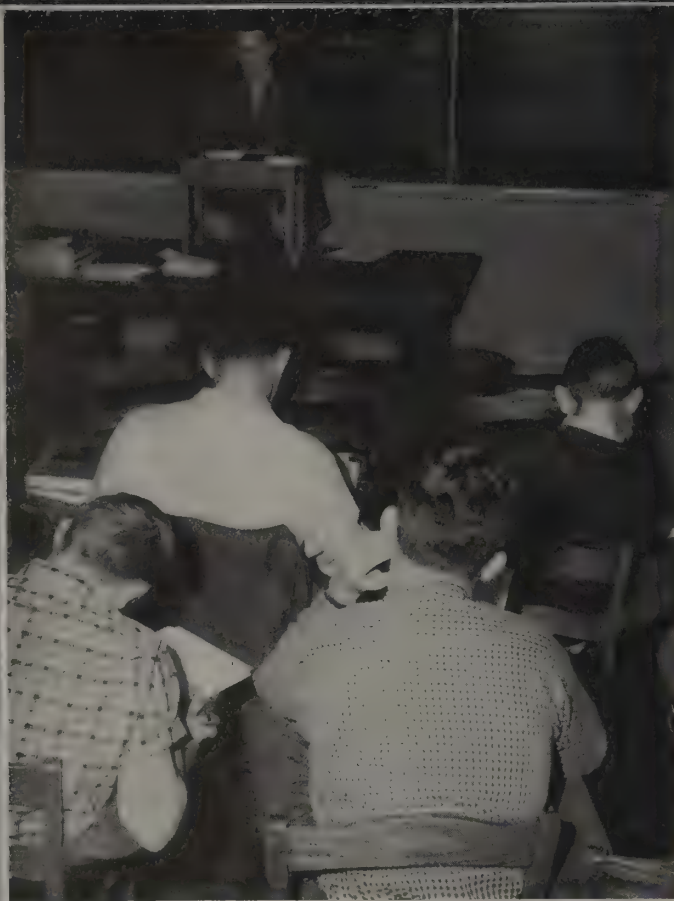

Lab projects occupy the time of many Center students. Well-equipped labs are found in most of the I.U. extensions.

Jeffersonville Center provides the opportunity for higher education to Hoosiers in the Southeastern part of the state.

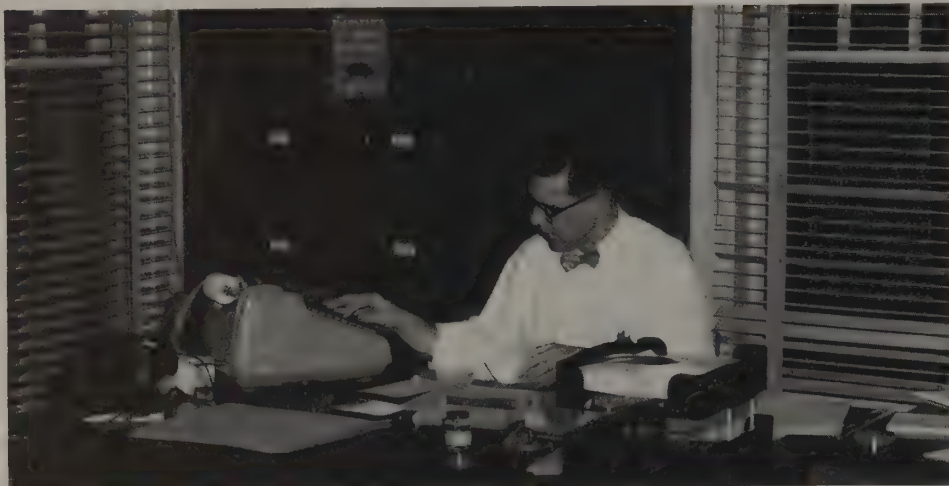

Night classes are a special feature of an extension center.

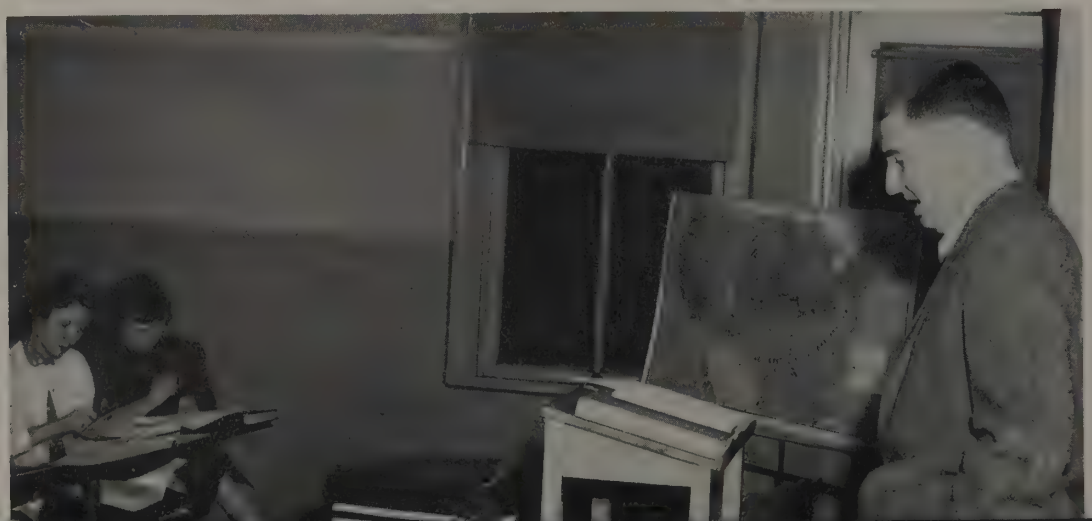

I.U. at Kokomo looks a little different than the campus, but it is doing essentially the same job.

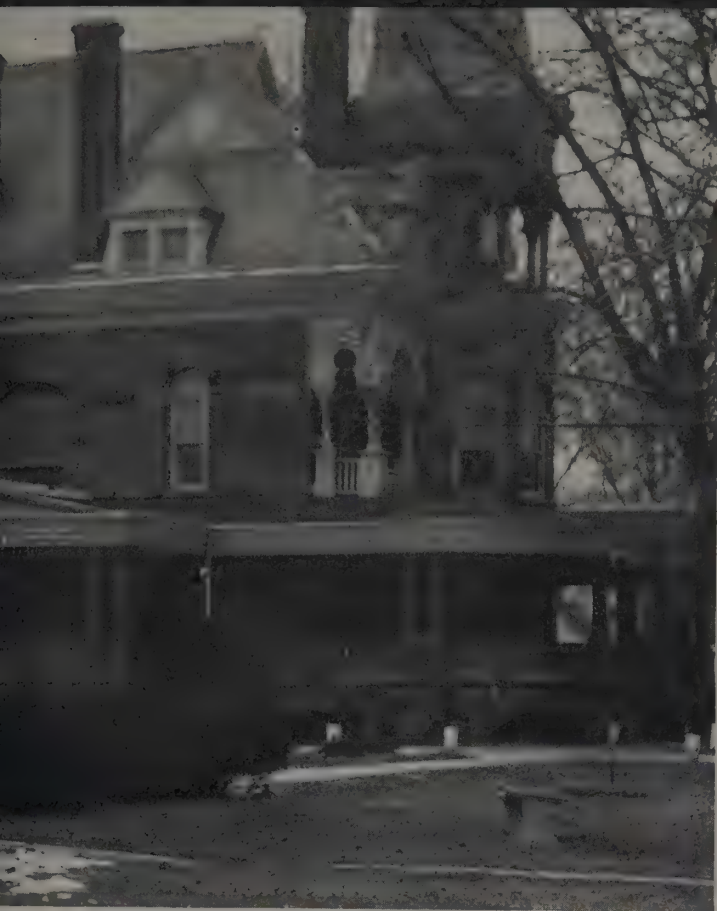

The administrative angle of an extension is handled by extension directors and personnel who in turn report to the Adult Education division of the University.

From the book and with the added aid of lecture notes the student finds that some knowledge is bound to rub off.

Kokomo Center

The Indiana Extension at Kokomo is a good example of the increasing trend toward higher education. Started in 1946 with an enrollment of 118, the number of students has increased to 722 over the ten-year period. The reactivation of the Bunker Hill Air Force Base and the industrial growth of the Kokomo region will undoubtedly increase the Center's enrollment even more.

The Center offers courses applicable to a degree as well as adult education non-credit courses. This is to serve any member in the community who wishes to broaden his education, as well as the student who is getting a college education.

The Kokomo Extension is affiliated with the Kokomo Civic Theatre, giving students who are interested much practical experience in theatre work.

"A good Book . . ." is the precious lifeblood of a center too. Excellent library facilities offer the opportunity for extensive research in many fields.

Financially we manage through money from home . . .

The urgent call, the pleading letter, the eternal cry of the college student for an extra dollar from an advance on the allowance is still heard from the wooded campus in Bloomington. Many students supplement the money from home in many ways and thus help relax the burden on parents. At some time though everyone has to send up a distress signal for some special extra that costs more than careful budgeting allows.

The value of words—a hopeful beginning, then—crossed fingers.

A warm day—time to buy teeshirts, magazines, or a new pen for a summer composition class. The I.U. Bookstore affords a chance to sell and earn.

...from Summer jobs,

Your orders please . . . a pleasant way to earn money for the coming school year.

If a person is good at saving money a Summer job can be the answer to the problem of finding enough dollars to continue college. Many students return to the same position every Summer and will work for the same firm when they graduate. Some attempt to correlate their work with their educational pursuits and thus strengthen their knowledge of a particular field.

Careful planning will permit the average student to put enough of the weekly pay check away so that they can pay for a large portion of their fees in the Fall. It may not be much fun to work at the time of year when others are vacationing, but its worth it.

VETERAN AFFAIRS

Greetings from Uncle Sam that are welcome.

... the G. I. Bill,

Red tape—bothersome yet worth the effort.

Anything like "K-rations"?

Waiting for a monthly check from the federal government is a favorite pastime for some 2,000 veterans of World War II and the Korean War. There are only 200 "old-timers" from World War II still collecting their stipend under the G.I. Bill at I.U. Korean vets promise to be around for some time.

The veteran has proved himself to be a good bet for graduation. For the most part they take education seriously and contribute much to the schools they attend.

The awaited manila envelope.

A resident scholarship holder learns the art of homemaking.

... and scholarships.

And one studies to get ahead.

Hard work and intelligence pay off in scholarships for literally thousands of I.U. students. Many of the grants are for students of certain communities. Others require that the student's father be a veteran of World War I or various other qualifications must be met. All of them require that a good grade average be maintained.

Byron Doenges, Director of Scholarships and Loans at the University, implements the vast scholarship program. The main difficulty seems to be that many scholarship funds are seldom used because students fail to apply for them.

Time out from book education for a little social education.

Keeping up with the news and the cartoons.

We are enrolled in many schools.

The College of Arts and Sciences is the largest division of Indiana University. This school has the responsibility of educating more students than the other eight schools combined. It has over thirty different departments and divisions ranging from chemistry to creative writing, art to anthropology, from which the students may choose their curriculum. A student in Arts and Sciences may receive either a B.A. or a B.S. degree upon graduation.

First requirement—be born with talent. Second—years of training. Then—perhaps success.

Arts and Sciences

Frank T. Gucker, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The College of Arts and Sciences boasts a capable and distinguished faculty, many of international fame. They are responsible for the exhibitions of the sciences and of the arts, lectures, and readings. They plan and direct the writers conference and the high school journalism institute. They serve in the capacity of advisers and counselors to the student body of Indiana University.

Many of the members of this faculty also do research for outside organizations and serve on state and national educational boards. Many are authors, foundation directors, and presidents of honoraries and clubs.

Equations solved, ability increased.

School of Business

Today, businessmen require more than mere get-up-and-go in their employees. Business and brains go together, often cemented by initiative. More than eight years before the United States achieved world economic leadership, Indiana University recognized the mounting importance of big business. Today, its complete program provides guidance and counseling services—internships with business organizations, a bureau of personnel placement, business research. The School of Business Library is one of the most complete in the country. I.U.'s business school has secured a place of prestige in the world of today, in the world of tomorrow.

A place for business. Students find the B. & E. library a good place to concentrate on the day's assignments.

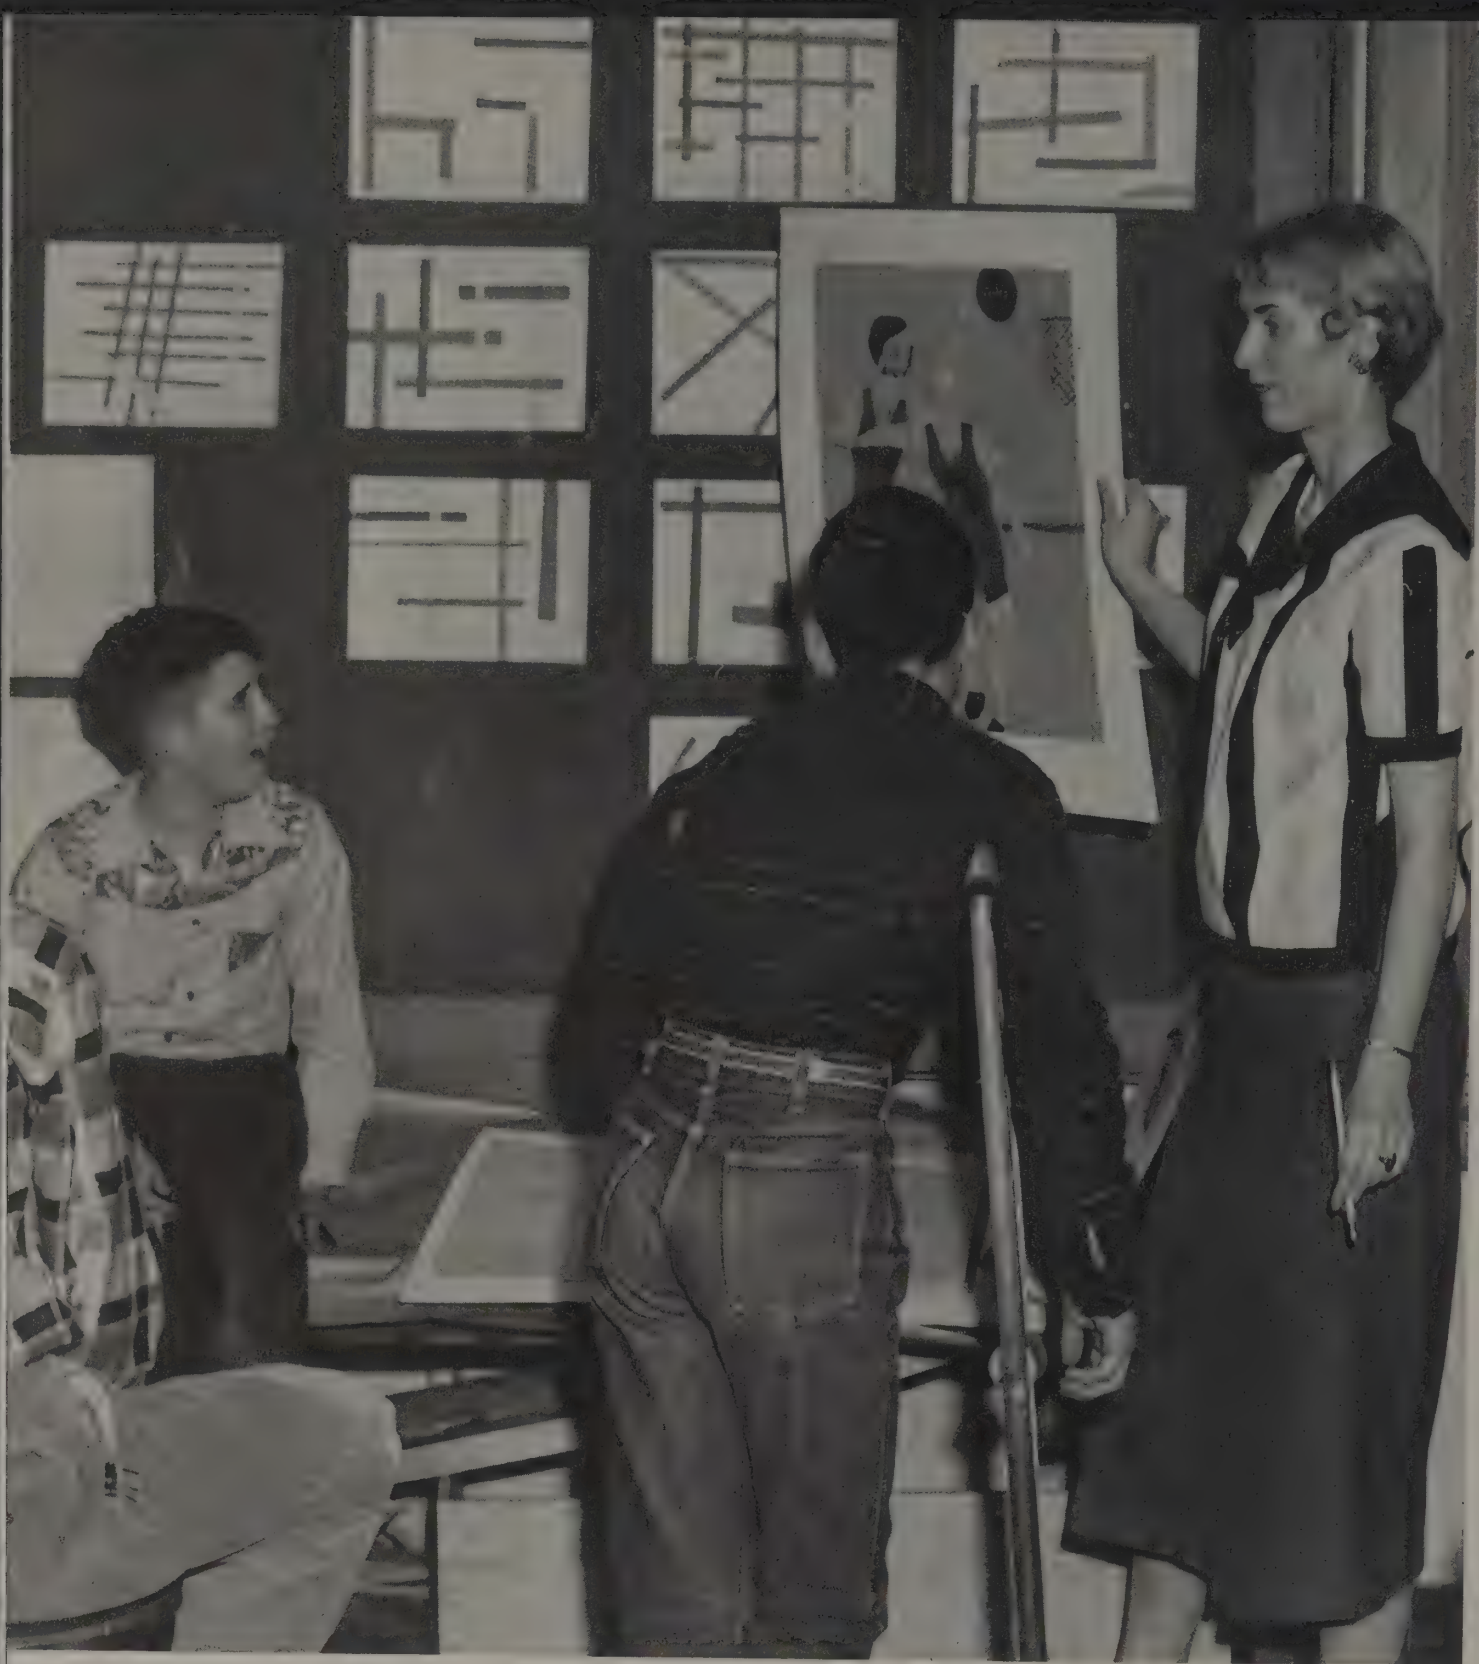

B. & E. Building—a beautiful fortress, a place of learning, a way of life.

Between classes, the hall of the B. & E. building buzzes with activity as students flock to and from classes.

Each day a new experience . . . each day a better understanding . . . each day more nearly a teacher.

School of Education

A child, a book, and a teacher is a combination that can do amazing things. The enrollment of children and the demand for teachers in the United States is increasing every year. The School of Education at Indiana is meeting this demand each day with many new courses.

One modern aid is student teaching, which supplies practical experience. During either the first or second semester of his senior year, the education major leaves I.U. to do his practice teaching and to use what he has learned the preceding years.

Elementary Teaching . . . definition for "Jack-of-all trades."

A boot to pull on . . . a shoelace to tie . . . a skinned knee to bandage . . . a smile on a round little face. Now you are in student teaching. Instead of reading books about teaching, and taking tests, you are applying the knowledge gained in formal college education. The goal is in sight. Soon you will have the full responsibility of teaching others.

Knowledge and a helping hand.

The modern Education Building contains the University grade and high school, as well as most of the education classes.

Contributions to I.U. cultural life are made by the School of Music in the form of operas and recitals.

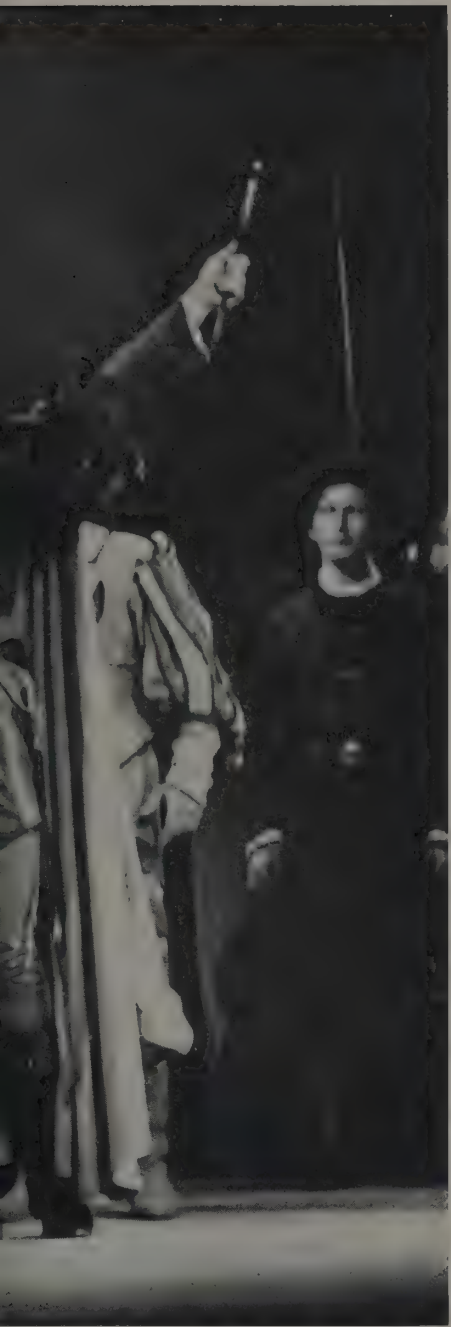

The Dean of the School of Music, Wilfred C. Bain.

Indiana University's School of Music, besides providing excellent training for future artistes, contributes to the cultural life of the University and the community as a whole. Under the direction of the capable and talented faculty, Faust, Figaro, The Bewitched Child came to life for us. Students sing, dance, act, play in the orchestra. Solos, ensembles, concerts, the Marching Hundred—the calendar is covered with School of Music programs.

The music library containing 198,000 books and compositions; the record library of 13,000; the band library of over 2,000 arrangements—this is the raw material turned to music magic by the students and faculty of I.U.

School of Law

I.U. School of Law crosses the threshold of time. Modern facilities bridge the gap from past to future accomplishments.

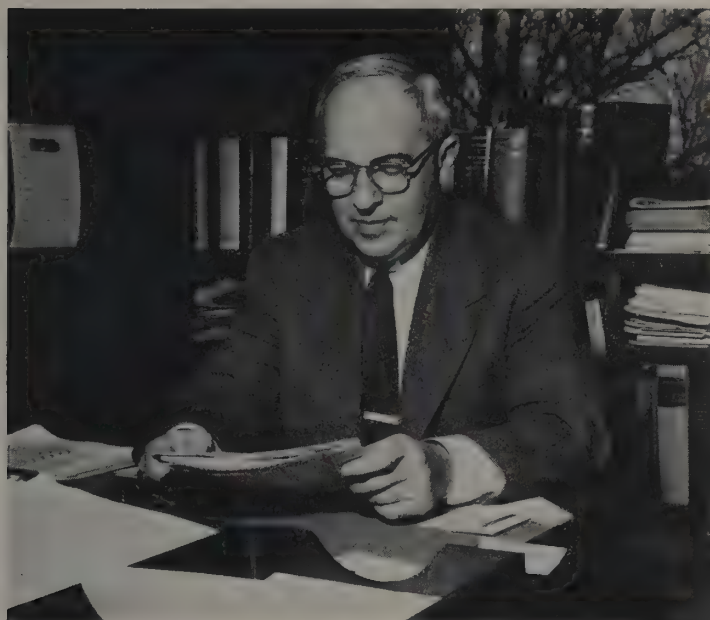

Maxwell Hall—the ambitious lawyers-or-bust spend more time within its walls, engrossed among its books, than in their own rooms. The building is old and shabby, the lighting is not the best, the bookshelves are overflowing, but Maxwell Hall is still The Place. The traditions, the memories still remain there.

The new law building is almost ready to receive the law students, but it is still just a connecting group of limestone walls, the future home of future barristers.

Time moves by, a prime is passed—respect remains.

Dean Wallace—Chief Justice of Learning.

The lawyer of tomorrow stands on the threshold of a big world . . . of a progressing nation . . . of never-ending opportunities. To achieve success in this world and nation and to take full advantage of these opportunities he must have a good education. The high standards maintained in the Indiana University School of Law assure him of this. It is possible to apply for a law degree at Indiana with a pre-law background taken from either the School of Business or the School of Arts and Sciences, or to enter Law School at the end of three years of general study.

Law courses are offered at the Indianapolis division of the School of Law where a student can also fulfill the requirements for a degree.

Get that bird. Badminton is one of the indoor activities of HPER.

The School of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation is the newest of the schools of the University. It offers work toward a Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Education, Health and Safety, Recreation, and Public Health. In addition work toward a Master of Science degree is offered in the first three of the above areas.

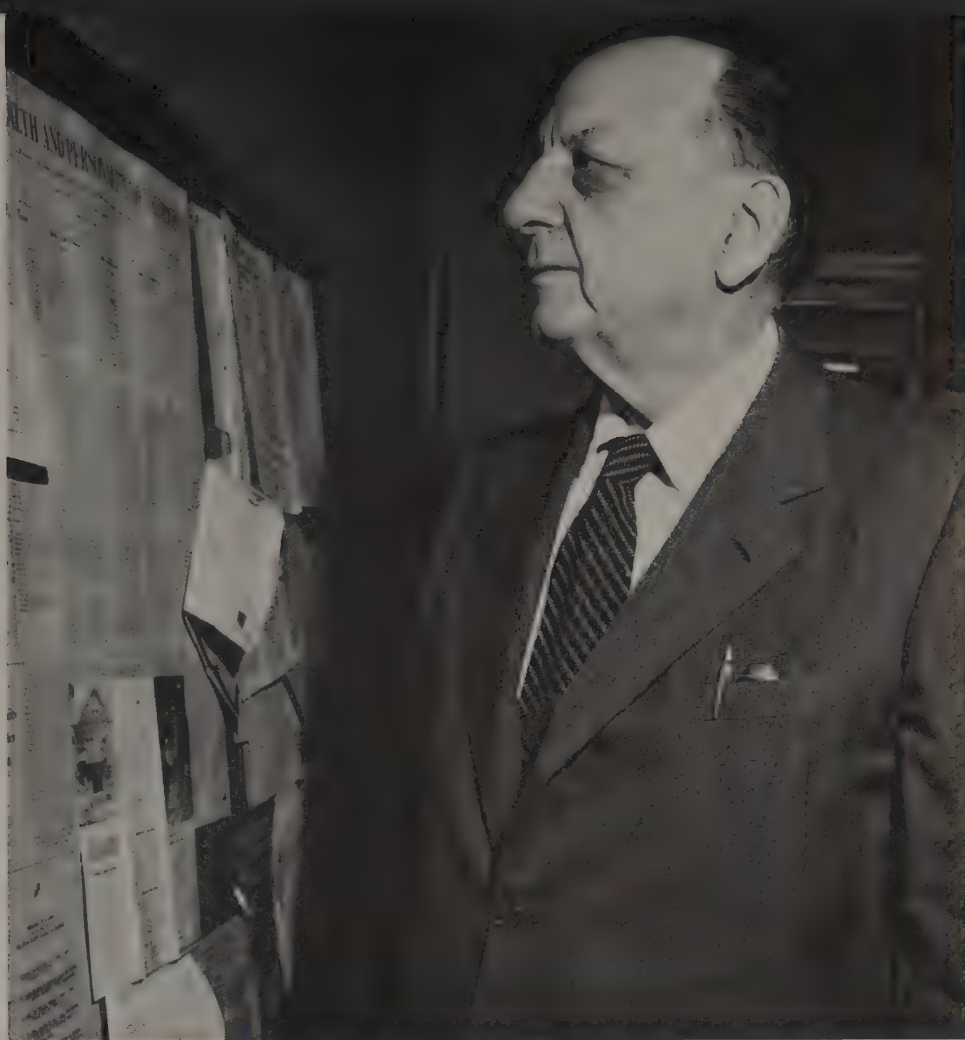

Among the major functions which the school performs are: providing physical education courses for undergraduate students of I.U., organizing and supervising intramural sports programs, training athletes and athletic coaches, and co-operating with the Department of Public Health of the School of Medicine in training public health educators for public health work.

The School also sponsors institutes dealing with various phases of recreation and a School and Community Health Workshop.

Woman has always practiced gentle witchery in obtaining beauty. Forever putting trust in magic potions and exotic formulae, she mixes a potent brew. A touch of black . . . a dab of red . . . and, like some alchemist of old, she creates her spell . . .

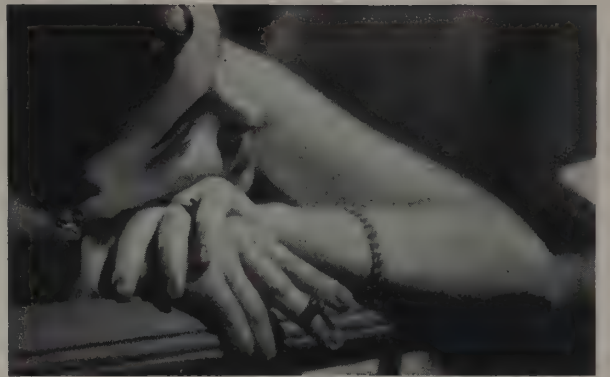

To aid the study of beauty we present . . . a photographic essay on five girls at I.U. Together they sum up, and symbolize, the collegiate good looks of our coeds.

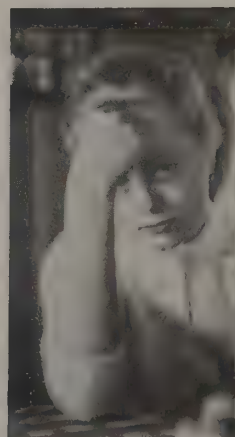

The camera looks on this glittering facade with a harsh, unemotional eye. It is a brutal test . . . These girls pass it. From a look of formal elegance, to a pensive, prayerful moment, they present an ever changing, exciting image.

The others . . .

. . . at I.U. are the generators of planning who create the power for operation; the conduits of knowledge who transmit fact and ideas; the cogs of detail and service who make it possible for the bigger wheels to turn. The administrator, the professor, and the staff employe are all a part of the complex mechanism called higher education.

They are persons of fame and of obscurity; keepers of the keys to success and the guidebook of service. They explore with scientific coolness and counsel with human warmth. Their contribution to the world extends to as many persons as I.U. alumni meet and as far as the graduates wander. They influence a generation and finally reap the harvest of a more enlightened age.

President Emeritus

William Lowe Bryan

The following is an excerpt from the eulogy presented by President Herman B Wells at funeral services for President Emeritus William Lowe Bryan Wednesday morning, November 23, 1955.

"In one of his speeches Dr. Bryan said that Immanuel Kant, who never journeyed farther than twenty miles from his University of Koenigsberg, had influenced Europe as profoundly as did Napoleon. It has always seemed to me that there is a striking parallel between the lives of the German philosopher working at Koenigsberg and the Hoosier philosopher at Indiana. For Dr. Bryan, likewise, chose to make his contribution within a few miles of his birthplace, resisting all persuasions to leave. Yet, he was able not only to build a great university, but also to influence the course of development of America's unique system of higher education."

William Lowe Bryan, born on a farm near Bloomington on November 11, 1860, died in his home on the University campus November 21, 1955.

President Emeritus Bryan began his service to I.U. on January 1, 1885 when he became an instructor. He became Vice President in 1893 and President in 1902. He served as President until his retirement in 1937. Dr. Bryan lived at I.U. as President Emeritus until his death.

He was the architect of the present-day University structure. Only the School of Law was started before he became President and only the School of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation has been founded since he retired.

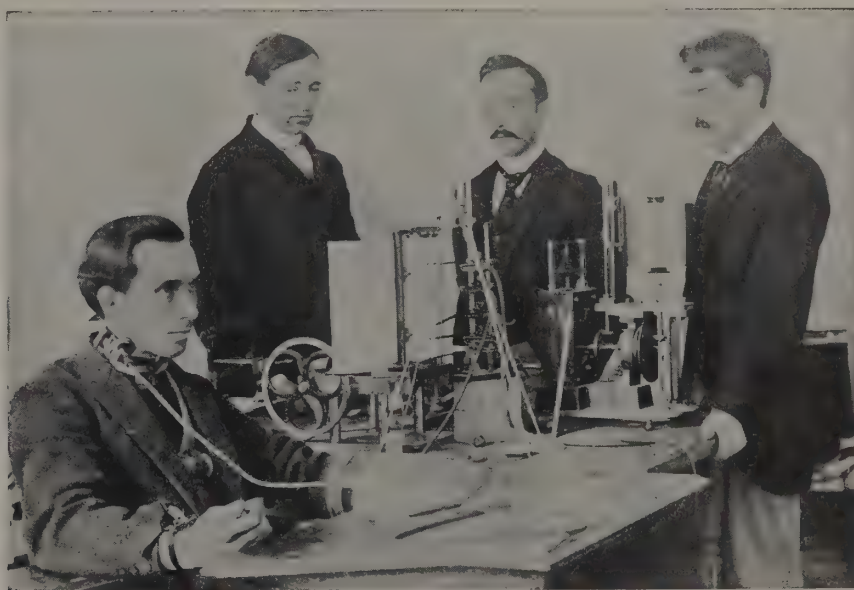

Dr. Bryan personified all that we honor and love in our Alma Mater. In the words of President Wells, "Sharing his faith in the University, we believe that its life will be long and fruitful, that its greatest achievements are ahead. Yet we can predict that in the future no other man will contribute more to its greatness."

Work to be done, and Dr. Bryan led the students to Dunn orchard on October 25, 1915 to help clear the site for the new fieldhouse.

Dr. Bryan throws out the first ball in April, 1948 to formally open the I.U. varsity baseball season.

President Herman B Wells

The President

Under the guidance of President Herman B Wells, Indiana University has developed into an educational institution of international note and importance. Through the expansion of curricula, the building of a distinguished faculty, and an increase in research activity the President has for eighteen years continued to strengthen the University and its services to the people of Indiana.

Though busy with university affairs, he also serves the national government in foreign affairs and takes an active part in banking and business. Dr. Wells was elected again this year as vice-president of the governing board of the International Association of Universities. His stature as an educator and his wide activity and interest in national and international affairs mark him as a man whom any university could be proud to call Prexy.

Board of Trustees

The Board of Trustees, the administrative body of the University, is composed of eight alumni who are citizens of Indiana. Five are appointed by the State Board of Education with the approval of the Governor. Three are elected by alumni.

They gather at least once a month from all over the state—Fort Wayne to Washington—to help in the planning of such projects as the new athletic building program, to make decisions in appointments of new faculty members and division heads, or to give their approval of programs recommended by administrators, faculty, and students.

Herman T. Briscoe

J. A. Franklin

John W. Ashton

Vice Presidents

Each of our four vice-presidents is responsible for one area of administrative work.

Dr. Herman T. Briscoe, Vice-President and Dean of the Faculties, is the co-ordinator of the activities of the University's nine schools.

Mr. J. A. Franklin, Vice-President and Treasurer, is responsible for all the financial operations of the University. One of his prime concerns since 1934 has been the building and remodeling program of the University.

Educator, author, Shakespearean scholar, Dr. John W. Ashton is Vice-President and Dean of Student and Educational Services. He acts as advisor to the health service, the counseling service, and the University publications.

Vice-President and Director of Administrative Studies; and Dean of the School of Education, Dr. Wendell W. Wright in addition to his duties at the University acts as an advisor in educational problems throughout the nation.

Wendell W. Wright

Counseling

Dr. Robert Shaffer, Dean of Students, has done much to further the counseling system at Indiana University. Before coming to I.U., he worked with the National Staff of the Boy Scouts of America. Then in 1941 he became guidance officer in I.U.'s School of Business. Since that time, Dean Shaffer has taken an active part in helping the I.U. students. Besides being head of our student body, he is also President of American Personnel and Guidance Association.

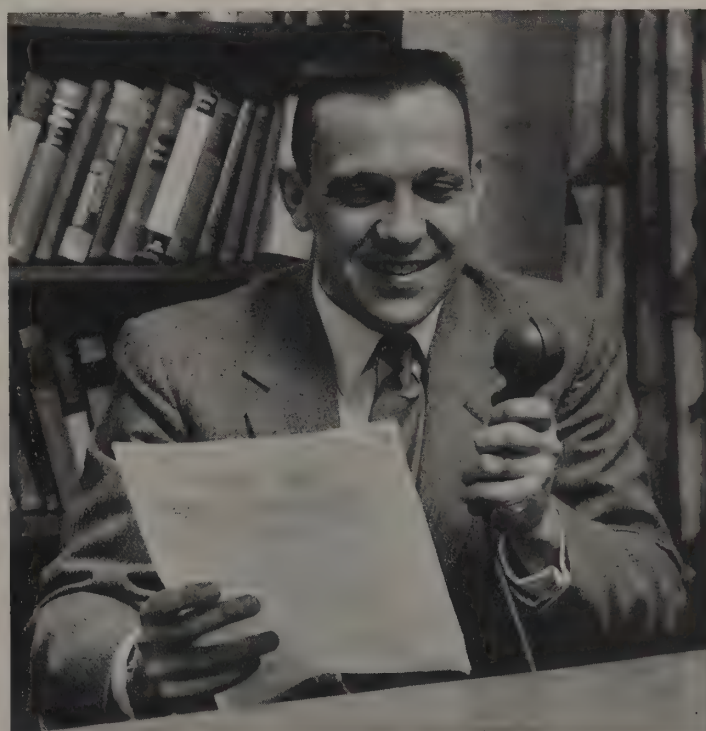

Although I.U. has a large enrollment, Freshmen never need feel lost in the shuffle. Undergraduate students conduct an orientation program for the freshmen their first week at college. Campus geography, regulations and customs are explained. Then Jr. Division counseling takes charge. Help in balancing academic work is given to each student individually. Professors take time off from their regular duties to make certain that the new students get a good start in college. In the dorms, a counselor is provided for each fifty students.

Robert H. Shaffer—Dean of Students

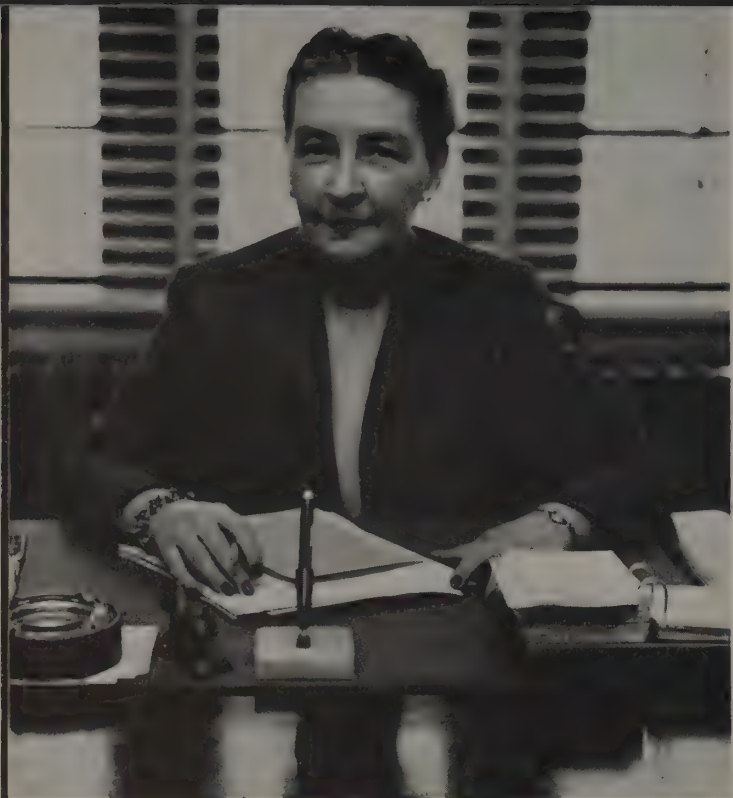

L. R. Dowling—Assistant Dean of Students

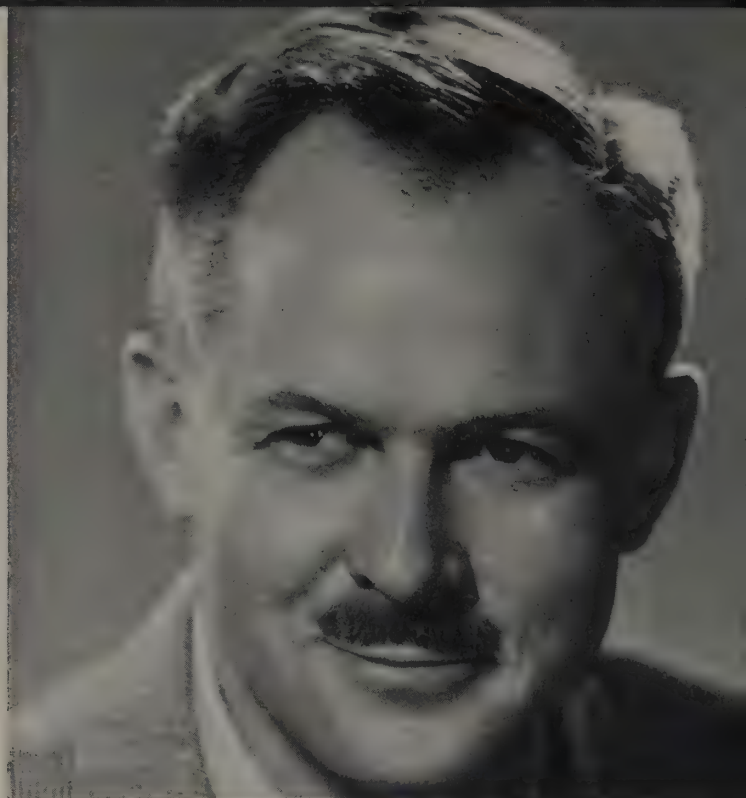

Mr. Martinson—Director of Counseling

Mrs. Eunice Roberts, Assistant Dean of the Faculties, and Director of Women's Educational Programs, correlates the curricula of the many schools to the interest of the women students.

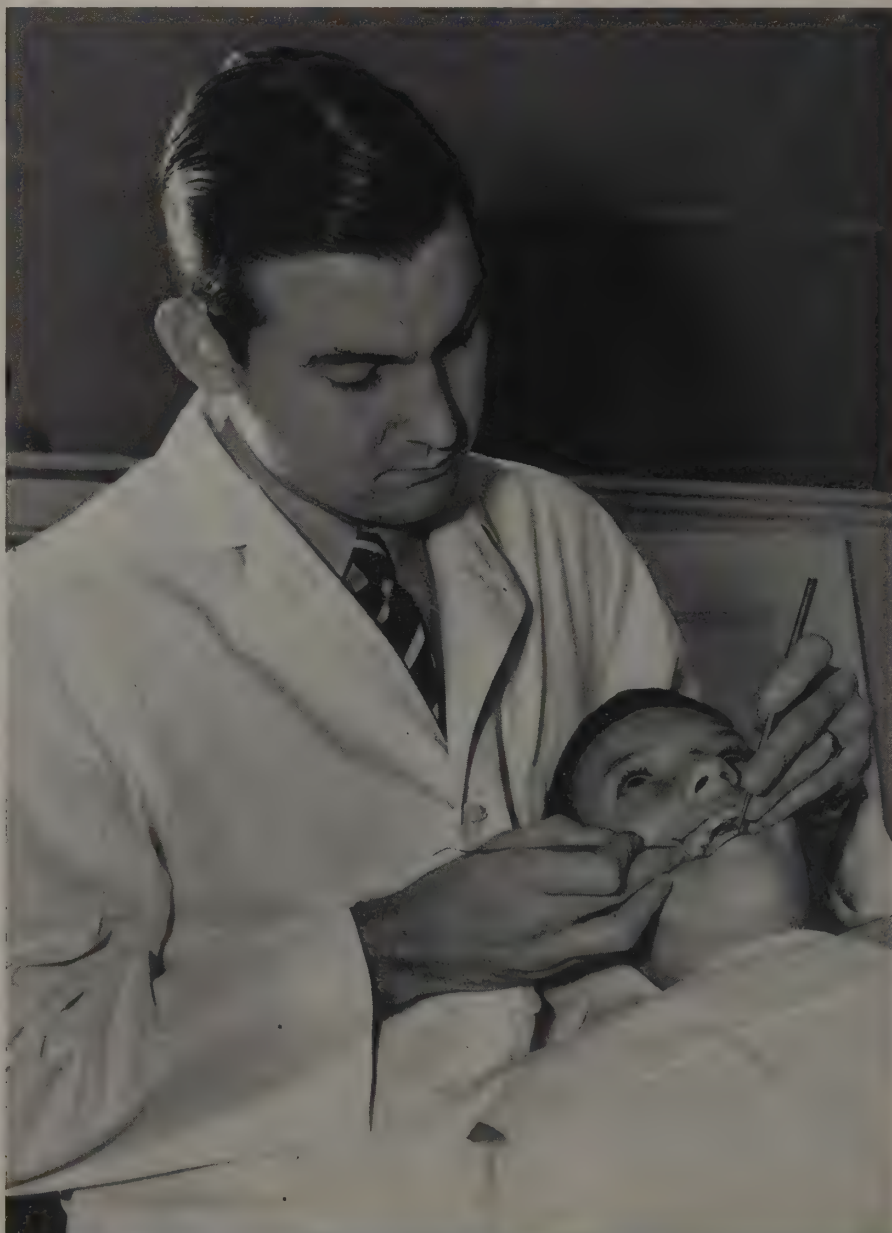

James Work, Chairman of the Department of English, is well known as a scholar in the literature of the eighteenth century and in the writings of Chaucer.

Dr. Joseph Muhler, Associate Professor in the School of Dentistry, is the leader in the field of clinical fluoride applications in the prevention of tooth decay. The results of his studies have been applied in the commercial production of tooth paste and royalties are being remitted to the I.U. Foundation.

The greatness of a University is due in large part to its faculty. Indiana University has on its staff many prominent educators and outstanding men in research.

The annual bibliography of the faculty revealed that in the last year they have written 25 books, 731 articles, and 214 reviews for both domestic and foreign publications. Seventy-three different fields were represented by these writings, including original musical compositions and poetry. Every year they receive many prizes and fellowships. They travel all over the world to serve the governments of other nations.

Truly cosmopolitan, our faculty come from home and abroad to teach, to learn, to serve the people of Indiana.

The Faculties

Edward H. Buehrig, Professor of Government, is a noted scholar in the field of international relations and American foreign policy. He is the author of Woodrow Wilson and The Balance of Power.

John Mee, Chairman of the Department of Management in the School of Business, is known nationally as a leader in business management. He is the chairman of the University Athletic Committee.

Ernst Hoffman brought the I.U. Symphony Orchestra close to perfection as its conductor. He was killed in a traffic accident this year.

Robert L. Mossholder—Director of Publications

Donald H. Horton—Manager of I.U. Auditorium

The Service Enterprise agency manages ten self-supporting University functions. From this office come the extras that decorate the academic college life. Text books from the I.U. Bookstore . . . the Daily Student . . . the many Union functions . . . the Auditorium series . . . the necessary printing and duplicating service . . . the Smithwood cold storage—educational enterprises, enterprises for entertainment. We use these daily, seldom stopping to consider that it is these things that add the icing to top the cake of college days.

Service Enterprises

H. W. Jordon—Director of Service Enterprises

George R. Olson—Administrative Housing Manager

Secretaries and Office Workers

Secretaries, switchboard operators, general office workers—Indiana University's housekeeping staff is an indispensable cog of its inner workings. It is one of the important you-help-us-and-we-help-you activities. Some of the staff are students, working to put themselves through college. Many of them are wives of students. They all work and learn together.

- For future reference. A University office worker files a few of the many records necessary to the operation of the big business of education.

The machine age helps keep the records of the University straight.

The voice with a smile keeps I.U. connected with the outside world.

A seasonal change is evidenced when the Buildings and Grounds crew removes the basketball floor from the Fieldhouse.

Maintenance and Grounds Workers

Sixteen tons and what have you? Another job.

Indiana University owns 1,652 acres in Bloomington, plus numerous holdings in the surrounding country, such as Beanblossom and the Bradford Woods. In a University as large as Indiana there must be an organization capable of caring for the campus, its extensive acreage and many buildings. The Department of Buildings and Grounds, under the supervision of Mr. Henry Pearson, is the collective title given to the eight divisions—carpentry shop, electrical, sheet metal, plumbers, campus, janitors, painters, and power plant—that keep the I.U. campus looking beautiful winter, summer, spring and fall.

The new power plant and steam line, the electrical line extending to the new law building—these and many more are evidence of the work being done by the I.U. maintenance department.

A job with variety-oof!

The story is completed by . . .

. . . the events

We are motivated to act by a need, a rule, a request. We respond and fill a need for belonging, for accomplishment, and enjoyment. We move to comply with a regulation of the University, the residence, and an organization. When asked, we help friends with studies, serve on a committee, and go to a dance.

The actions of the total population create a kaleidoscope of events. We mark off bits of time of special activity, file it in our minds and have a memory, or bury it where it will give us the least pain. We often look forward to and sometimes dread the approach of an event. Whatever our feelings, we realize that we contribute to the total activity, and we attempt to fit into the most comfortable set of experiences.

This year at I.U. . . .

We registered . . .

Write your name, address, and life history, please . . . but which card goes to which table?

One of the traditional dilemmas told about campus life is that which perplexes every I.U. student—from freshman to senior—before each semester. At Registration, newcomers, whose first impression is the overwhelming size, realize that behind the rambling immensity of the campus are regulations and close-knit co-operation.

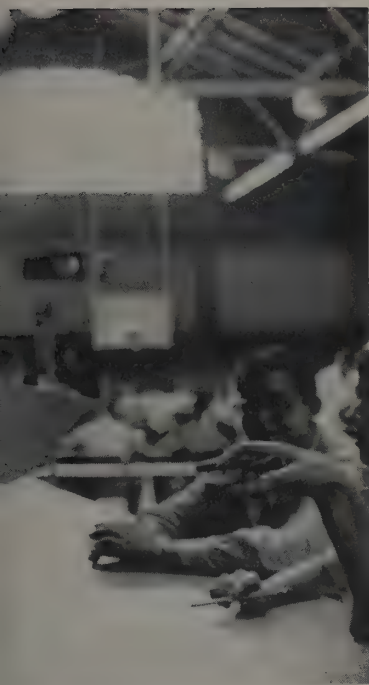

Perceiving fallacies in the old system, the University streamlined Registration and Enrollment into an efficient joint procedure. At the beginning of the second semester, the new method was given a test trial. Popular acceptance of the new system proved it a success.

At Registration students find that the University's interest extends to minute details as they write and write and write, recording information about health and former activities—to be filed away, but not forgotten. These files follow a student's activities through college. In this way, many a puzzled freshman and bored senior discover that the aims of the large university are not as hit and miss as they may appear during the hubbub of Registration.

Check to see if all fees are paid. Those pages and pages of names are a bit frightening.

and recheck, this time the I.D.s. But the pictures very seldom look like the owners.

Who forgot to provide chairs? It's hard to fill out cards standing in this position.

Pay line—only this time the people in line write the checks, empty their wallets. Who started this custom, anyway?

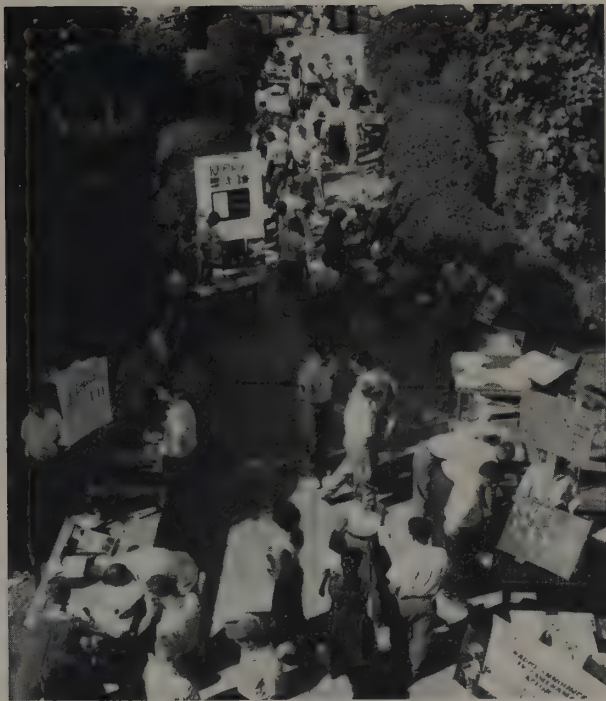

Every student is a nervous freshman on enrollment day—that unavoidable forerunner to every semester, which most students feel lucky to complete in less than two hours.

You always find a line leading into the fieldhouse. This line flows into lines for IBM cards; then into lines for class assignments and afternoon work O.K. Lines, lines, lines. You rush from one to another, trying to shuffle the conflicting class hours into an orderly schedule. Next, in the complicated maze of the Men's Gym, you dole out money, fill out lengthy forms, scribble your signature on a multitude of dotted lines, and are photographed in an undramatic pose for identification cards. Reaching the exit, you are momentarily relieved, but now you must face that last, long obstacle course—the sidewalk, bordered by eager salesmen for every University enterprise.

Join, Buy, Try—shout the long line of student would-be salesmen.

' Half and half is the rule. But in the spring, who wants 3:30 classes?

Number one line. Time to gather more cards. Before enrollment is over, each student possesses a handful of them.

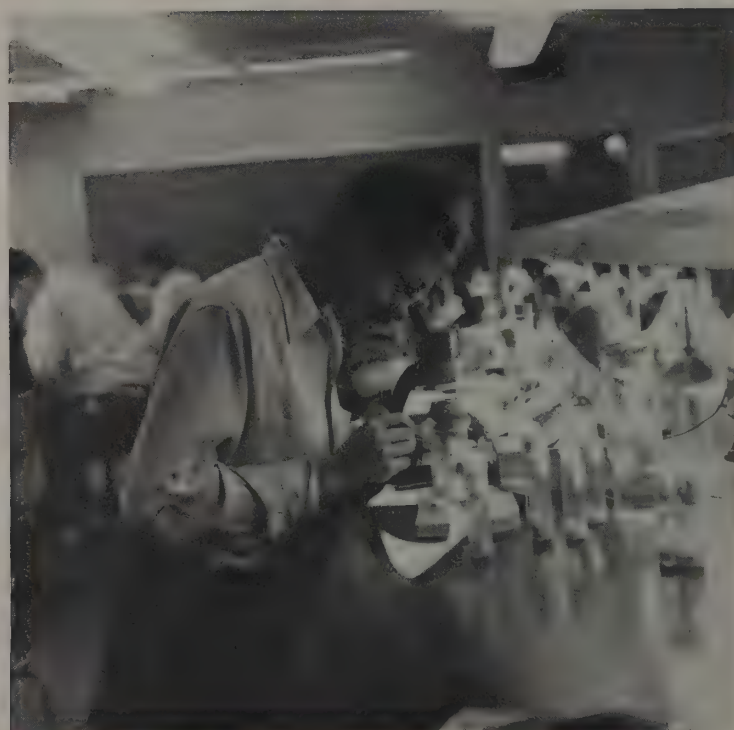

Better than doodles. These drawings are quite clear . . . we think.

... and went to classes.

The touch that creates beauty is a gift but it is helped along by hours spent in classes.

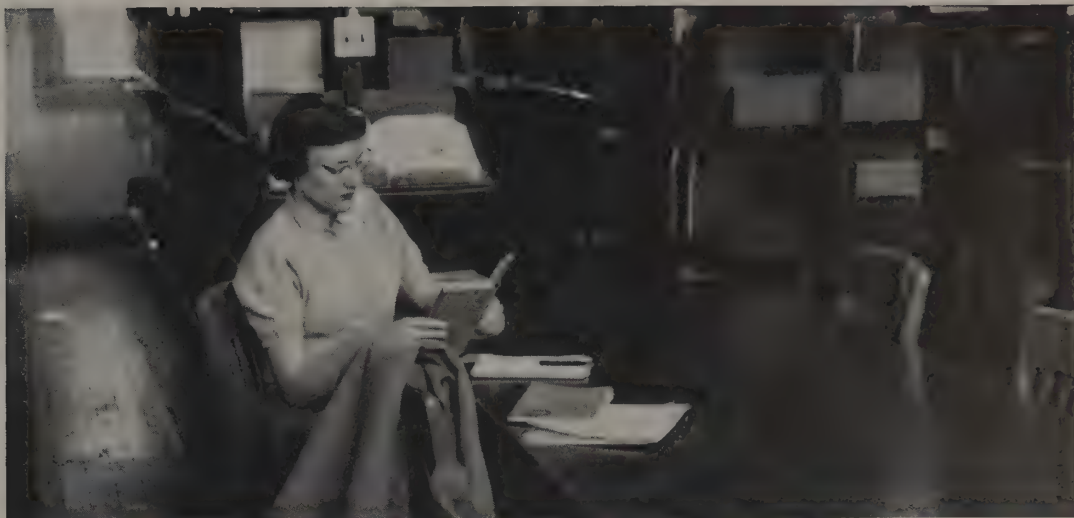

Everything looks so crawl-ish under the microscope.

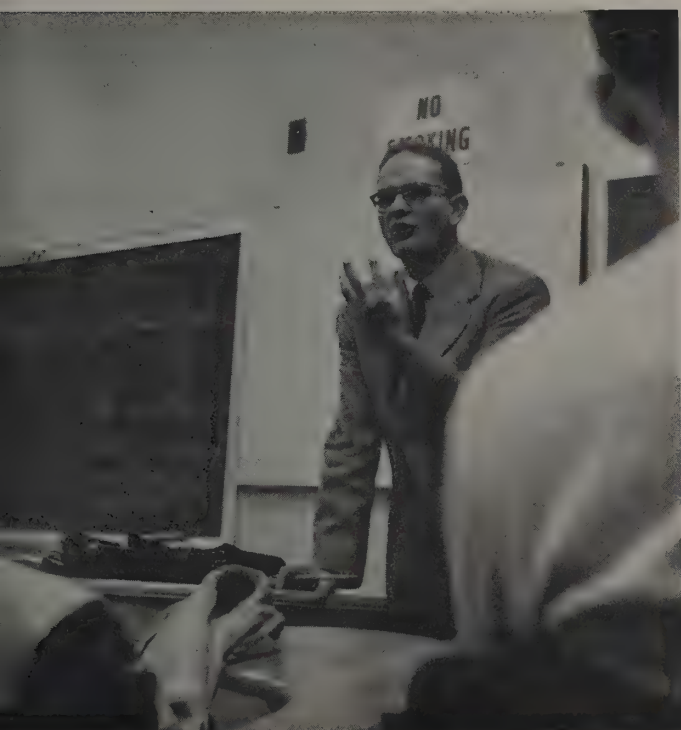

Sometimes we wanted the tireless clock to stop at twenty after the hour.

Long hours of preparation are required for most courses and the library is a good place to concentrate.

"... a complete and generous education is that which fits a man to perform justly, skillfully, and magnanimously all the offices both private and public of peace and war." This statement is as valid today as it was when Milton wrote it in the 17th century. Where do we get this complete and generous education? We get it in the classrooms, right here at I.U. We could study until the day we die, and still have only a fragment of this thing called education. Let's be sure that we get our share of it. Listen carefully at our lectures and get the most from our textbooks—for it was also Milton who gave us the bit of wisdom which adorns the entrance of our library: "A good book is the precious life blood of a master spirit."

Plain as the hand in front of my face . . . doesn't anyone understand?

This is art. We looked and dreamed of our future creations—who knows where genius may be hidden.

Carl Weinrich gave the organ a personality that could sing and sigh. We loved his music.

Sweet and low. Marian Anderson thrilled us with her melodies.

Poetry is for fun. Just ask Ogden Nash.

Never a dull moment when the Cambridge debate team was here.

We listened to artists . . . .

Actors, orators, statesmen, dancers, and musicians stimulate the cultural values of life at Indiana University. These specialists perform for us at the Auditorium, chat with us at informal receptions, drink coffee with us at the Commons, and when they leave, a bit of excitement stays with us. The last year has seen such outstanding programs as the hit Broadway play Tea and Sympathy, the superb violinist Zino Francescatti, and the golden voice of Marian Anderson. The Robert Shaw Chorale, undeniably the finest group of its kind, presented a program of high artistic quality, and the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo presented a varied program of ballet and modern dance. We also heard an impressive concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. The Convocation series brought us the poetic gymnastics of Ogden Nash.

... and shared the experiences of the famous.

Broadway sent us its glamour for one night . . . Tea and Sympathy.

There is more to music than beats the ear, says Sigmund Spaeth, noted lecturer and musician.

Tip-top performance on toe top by the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo . . . pretty, precise.

String magic of Zino Francescatti. One violin, one man—lovely result.

Dance of Love. This Ring Around the Moon came from the tango stardust.

The footlights came on.

The Southsea Islanders don't know what they are missing. The Jordan River Review means a gay time for everyone.

Few people can truthfully say that they do not enjoy a vicarious adventure into the unknown . . . an escape from the monotony of everyday existence . . . into the wonderful world of make believe. What better source of adventure could we find than the theater? We watch a play unfold before us, and we picture ourselves on the stage, living new and exciting adventures for a few hours. We may share the pleasure of a South Pacific romance, find love atop the Empire State Building, discover an enchanting phantom city in the Scottish highlands, sympathize with the problems of a neurotic school teacher on a streetcar named Desire, or even fly to Neverland with Peter Pan. Making possible these departures from reality is the University Theater, which offers us everything from hit Broadway plays to I.U.'s own Jordan River Revue. Whether it be a stunning production of Shakespeare's Othello; modern comedy such as The Moon is Blue; or Christopher Fry's whimsical farce Ring Round the Moon, the University Theater gives the discriminating student a highly entertaining series of programs in this vibrant medium of the entertainment world known as theater.

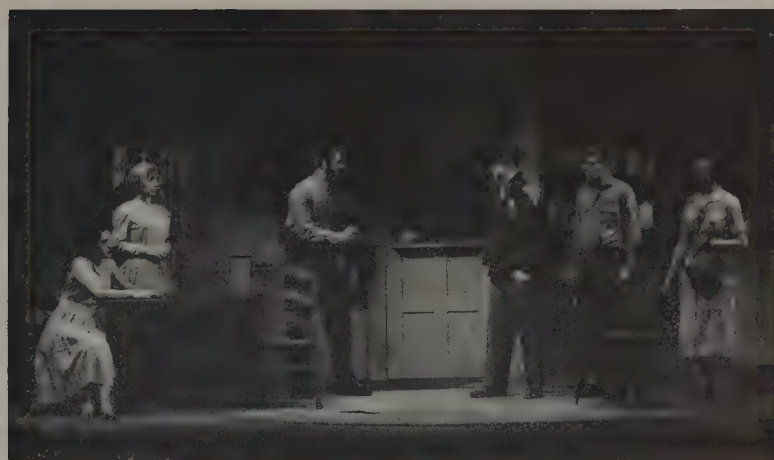

We were Oklahoma bound at a musical gallop.

Have you heard about Adriadne?
Could history have been like this?

Parlor play . . . the Inspector General looks happy.

Papa Is All said Papa's family. We thought Papa's family was tops too.

The curtain fell amidst applause after Night Must Fall.

Summertime in Indiana is musical comedy time for Indiana University. Breezy musicals like Rodgers' and Hammerstein's Oklahoma! and Leonard Bernstein's Wonderful Town dominate the Summer's activities, reviving the romantic strains of "People Will Say We're in Love," "The Surrey With the Fringe on Top," and the hilarious "One Hundred Ways to Lose a Man." The School of Music, from time to time, fills East Hall with the giants of the world of opera, performing such favorites as The Marriage of Figaro, The Bartered Bride and Faust . . . a theatrical program to challenge the imaginations of the students of any American University!

On guard, Shakespeare fans. Othello is packed with love, hate, adventure—a superb play beautifully rendered.

The Bewitched Child bewitched the audience with haunting melodies and unusual scenery.

Dance while you work. It's a wonderful life; it's a Wonderful Town.

Gounod's Faust lived for us again this year—another music school triumph.

The Moon Is Blue, the night is black, but love is always bright and gay.

Female delegation . . . a study of concentration. Let's see—what is best for the East?

The legs of a lawmaker. He looks bent under the weight of the world's problems.

World problems were weighed and debated by representatives of 45 colleges and universities at I.U.'s second Little United Nations Assembly. Delegates representing 47 U.N. countries tackled current problems in heated debates, and gained excellent experience in government and international affairs. LUNA, modeled after the real U.N., is sponsored by the Student Senate.

From the rostrum . . . words of decision, division, order and disruption.

The presentation of a resolution is a serious business.

Then the hassle. Country against country. Takes much talking to swing the vote.

We dabbled in world politics . . .

The General Assembly—reading, smoking, or just plain relaxing—enjoys a break from exhausting battles of words and wit.

... and cheered at games

...in the stadium on Autumn Saturdays....

Aided by a clamorous clang of cowbells and an impelling chant, our six cheerleaders lead a rousing cheer. With all the enthusiasm of a herd of crimson bulls snorting fire, we encouraged our Sir Galahads of the gridiron to "fight on to victory today, boys!"

Before the season, we had high hopes for many victories, few defeats, and a lot of glory. Every fan took his own turn at sideline coaching and criticizing, and there were times when school spirit was at a low ebb; but eventually we backed our Saturday's heroes with less grumbling as we saw that, though there was less glory than we had hoped for, there was twice as much grit and determination.

"Gooooooo, Hoosiers!" We cheered at the game, and if it went beyond proof of our loyalty and actually helped rally the team to victory, so much the better.

The Latecomer is all equipped for the game with bark and bell, but all the seats are taken. What's a fellow supposed to do?

Coach Bernie Crimmins has a few words to say . . . to the referees?

At each game the cheerleaders led the players onto the field, and the Card Section created its colorful designs. The game, itself, is never as predictable. A player charging into the play on the field one moment may be helped to the bench in the next.

Players disabled, someone loses an easy pass, a touchdown or a first down missed by inches—a football game just doesn't run as smoothly as we would like. Contention rises and frayed nerves flare up in the thick of the fray. Yet, where tempers fan hot at the drop of a red handkerchief, sometimes a white towel of truce can temporarily cool the ardor of the game.

Here come the Fighting Hoosiers. Another day, another play. Let's hope the score matches the spirit.

The play, a general melee of fast moving hands and feet.

and the pain. It's all a part of the game—a man's game.

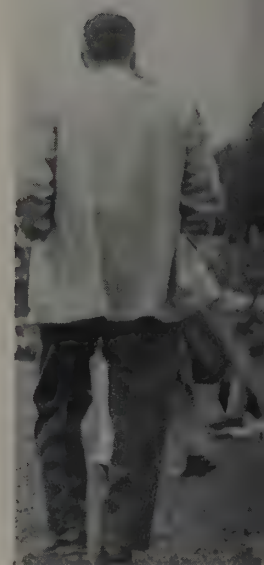

A fan's eye view—from the top, big men look small but the other team's penalty looks big, big, big from anywhere at all.

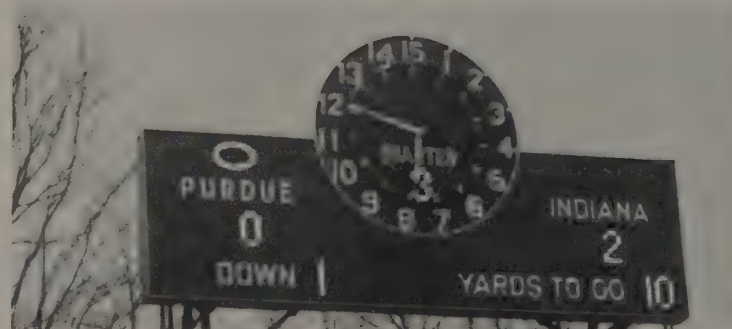

We braved the storm to back the Fighting Hoosiers. No fair weather fans, are we.

Pouncing on Purdue, we hoped that this was our year to win the Old Oaken Bucket. Instead, we lost, but the team played well. Next year we'll try again.

Emptied for the last time, the towering steel stands rose desolately in the cold, late Autumn air. Another football season was over. There had been outstanding players in action and good players who seldom left the bench. There were many who tried, but lost their chance to wear a crimson jersey which rested unused, inside the silent stadium.

We were ahead for awhile. Only one quarter more to keep the Boilermakers from scoring.

Caught between—not a spectator, not on the field. Hard to be patient when there is action near the goal line.

Discarded shirts. Season over, the unused shirts are left behind, Next year, perhaps . . .

But lost the game. It was a heartbreaker, but next year we'll be back.

on winter evenings.

The spectators at a basketball game have a variety of viewpoints, and each fan reacts differently than his companions.

A football player—with his friends and his favorite girl—now enjoying the relaxing position of spectator may be so intently involved with the game that he becomes as one with the players. Small boys, selling concessions, may talk about their hopes for athletic success, as they watch their college idols, jumping for the ball. Finally, the player, himself—despite the pressures and responsibilities placed upon him by the fans, his team mates, and his personal conflicts, he must remain cool and never think of losing the game.

Oops, someone's hand is in the way—inconsiderate of him.

Oh . . . watch that guard. He wants the ball.

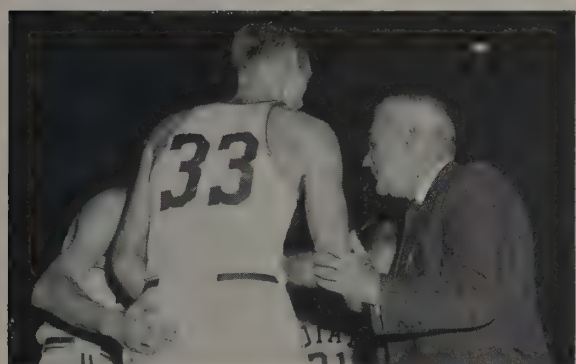

Ohhh . . . look at that fancy passing.

Ah! Another bucket. They did it again.

Come on, boys. Let's hit the hundred mark tonight.

Picture, please. The I.D. pictures seldom look like the owner. Hurry fellows, don't want to miss the start of the game.

Without certain customary, almost traditional, incidents, a winter evening in the fieldhouse would seem incomplete—those small boys selling peanuts and ice cream bars . . . the men examining ID cards and punching tickets . . . the flag-raising, the National Anthem . . . and, from the bleachers, the familiar huddle of the team which symbolizes all the friendship and sportsmanship involved in the game; the ring of lowered heads unconsciously reminds us of the unity of school loyalty, and we shout encouragement.

A basketball game stimulates a variety of impressions, not only from our mental point of view, but also from our location in the field-house. High in the stands, people appear small to a spectator nonchalantly surveying the panorama below. To a player lying on the floor, people tower tall above him. Players, in a tussle under the basket, must judge their positions and their next move at one quick glance. A play as observed from the coach's angle of vision may disagree entirely with a referee's decision. The men sorting people into the appropriate sections and those behind the hot dog stand, see only the pressing crowd.

Off the backboard, swish! Chance for plenty of exercise in this game.

Get that rebound. It may be worth an extra basket. Heads up, hands up playing counts—especially when the score is close.

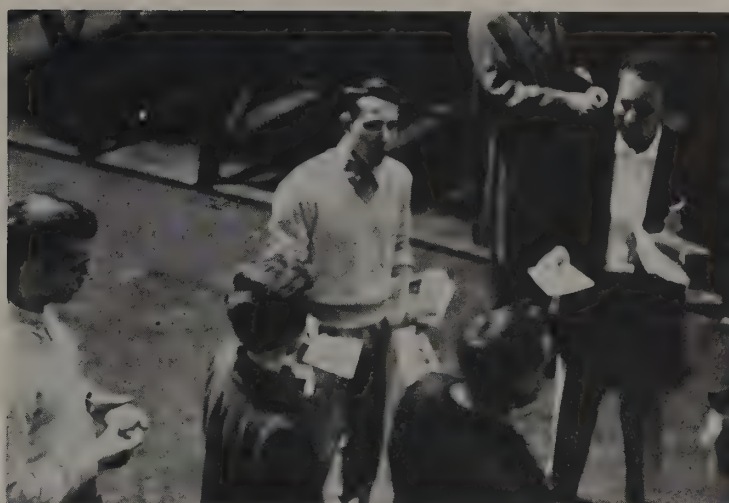

He's down, but not for long. Can't stop that boy from scoring.

From watchful to wrathful. If only the boys would get those rebounds.

Programs . . . a collection of numbers and names, the team to cheer, the team to boo, and a player biography.

Hungry anyone? The game sure gives a fellow an appetite. But then, what doesn't?

You're in the way. That ball was meant for me.

"Time out!" The team huddles near the edge of the floor and the crowd—a rippling pattern of colors and sounds—rises behind them, cheering. Well-loved Wally Choice—who never cracked a smile the entire season; Pete Obremsky—the promising sophomore who revealed earnest endeavor and hardwood ingenuity; Jerry Thompson and Archie Dees—tall as the basket rim, and long on endurance and ability; Bryant, Phipps, Hodson, the entire Indiana roster joined their individual talents in expert teamwork. Under Coach McCracken's direction, the players matured into an able basketball team.

Ain't that great! When the crowd laughs its approval, who could disagree?

Time out. If I'm going to watch the show, might just as well have some popcorn too.

Look at that! Wish someone else would see those fouls.

This is what to do to get those extra points. Don't let those boys near the basket.

When Indiana's basketball team runs into the fieldhouse, an intense fervor grips the Hoosier spectators. Alternately irate and eager, the fans follow the play closely, and as tension tightens, express their opinions freely. Into this atmosphere, enter many kinds of people . . . friends, rivals, coaches, referees. The inevitable result of this public potpourri is a host of healthy conflicts. At each basketball game there is a recurrence—along with familiar faces—of the excitement that all Hoosier basketball fans love.

Are we coming or going? It doesn't matter, the aisles are always full of people with basketball on their minds. Homework must wait.

Dugout patterns of play, of practice. Let's have some action, team.

Some went in for warm weather sports.

Fore! Go, go to the green.

Summer, winter—love the water. Swimming is nicer than studying, don't you agree?

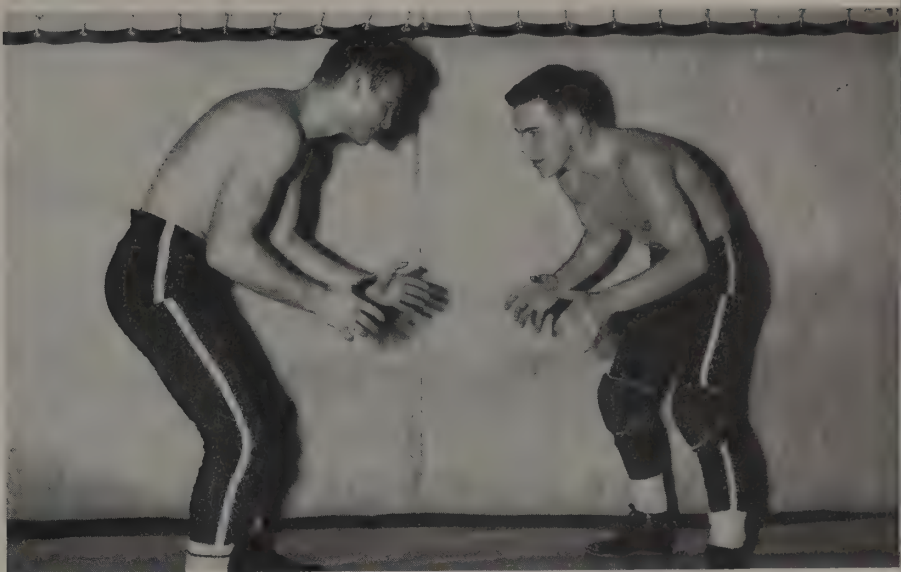

Head up, feet flying. Much foot work is required to break the wire.

During any season of the year at least one sport is being played. With warm weather, the "minor" sports appear—baseball, tennis, and swimming; but the large number of followers these sports attract do not consider the title "minor" adequate.

The swimming team at Indiana University, beginning in Mid-winter, travels far and participates in many meets throughout the United States. In April, tennis, baseball, and the other Springtime sports begin. The tennis schedule is crammed into a three-month period ending in May with the Big Ten contest and the steadfast baseball addicts have plenty of opportunity to watch their favorites.

For the fan who dislikes the blustery Autumn afternoons spent in football stadiums, Springtime is his time for sports.

On your mark . . . one must start, you know.

Boredom at the goal . . . but the game is exciting and moves fast.

Publicity plus via the red and white bass horn covers.

The "100" gave spirit set to music.

Strike up the band. A touchdown calls for the school song and a bit of community singing.

As the trumpets blare, the drums beat and the crowds cheer, the Marching Hundred pours onto the field with a colorful display of showmanship. Rain, snow, or sunshine, the Marching Hundred is on hand for every home football game. They provide sparkling entertainment before the game and at half-time. The Marching Hundred brings pageantry and music to the games. They turn our Big Ten battlefield into a festival ground. Their antics add the final touch of color and excitement to our sports events.

Second ending coming up. Watch the baton.

Two hundred hands and two hundred feet salute our team, our fans, our Dads, our Homecoming alumni.

The conductor's baton sets the tempo, starts the music. On the field, in the stands . . . from the instruments of the Marching Hundred come sweet sounds, solid sounds . . . the results of many hours of practice, practice, and more practice.

One, two, three, strike up the band. All together now.

March tempo, I.U. Marching Hundred style.

Attention, men. Final practice before the game—a musical dance rehearsal.

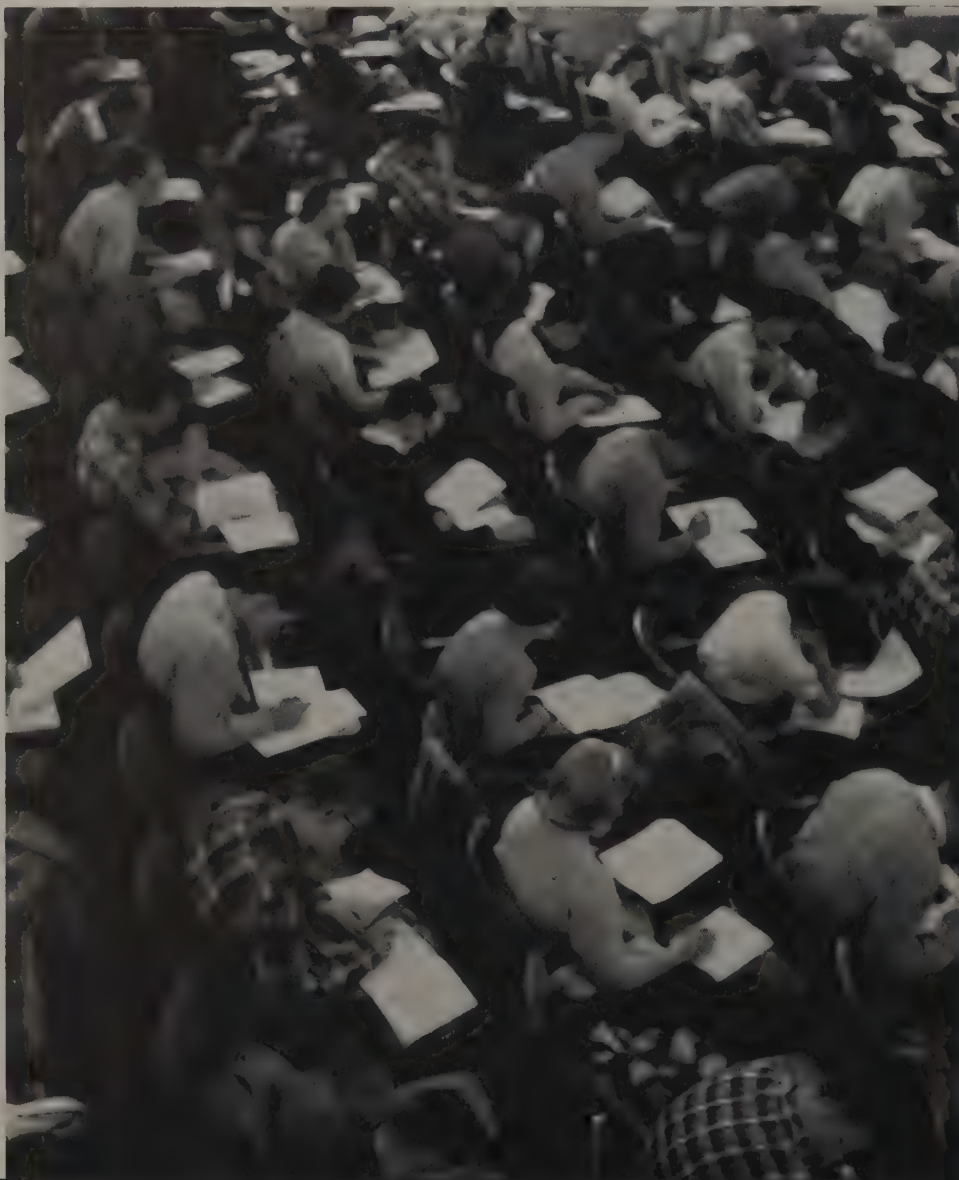

Wish I had studied last night.

Wonder what this funny looking word means.

There was an occasional time out for exams . . .

The prof means business. Large class seems to call for long exam. Oh, for a small class.

For 16 weeks the Prof. stood before us in lecture halls and labs, and perhaps he occasionally got the impression that some of us were not paying strict attention to his "pearls of wisdom." Perhaps it was because some attractive coed was attracting more attention than his lecture, perhaps it was simply because he saw too many nodding heads the morning after a late dance. (Could he have suspected that we were asleep?) Taking a mental note of our occasional distractions, the Prof. gave us an especially hard final exam. But most of us did pretty well, and perhaps the Prof.'s suspicions were merely the result of a weary mind . . . a mind tired from the challenge of a deadly foe—the college youth! Finals are his reprisal for the suffering he endured at our mercy. But despite Prof.'s attempts to catch us off guard, his finals served only to show him that we really did manage to absorb his wise teachings.

Exams aren't boring. It's just that we studied into the wee hours.

Onlooking proctor very seldom overlooks wandering eyes.

The collective knowledge of the class is now open for prof inspection.

A to X, now we've come to Y. But these questions take more thought than mere abc's.

Pretense of relaxation. The feet are still,
but the brain is racing.

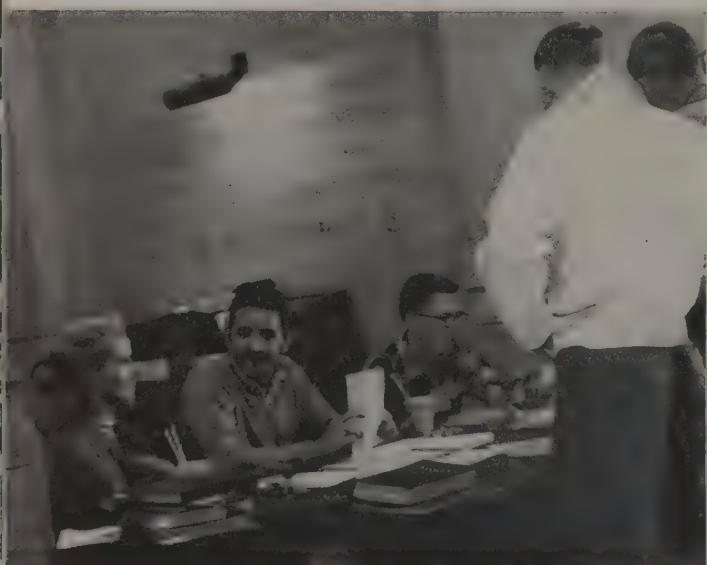

The voters shall be choosers, very unpredictable choosers.

I.D.s are checked against a master list of students. Very efficient, very accurate. No monkey business here.

The goal of campus politicians. May the best man claim the title.

A well-timed smile, a firm handshake, a picture on a poster—perhaps tomorrow the long awaited office. The would-be politician begins when he is a freshman to work his way through the maze of campus politics. First a string of committees—member then chairman, Union work, clubs and honoraries, campaigning for his favorite candidate. Then it is his turn to be the center of attraction and shoulder the responsibility.

Skits to entertain students at dinner, posters to hang in dorms and houses, speeches to prepare and deliver, and meetings, meetings, meetings—election time is a busy time.

Election day—tired nerves, a few headaches, too many cigarettes. But it is all in the game. The rewards are worthwhile.

Musical moods—created by students, performed by students. The I. U. Sing is fun for all.

The campus sang . . .

Spring on campus is the prelude to the popular I.U. Sing . . . An eagerly anticipated event on campus since 1932. This phase of University theatrics allows for participation by any student on campus who so desires.

Sorority girls, fraternity men, and independents burst with enthusiasm as they organize their material. Time rushes by . . . the big night has arrived . . .

Nervous tension mounts amid the hustle and bustle of backstage activity. Mixed emotions prevail . . . anxiety . . . apprehension exists, on-stage and off—cast for the hopeful reward of being chosen “best” by judges; audience for the reward of an exciting performance. The goal of the sing—to promote fellowship and closer unity of student relations—is achieved.

Curtain goes up in a few minutes, but it's hard be patient when minutes seem like hours.

Come now fellows, this is a serious business. There's a trophy at stake.

Into the wee hours we worked in the Fieldhouse, busily building our make-believe carnival.

a carnival air.

A foot. Let's see if it's ticklish.

and a leg. Great show, we all agreed.

Splash. If only the water were warm. Somebody please hide the buckets.

The Fieldhouse is empty and silent . . . then overnight a gigantic transformation takes place. The huge arena is ablaze with color, gaily decorated booths, and a whirlwind of activity. A barker cries, "Step right up and see the pretty girls! It's Fall Carnival time."

Almost everyone on campus crams into the Fieldhouse to join in the festive spirit of carnival, wandering amid the melange of sideshows, dancing girls, and kissing booths.

A good time is had by all—the profits enlarge the Campus Chest.

The crowd vanishes . . . workers from the fraternities, sororities, and independent residence halls work far into the night tearing down their booths. And soon, silence once more reigns over the Fieldhouse.

To catch a pig—come one, come all. The barker adds his voice to the hubbub.

Such a change. Who could guess that this colorful place is really the Fieldhouse!

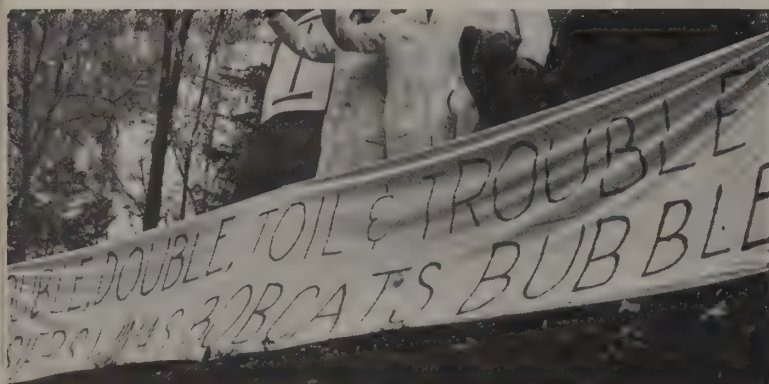

Alumni aid. Everyone tries to get into the act.

The alums came home . . .

Shakespeare is now writing slogans for I.U.

When alumni visit their alma mater during the annual Homecoming weekend, getting-together-talking-over-old-times lasts all weekend. This mixing-it-up over memories usually leads to all-night merry-making. The confusion receives a transfusion Friday night when the Homecoming Pow-Wow heralds the hodgepode of huddles to follow with some "organized" hoopla.

The grads swarming into sororities, fraternities, and independent housing are greeted by imaginative decorations in competition for trophies. A final dash of festivity is the crowning of a beautiful coed and daughter of an I.U. alumna as Homecoming Queen at the big game on Saturday.

The happiness of reunions and recollections reigns at the game, and as old classmates "get-together" they spend more time chatting than watching the football game.

They came home to watch? Who's kidding whom?

Long live the queen Carolyn Riehl. She makes the Homecoming celebrations complete.

Prediction of the homecoming football game—I.U. version.

Then. Let's have our own huddle in the stands.

Now. Everyone knows a woman likes to talk—even at a football game.

Later. Sure a lot of noise. Wonder what they are yelling about?

The Med-Law Boress, begun in the '20's because of rivalry between the two professions, brings mock discord to Homecoming Weekend. On Friday, medical students in white coats, brandishing large bones and law students in black suits, derbies, and sporting canes, compete on the steps of the Union Building for the honor of delivering the most insulting oration, serenades, and yells.

This traditional colorful clash is a verbal boress. The war of words does not determine which profession ranks first. The deciding encounter is the football game Saturday morning, where the winning profession is awarded the coveted Thundermug trophy.

Now hear this. Could he possibly be right?

... while "Meds" and "Laws" boressed.

Come rain or shine, the show goes on. From the four corners of the campus we gather to listen to professional insults.

A bit of professional pondering preceded a fiery blast. Must have been the heat that made the girls' faces red.

In our unprejudiced opinion. . .

Who's afraid of the big bad lawyers? Not us—we're just as big and bad.

Says who! Slander our good name, will you.

Like drinking coffee in the Commons, like going to a basketball game—the I.U. informal dances are a meeting place of guys and gals, of seldom seen friends. In the Union Building, in the Quad, no matter where, a dancing good time is had by all. Sometimes campus musicians and nightingales hold sway. Sometimes the nation's best are called upon via the phonograph.

The excitement before the informal dances is almost the same as before the bigger productions. There is the inevitable buzz-buzz by telephone and between classes, the asking for dates and planning of clothes.

The atmosphere is of the casual, whirl your troubles away variety. You dance, then talk, then dance one more before the twelve o'clock chimes give warning. The dances are always a welcome relief from the customary Saturday night showgoing.

Often we were informal at dances . . .

Together we dance. Together with the rest of the dance fans, we tread on toes, but no one really minds.

That last bunnyhop was fun, but oh are we tired now.

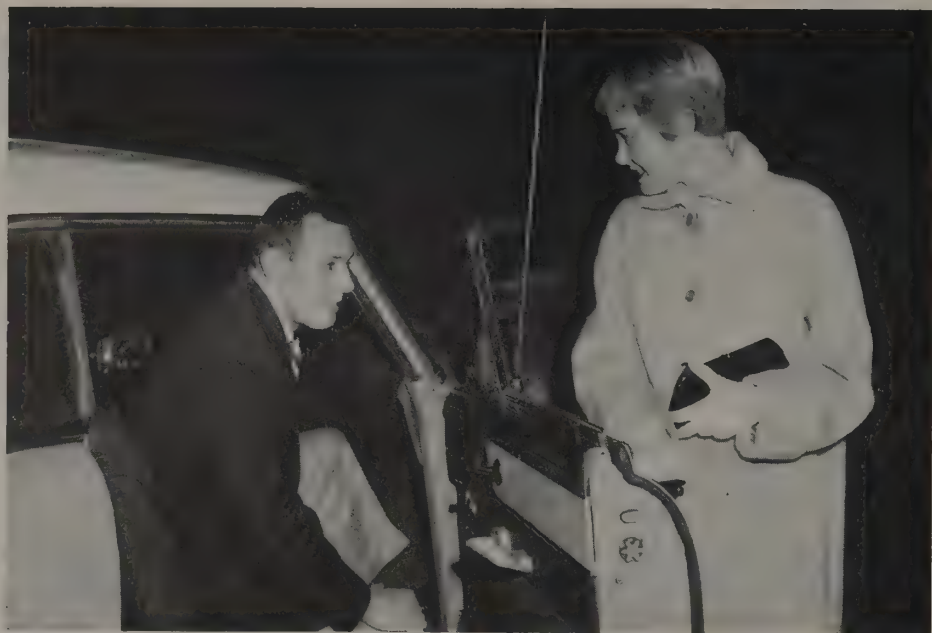

Grand march before the dance is the time to show off dates and pretty dresses.

Coats anyone? Too many people have them—just ask the man behind the counter.

The lady is a gentleman tonight. She must open doors and light her escort's cigarettes. Such fun!

The gentleman rewards the lady for being so delightfully attentive.

The king is a lucky fellow. Ah, night of nights!

... then reversed the usual customs

Who will be king? Soon we'll know.

The dance floor was crowded, but we all got into the act anyway.

The Dames Ball is a twirling forest of frilly crinolines and indescribable hats with originality plus—plus bird cages, football fields, and stuffed animals.

Brothers and beaus lend their cars for the cause—it's the coeds' turn to call for their dates. (The girls, too, find it difficult to arrive on time.) First dinner, next a flurry of changing clothes. Then comes the adorning of masculine heads. Between laughs the bow is tied under his chin and 'tis time to dance.

The Dames Ball over, hats decorate fraternities and dorms, and smiles decorate the campus.

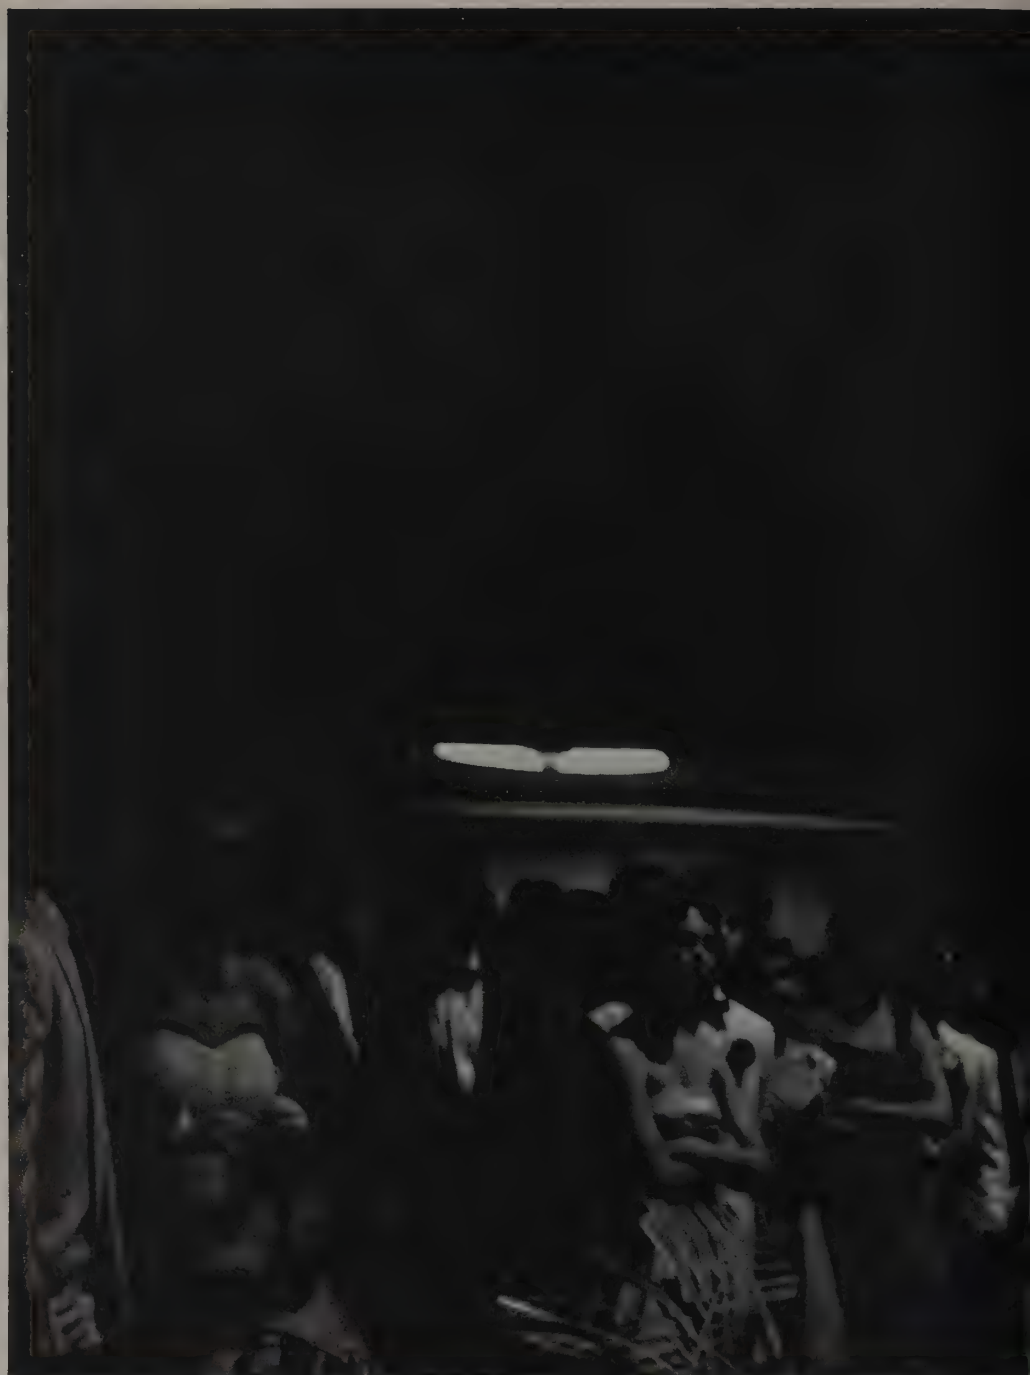

It's prom time! The birds, the flowers, the mighty oak trees, and I.U. coeds are decked out in their Spring finery. Men in tux and white shirt find waiting for them fluffy bits of femininity and the sleek lines of youth.

Most of the time we dance, but sometimes it's fun to sit at a table or to stand in front of the band and just listen.

Two-thirty comes much too soon. But so good to get home and kick off those dancing shoes. So nice to have the memory to tuck away in the special "good times" file.

...and were very formal.

The intermissions leave a man exhausted.

Table talk is a good occupation while resting tired feet.

Homeward bound, must first claim the coats.

A breath of fresh air, such a lovely Spring night for the Prom.

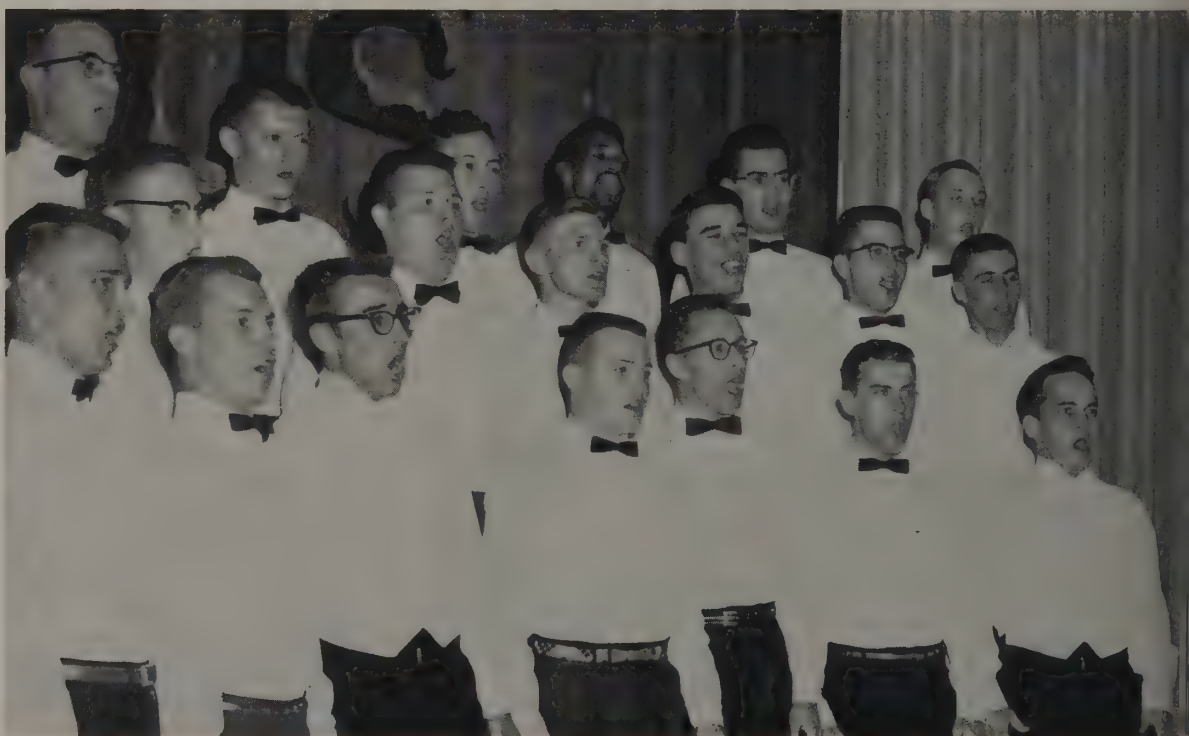

Who's behind the beard? None other than our own lovable President Wells.

En masse, the I.U. students entered into the spirit of Christmas Eve on Campus.

It may not have been a White Christmas, but the Christmas spirit did not suffer because of the absence of snow. Hermie became Santa Claus once again, the coeds received gifts from his pack, and the joyous Christmas carols drifted across campus from Alumni Hall, spreading the message of Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men.

Make ye a joyful noise . . . Christmas isn't truly Christmas without song and more song.

Christmas came to the campus.

Hands on high, the merry-makers look like so many enthusiastic basketball players as they reach for Santa's goodies.

We devoted many of the last days of the year

A wave of the starter's green flag and they're off. After weeks of muscle-strengthening long distance jaunts over hill and dale, the riders are ready for the pedaling grind. For 50 miles the pace seldom drops below the 20 mile an hour mark. Charleyhorses, bad exchanges, and flat tires cost precious seconds. The lead is held by first one team, then another.

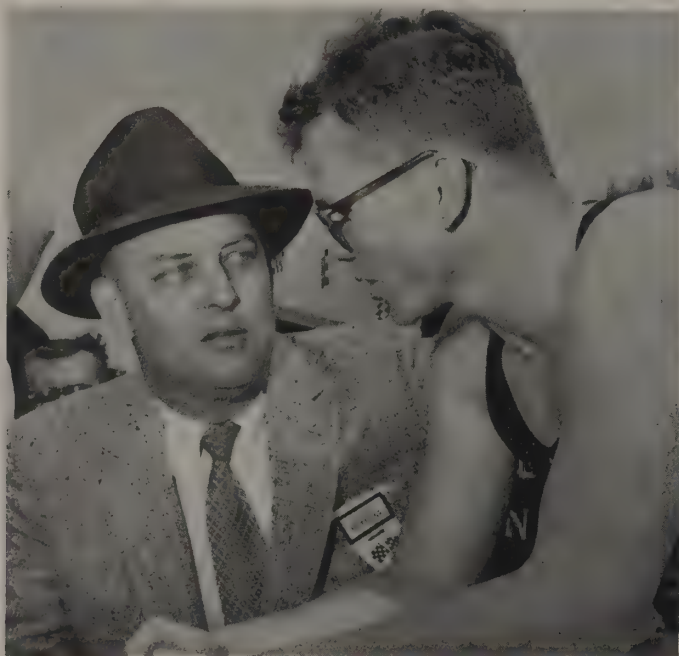

The coed backers and financial sponsors provide the color—bright streamers in the stands, hats on the fans, and gayly decorated uniforms on the riders. The three resting members of each four-man team and their trainers watch from crepe paper and cardboard pits erected by the enthusiastic backers on the morning of the race.

One rider passes another. A thunderous noise rises from the crowd, a mingling of cheers and groans. There's a flag—one lap to go. Wheels whirl faster, cheers grow louder, the checkered flag declares the winner! The cycle heroes come forward to claim their trophies and the array of prizes contributed by the local merchants.

First lap sets the pace—then go to it, riders, the race has begun!

Talk of the pep variety as Bill Armstrong and one of the riders discuss the toils and trials, contest variety. Man to man. What a race!

Tacks on the track call for a hands and knees search by officials and team backers. This was the second year of puncture trouble.

to a "classic" with a purpose.

and a Reward for a blue ribbon rider via coed enthusiasm—a fitting reward for the many hours of practice and team work on the track.

Cheers, spirits and leaps soar high as the bicycles fly past with a whirl of wheels.

Change of cycle riders calls for precision on the run. Must keep that bicycle moving 'round the track.

and a Charleyhorse puts one cycle hero out of action. Speed pedaling takes its toll on the muscles.

It's a shirtsleeve crowd at the Little 500. We were glad the nurses could enjoy the race—and sunshine. No injuries yet.

All eyes on the scoreboard. Quick, let us know who's ahead.

A tack-punctured tire, an exhausted rider, which team is ahead? The winner! Nurses, repairmen, race officials, timekeepers—those who literally keep the riders and the wheels rolling smoothly—are as much a part of the race as the fans and the cyclists. They willingly lend their time to make the race a success. The students who receive the Little 500 scholarships can tell you how important is that success.

Keep those wheels rolling. 'Round and 'round the track they go. Who will win? No one knows, but everyone hopes they know.

Tires give way in crucial moments. Expert help makes a fast change.

Wait a minute—that bicycle belongs under you. Bad exchanges lose precious minutes.

And a winner is waved by. After two and a half hours of riding, that flag looks mighty good.

Oops, a bad exchange.

Antennae set on go, team is ready—all that's needed is the starter's flag.

On the eve of the race a parade winds around campus to Jordan Avenue, where the Theta Chis present their annual outdoor hop, the Bicycle Bounce. The next morning 33 spirited teams of colorfully costumed coeds compete on tricycles in a Lilliputian version of the Little 500. The young son of the late Wilbur Shaw, riding in a miniature pace car, starts the race. The girls, their knees knocking against the handle bars, race along at five miles an hour. This time the coeds play the heroine's part, and the male population is cast as cheering fans. To the victors go the trophies and cashmere sweaters.

H. B Wells enthusiastically watches the three-wheeled race.

Rain drove the dancers inside but rain can't stop the stomping feet.

The Little Little 500 provides a laughing good time for participants and spectators alike.

The Greeks rushed . . .

Smoke? Oh no, thank you. We're only freshmen.

Women's rush has become synonymous with parties. During the formal teas each sorority entertains every rushee—so many new faces and names to remember.

After the Fall semester's exams, sororities start their planning. First comes the choosing of the skit, then follow songs, refreshments and nametags to match the theme.

Formal rush takes a lot of work, but the parties are fun and the new pledge classes are the best ever.

Still life. Let's relax while we can; there's another party tomorrow. Now the mental mulling begins.

I'd like you to meet . . . so many new faces and names are confusing.

How about having the theme of the next part 'The barefoot girls with smiles'?

Eenie, meenie, minie, mo. Wonder who will be the future sister.

They are all so vivacious. Can only tell rushee from rusher by the hats the former wear.

...and pledged.

Men's rush is an around-the-clock, twelve month long project. Rush nights and weekends fill the fraternity social calendar. The pledges-to-be already on campus are invited to dinners and smokers. High school seniors stay at the houses for weekend visits. The sorority pledge classes aid as dates for the rushees. Hayrides, picnics, record dances and Commons coffee are in order.

Rushees try to impress the rushers and vice versa. The house is cleaned, the food is tops, and smiles and handshakes are the order of the evening. Man to man talks . . . enter new brothers.

The way to a rushee's heart. The brothers are great—so are the cooks.

For men only. Small talk, serious talk, gay time talk—good way to get to know the future brothers.

A deeper meaning to fraternity life than just parties and dinners.

Wonder if he'll pledge?

There! The pin secure, a fraternity man now. Pledgeship begins tomorrow.

With a stately finality 3,000 ended one era and began another.

Umbrellas in the stands and 3,000 black hats on the field—rain or not, graduation ceremonies continue.

Last address to the Seniors. Soon they will be doing the talking.

Hats off to the graduates. May they capture many honors.

Under our umbrellas we watch the patterns created by the many other umbrellas . . . the broad carpet of seniors in black gowns . . . the simple design formed by the tops of their caps . . . the shadows of flags. All of these are symbols of the year's last important event—GRADUATION.

The highlights of commencement are mellow with tradition; greetings from the Governor; the Charge to the Class by President Wells; the singing of "America," "Auld Lang Syne," and our alma mater, "Hail to Old I.U."

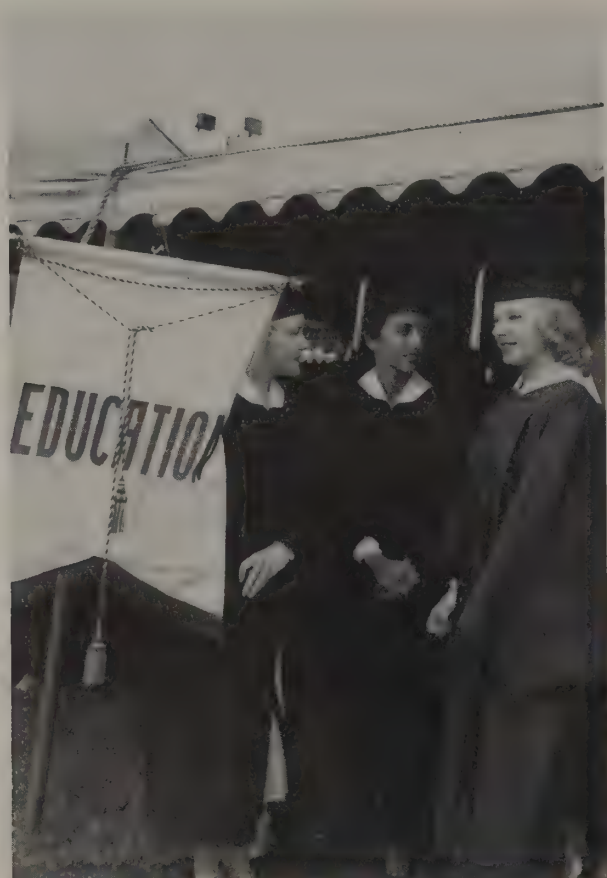

Patterns behind the speaker's platform. Men at work.

For the scrapbook. Ceremonies pass but pictures and memories are preserved.

Banners proclaim the end of a wonderful four years.

Smiles and handshakes say better than words, "Goodby and good luck."

In the design of an event like Graduation, the people, themselves, interest and appeal to us most. Having received their diplomas, the graduates display varied and unpredictable emotions; a few cry; others silently consider the significance of the occasion as they pose for the family camera; while many enthusiastic ex-students run out of the stadium, cheering.

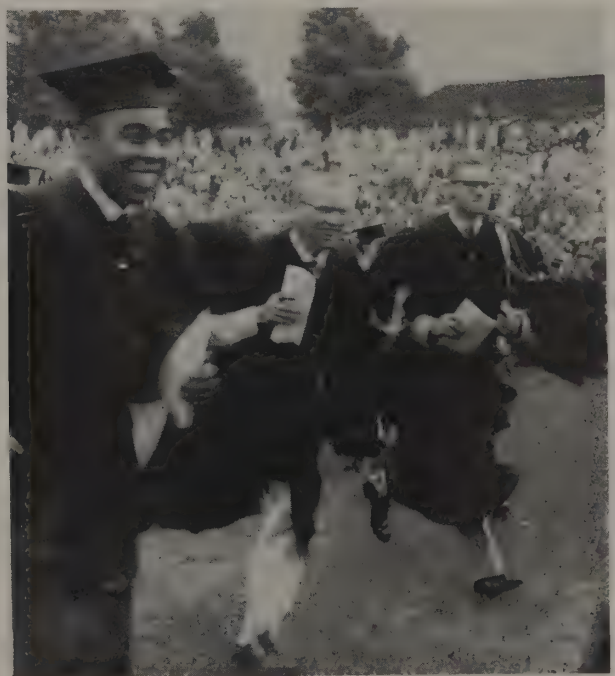

The standards, carried before the graduating members of each school during the ceremonies, are casually propped up and neglected during the last minute rush. The graduate, in the confusion following all the "pomp and circumstance," may be a little undecided and dazed about the whole affair, but as soon as he sees the fact in black and white on the front page of the Daily Student, he finally grasps the truth, "I've made it!"

We're out! The shouts toast the future, salute the past.

Look out World, here we come.

Yelda Yse Rife

The Album

... attempts to fulfill the second purpose of the yearbook by providing a "Who's Who" of the campus. Here we have included ...

Residences. A collection of formal and informal portraits of students who live in University housing, or in sororities or fraternities.

Organizations. Student government, honoraries, special interest organizations ... The story of what they are and who participates in each one.

Sports. The teams that fight on the gridiron or to make a basket ... in a pool or on a tennis court ... wearing a fencing mask or a catcher's mask.

Seniors. The persons who have trod the campus for four years, leaving the marks of their passing and taking the accumulated values derived from their experiences to the world beyond Bloomington.

Oak Hall was busy this year in a round of social activities. They joined talent and time with Hickory Hall East for a booth at the Fall Carnival, gave a Faculty Reception, and attended exchange dinners. Just before Thanksgiving, the girls gave a party for foreign students.

Oak Hall points with pride to Dagnija Blomkalns who was crowned Arbutus Queen by Stan Kenton. They also had girls active in campus groups. Gloria Randle was on AWS Board of Standards, and Adrienne Griffin was chosen to be on the Mademoiselle Fashion Board.

Returning happily from what was probably a typical I. U. study date are Phyllis Crain, Janice Johnson, and Virginia Hose.

Walnut Hall

This year Walnut Hall was closed in February. At night the lower half of the dorm was dark because all of the girls lived on the second floor during the first semester when the dorm was still used. Closing the dorm prohibited the continuance of many traditions such as mixers, exchange dinners and picnics. The first part of the year Walnut had the usual Christmas caroling and Pajama parties. They joined the boys' dorms in Trees Center for a Fall Carnival booth called This Old House. The Freshman Class Treasurer lived in Walnut Hall.

Since they were leaving, the girls in Walnut gave their library, including their records, to the new Trees Center library.

A gentleman visitor to Walnut Hall is greeted by Shirley Stepp, Fran Rider, and Ann Snourt.

This is the first year Wing IV has been open. This year they had several Pajamas parties and at Christmas they had a Pixie party at which each Pixie was given a small gift which she donated to charity. They joined the Sigma Nus at Christmas to go caroling.

A booth at the Fall Carnival belonging to Theta Chi and Wing IV was called the Silver Dollar Follies. Other social events included mixers, exchange dinners, and a Spring formal which they hope will become an annual event.

There were several girls from Wing IV in the Indiana Belles. Kathleen Callon was a Senator and Issie Shelton was a Senator, member of Mortar Board, and on the Judicial Board. June Donner was a member of the Arbutus Queen Court.

For a better looking totem pole Smithwood, Wing IV presents, top to bottom, Karen Wolkam, Sherrie Smith, and Renee Siegle.

North Hall Barons

This year the men of Baron Manor won four MRC plaques for athletics, social affairs, work in MRC, and unit progress. They also won the Kiwanis trophy for maintaining the highest scholarship in MRC.

To open their social program they gave a Halloween party in Baron Lounge. During the height of the festivities someone, who is to this day unknown, draped in a sheet, slithered into the room howling at the top of his voice. He departed leaving a roomful of bewildered partygoers. Other social events included a Christmas party and a steak fry.

The Barons are well represented on campus, with the president of the MRC Board, President of the Freshman Med class, a member in the Student Senate and on I. U. Foundation.

"Always did want to smash that guy!" Mike Gross, Ted Fody, Norman Hayes, and Dave Sinnett prepare to ruin a priceless Grandma Moses painting.

North Hall Cavaliers

Tom Miller, standing, and left to right on bed, Burton Sweetow, Jack Chareton, and Jim May discover that a "cooperative" phone call can be highly amusing.

"Deck the halls with boughs of holly" appeared to be the theme of the North Hall Cavaliers' annual Christmas party. With a roaring fire in the fireplace, clusters of mistletoe and holly decorating the walls, and a gayly decorated tree, Cavalier Lounge became a holiday haven for the men and their dates. The party was a big success as the spirits of the holiday banished all thoughts of tests and term papers and brought more enjoyable thoughts to mind. Other events on the year's social docket were mixers, exchange dinners, and the annual Cavalier Spring steak fry at McCormick's Creek.

The Cavaliers also did well in athletics. They had exceptionally good football, softball, and volleyball teams last year and have hopes for some future championships.

It was 2 a.m. and all was quiet in Friar Hall. Most of the men were in bed sleeping except for a few diehards who were finishing their studies. Suddenly, out of nowhere came the loud, clear trumpet blasts of reveille. Some of the men awoke to thoughts of summer camp while others just awoke startled. Then all was peaceful. The culprit?—unknown; a successful boress.

This little joke typifies the Friars' attitude towards having a good time. Socially, they carried this attitude through their Fall Pajama Dance, Christmas Party, and Spring Steak Fry. Other social events included exchange dinners, mixers, and picnics. Their success was also carried into scholarship and athletics where the Friars showed well in many sports.

Warning to all girls . . . never write a mushy letter to a Friar. Why? . . . See above Friar men, Jim Randall, Dave Guest, John Robertson, Bob Corya, and John Carmody.

A round peg in a square hole. . . . Trying where others have failed are seated Kenton Byrd and Thomas Thomson. Standing are Jack Pitman, Richard Williams, and Donald Crowe.

One night in 1947 a group of World War II veterans living on the second floor of West Hall held a meeting to decide upon a name for their unit. None seemed more fitting than the insignia on their bomber. Since then, West Hall II has been known as the Grim Reapers.

This year's successful activities might be summed up in the slogan "Back the Best." The slogan stemmed from this year's Dames Ball King contest. Hard work by the men in the unit and campus wide tours proved rewarding as the Reapers' candidate was successful in his quest for the crown.

The Reapers' social season included record dances, mixers, MRC dances, and steak fries and hayrides at McCormick's Creek. They were well represented in both unit and campus government.

Sororities

Alpha Chi Omega

Alpha Chi Omega's 55 girls live on Jordan Avenue. Alpha Chi started their social season last year with the Carnation Banquet and Date Dinner. Later, they had the pledge dance, "Our Very Own."

Jane Allen starts the list of outstanding actives with the position of AWS President. Mary Ann McNary and Ginger Snapp were members of Mortar Board. Sandy Kemp was President of Enomene, and two members were in Pleiades.

This year the Alpha Chis won first place for the best inside show at the Fall Carnival. Another house honor goes to Jane Allen, who received the Wendell Wilkie scholarship.

It's a gay time most of the time. Just ask Alpha Chis Barbara Welcher, Joan Hitchcock (seated), Nancy Cochran and Mary Ann McNary (standing).

Alpha Gamma Delta

Row I: Marylee Zimmerman, Rosemary Gobla, Carolyn Zanin, Janet Townsend, Natalie Smith, Louise Stienecker, Phyllis Magenheimer, Mitzi Coppes, Nadine Raseta, Maryliz Milling, Patty Loux. Row II: Betty Jenkins, Ruth Ellen Donaldson, Carol Engstrom, Nada Stilovich, Karen Clouse, Jeanne Narta, Marty Wright, Jeanne Kovalek, Lesley Callum, Carol Lieberum, Judy MacLaren. Row III: Gloria Marchland, Gloria Mueller (Treas.), Suzanne Lienhart, Nancy Boyd (V. P.),

Concentrated reading, over-the-shoulder peeking. The reason? Mail—from male or female—is always exciting literature say Carol Engstrom, Gloria Marchand, Gloria Mueller, and Karen Clouse.

The girls in the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority live in a little brick house at 1401 East Tenth Street. This year the girls fixed the basement of the house into a chapter room. The pledges painted the room and the fathers tiled the floor.

Many social events were held including the Scholarship Dinner, Faculty Buffet Supper, and Waiters Reverse Dinner. The Spring Formal, scavenger hunt, and Mother Pope's Card Party were other annual events. Pin Men's Dinner, Pledges' Open House, Spring Pledge Dance, Junior Prom Breakfast, and Senior Farewell Dinner also kept the Alpha Gams busy.

Carolyn Zanin was chairman of the Bachelor of the Year contest. Marilyn Collins received the Fall scholarship award and Carol Engstrom was the outstanding pledge.

Alpha Kappa Alpha

The Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority is very proud to have one of its members as an officer of their national organization. They also have members on the I. U. Foundation and in Pleiades.

Socially, they honored their pledges with a dance. The Fall dance was held in the Marine Room and aptly enough, was based on a marine theme. Paper fish and other aquatic decorations surrounded the room. Other dances included the Ivy League Ball and a dance put on by the pledges entitled "Winter Wonderland." The girls entered the ABCD rooms attired in white and danced amidst Christmas decorations.

The corner get-together-talk-together-laugh-together can't be beat. Frances Smith, Barbara Turner, Louise Tyler, Patricia Freeman, and Joyce Sterling take a study break.

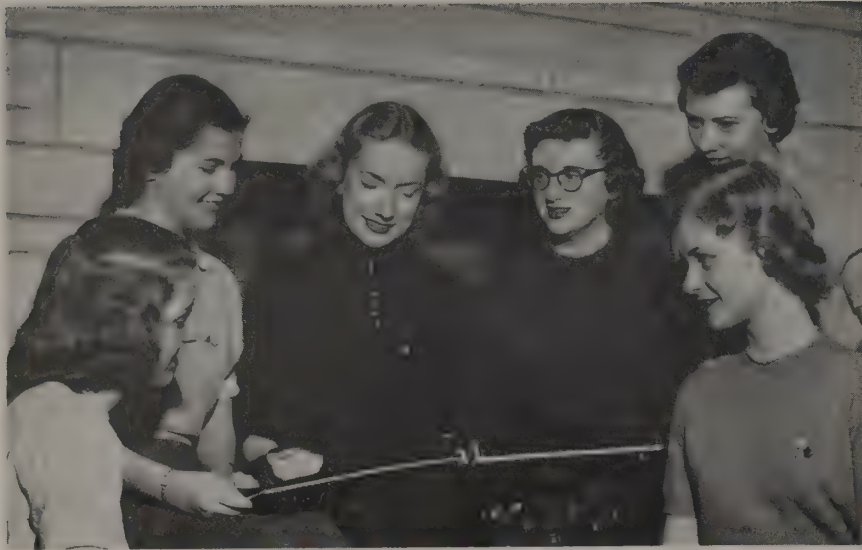

Row I: Lillian Walker, Elizabeth Parker, Lois Powell, Franklynne Gibson, Joyce Watts (V. P.), Gwendolyn Crocker, Mildred Sanders, Marilyn Harris. Row II: Marie Hall, Joyce Sterling, Marilyn Hendricks, Louise Tyler, Betty Jo Radcliffe, Catherine Barnes, Barbara Turner

(Sec.), Patricia Freeman. Row III: Janet Cheatham, Margaret Smith, Frances Smith (Pres.), Charlene Owens, Pearlene Butler, Olivia Shaw (Treas.), Flora Bryant.

Alpha Omicron Pi

What are memories made of? Of work and play, of books and dates. The AOPs like scrapbook browsing. Barbara Stinson, Jane Baker, Beverly Boegaholtz, Barbara Owens, Rheta Rumsyre, and Marilynn Bolitha consult the memory book.

The Alpha Omicron Pi house is an ultra-modern structure a little over two years old.

The AOP's had Dad down for Dad's Day and devoted a weekend to Mother's whims. In addition, the sorority had dances for the seniors and the pledges. Alpha Omicron Pi also had its annual Steak and Bean Dinner.

The AOP's had several members active on Campus: Ann Paramenko, a Justice of the Supreme Court; Kathy Riggins, President of Pleiades and Chairman of Rush Counselors; Pat Kozacik, a cheerleader; Parada Mogozin, cheer leader of the year; and Leslie Yearian, a Student Senator, YWCA Promotions Co-ordinator, and a member of the Student-Faculty Relations Board.

Row I: Marilyn Roser, Jane Baker (V. P.), Mary Jane McDermond, Sylvia Bode, Sue Barnhisel, Jane Coy, Mrs. Kuerst (Housemother), Marjorie Scudamore, Nancy Miller, Carol Felten, Rita Dalke, Janice Flora, Carolyn Hasler. Row II: Sandra Schleeter, Marianne Griffith, Catharine Armstrong, Sandra Puterbaugh, Joanie Barnhisel, Grace Berry, Nancy Wygant, Judie Bright, Marti Ariano, Carolyn Feutz, Carol Kuder, Jane Toates, Rose Smiley. Row III: Rebecca White, Sibyl McAuslan, Marjorie Grinstead (Treas.), Marilynn Kidd, Katharine

Alpha Phi

The members of Alpha Phi were busy in activities and beauty queen contests. Marlene Chambers was on Union Board, Dottie Williams was a member of Mortar Board, and both girls were on the Student Foundation. Carolyn Turner was crowned Miss Indiana of 1955, Joyce Cutner was the National Sweetheart of Kappa Delta Rho, and Ruth Ann Asher was a member of the Homecoming Court.

The Phis are especially proud of their scholarship improvement. They raised the house average from fourteenth to eighth place on campus. They are also proud of the honorable mention they received for their Little 500 decorations.

The annual formal, "Forget-Me-Not Fantasy"; two pledge dances, exchange dinners, and a faculty tea were included on their social calendar.

Alpha Xi Delta

Row I: Ann Luhmann, Janice Holt, Joanne Bon Durant, Emma Raymer, Diantha Horton, Sharon Williams, Rosemary Eves. Row II: Waneta Laughlin (Pres.), Adrienne Peterman, Martha Mull, Leonora Little, Georgia Rider, Bernice Patterson, Patricia Blossom. Row III:

Rita Zahn, Carolyn Gentry, Kathy Arbuckle (Sec.), Mary Wallace, Suzanne Reuter-Lorenz (Treas.), Sue Groh, Patricia Gaskey, Dolores Pacheco, Patricia Hapner.

Pat Gaskey, Kathy Arbuckle, Jo Ann BonDurant and Georgia Rider take time out to concentrate on leisure.

The Alpha Xi Delta sorority house is a white stucco example of Spanish architecture.

The members staged both Fall and Spring formal dances. Other social events included a Faculty Tea, a white elephant sale, an Alumni Christmas dinner, Parents' Day, and a suppressed desire dinner during Final Week.

Scholarship awards were given to the girl who showed the greatest improvement and to the girl with the highest grades. The outstanding pledge received a pledge blanket and the outstanding senior, her name on a plaque.

Members are represented on the Christian Center Committee, YWCA Cabinet, Gamma Alpha Chi, and Omicron Nu.

Chi Omega

The 60 members of the Chi Omega sorority were exceptionally busy with their annual social events. Included in these were the Fall Dance, Pledge Formal Dance and Pledge Open House, Mother and Father's Day, Fall and Spring Eleusinian (Celebration of Founding), and Alumnae Homecoming Buffet. They won first place in mixed group singing with the Sigma Nu's at the I.U. Sing and their candidate for Junior Prom Queen won first place honors.

The Chi O's were also busy in activities. Their membership included the President of Panhellenic, Secretary of YWCA, two girls on Mortar Board, chairman of AWS Convention, Justice of the Supreme Court, and Secretary of Pi Lambda Theta.

It's time for a coffee break. Harriet Remick, Betty Bulleit, Shirley McAlpine, Ruth Dreir meet in the Chi Omega kitchen for the pause that refreshes.

Delta Delta Delta

Cindy Hoover and Belle Stewart join heads to impress some prof with "learnisms."

The Tri-Delt house, located at 818 E. Third Street, is uniquely designed with multiples of three used throughout the house.

Delta Delta Delta entertained last year at their annual Pansy Breakfast, the Spring Pledge Dance, Dad's Weekend, Mother's Weekend, Informal Christmas, and the Faculty Dinner.

Many Tri-Delts were known on campus for their participation in activities. Bobby Onksen served as President of YWCA, Joanne Varady was Treasurer of YWCA and on the Mortar Board, and Marilyn Austin was Secretary of Panhellenic.

Honors! Yes, the Tri-Delts won many honors also. They won first place in the Theta Olympics for the third time in succession, participated in the Fall Carnival, won first place in the I.U. Sing, and won first place for their Homecoming decorations.

Delta Gamma

Keck, Laurie Davis (V. P.), Barbara Danner, Nancy Schubert, Lois Kett, Sharon Kraybill, Sandy Jones, Carol Metz, Luanne Morris, Joline McVicker, Marilyn McComas. Row IV: Sandy Brown, Diane Deutsche, Barbara Bauer, Louise Esarey, Patty Brown, Sylvia Sparks, Charlotte Woodward, Sharon DeRose, Linda Foncannon, Suzanne Geer, Evelyn Kaufmann, Margot Chevalier, Barbara Browning, Sylvia De Greve.

Jordan Avenue's Delta Gammas include JoAnn Moore, President of Enomene and a member of Pleiades; Roberta Fox, President of FTA and also a member of Pleiades and AWS Council; Lorrie Davis, Treasurer of AWS. Molly Derr is President of Delta Gamma, on the I.U. Foundation and Vice-president of Enomene. Sandy Kissinger and Mickey DeRose received Union awards, are in Enomene and members of AWS.

Last year Gerda Thompson, the DG's foreign student, was in the Junior Prom court and Sylvia deGreve was Military Ball Queen. Delta Gamma again sold white canes for the blind.

"Well, well, well, Hannah, my Delta Gamma," sing Patty Brown, Diane Deutsche, Gloria Hale, Margot Chevalier, and Sandy Brown in an after dinner rendition of favorite songs.

Delta Sigma Theta

Row I: Floretta Ford (Treas.), Kay Wilkey, Patricia Thomas, Jacqueline Henry (Pres.), Esther Quarles, Rosalie Curtis (Sec.). Row II:

Jamesetta Petway, Jessie Norman, Eileen Dearing, Helen Baker. Row III: Carolyn Parker (V. P.), Charlotte Waterford, Yvonne Jackson.

"That's all there is to it," says Jacqueline Henry to Carolyn Parker and Phyllis Taylor.

The I. U. Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta played hostess last Spring to more than 200 representatives of chapters in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia, and Indiana. The occasion was the Mid-west Regional Convention. There were guest speakers and a tea for the visiting chapters during the three-day convention.

This year the pledges gave a dance on January 13th—Friday, the 13th! Black cats and other decorations helped to carry out the theme—Black Fantasy.

Delta Sigma Theta also had their annual Spring Formal dance which was held in Alumni Hall.

Delta Zeta

The new addition to the Delta Zeta house has given them almost twice as much room as they previously had. Included in the addition are a recreation room, an informal living room, a heated dorm, a sundeck, an enlarged dining room, and a kitchen. Last year the DZ's had a Dames Ball dinner, the Jr. Prom Breakfast, and two dances. Before Christmas Santa Claus, bearing a strong resemblance to a DZ pledge, bounced into the house for the gift exchange. Later in the year the executive council changed places with the waiters for the annual Turnabout Dinner.

In activities, DZ's held the Editorship of the Daily Student, President and Treasurer of Theta Sigma Phi, YWCA Vice-president, and had girls on Mortar Board and Panhellenic Executive Council.

"One woman tells another—". Ann Porter gathers the campus news as Carrie Cunningham, Shirley Spear, Janet Rothert, Nancy Poteet, and Janet Ward wait for the latest returns of the day.

Kappa Alpha Theta

Someone must have had a terrific summer from the facial expressions of Stephany Miller, Nancy Sprague, Diann Brickley, and Mary Orr.

Socially, the Thetas presented their annual Christmas dance and Little 500 Parents Weekend. Last Spring at the pledge dance couples were transported back to the days of Cleopatra for "A Night on the Nile." The girls also had a dinner for their pin men.

But all is not play. While maintaining their high scholarship, the Thetas were also busy activity-wise as evidenced by the number of members holding responsible campus positions. Last year they had officers and representatives on the Supreme Court, Mortar Board, Panhellenic, Arbutus, I. U. Foundation, AWS Board of Standards, YWCA Cabinet, and a class office.

Keehn, Mary Fackler, Billie Clingman, Sue Crisler, Joan Carlson, Sue Schuler, Kay Fisbeck, Ann Kaegi, Barbara Bigge, Sally Branson, Sharon Hanna. Row IV: Jo Ann Hall, Nancy Green, Stephany Miller, Elizabeth Matthew, Sue Ann Miller, Diann Brickley (Pres.), Soni York, Diane Barber, Mary George Hunter, Cissee Pfeiffer, Mart O'Rourke, Diana Creighton, Nancy Sprague (V. # Kappa Delta

Myers, Elizabeth Johnson, Carole Henricks, Suzanne Pearman (Pres.), Marilyn Jennings (V. P.), Barbara Deutsch, Kay Snyder, Carolyn Furlong, Doris Roth.

The newest addition to the social fraternity system at I. U. is the Kappa Delta sorority. The pledge class was formed April 30, 1955 and the Sigma Upsilon chapter of Kappa Delta was activated October 8, 1955. At the present time the girls are living in a temporary residence at 630 E. Third, but plans are already underway for their permanent residence on New Fraternity Row. The proposed house will be of Georgian colonial architecture and they hope that it will be completed by September, 1956. In the Third Street lodge the girls are doing all their own work. The cook is chosen by a rotation system for each meal, and all the girls participate in the housework. The Kappa Deltas and Phi Kappa Taus co-sponsored the Jitterbug Contest at the Fall Carnival and are hoping it will become an annual event.

KD ladies, Carole Hendricks, Elizabeth Shattuck, Karen Carlisle, Marilyn Jennings, and Carolyn Furlong take a look at the plans for their new house on Fraternity Row.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Row I: Rusty Smallwood, Donna Buck, Mary Ann Hostetter, Diane Terry, Ibbey Metsker, Sue Teeters, Nancy Voeiz, Kit Hartnett, Emsy Crowder, Delene Smith, Bethany Hoot, Janet Bechtold. Row II: Inger Wold, Carol Cooper, Nancy Currier, Kirby Anne Duckworth, Barb Bassett, Sue Smith, Barbara Meyer, Kenni Peck, Judy Switzer, Jeanne Black (Cor. Sec.), Carolyn Baker, Cindy Ballantine, Barbara Sommer. Row III: Martha Ritter, Sheila McCarty, Nan Tobin, Suzie Buck, Ruth

The I. U. Sing is just around the corner as Marty Heindel and Judy Roberts take care of the music, while Nancy Holland and Sue Sackett vocalize.

The Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority started the year by helping the Kappa Sigmas with the Fall Carnival. They held a Fall Pledge dance and a faculty buffet. The Pi Beta Phi sorority joined the "Keys" in giving the Monmouth Duo.

The girls are especially proud of the Efficiency Cup which they were awarded by the National Kappa Kappa Gamma organization and the Miniature "500" trophy which they won last year.

Several members held positions in campus activities. Martha Heindel was Secretary of the Union, Barbara Bassett was a Student Senator, Bethany Hoot was Secretary of FTA, Anne Erseman was Secretary of A.C.E., Shannon Traw was on YWCA Council, and Sue Smith was a cheerleader.

Phi Mu

The girls of Phi Mu are excited about moving into their new house next Fall. It will be of Georgian architecture.

Phi Mu has a pledge dance and a Christmas dance each year. In addition to a full social schedule, the Phi Mus are proud of the fact that they won the most original booth prize in the Fall Carnival. Last Fall they won honorable mention for their Homecoming display.

Doris Rhinesperger was on the YWCA Cabinet; Doris Day was in the Indiana Belles; Virginia Garrison was a member of Alpha Delta Theta; Marie Ubon and Virginia Garrison belonged to Sigma Alpha Iota; and Lillian Philpott was night editor of the Daily Student and a member of Theta Sigma Phi.

A moment of relaxation consists of candlelight and gin rummy at the Phi Mu house for Hester Muzzal, Linda Arterburn, Betty Fiedler, Doris Rhinesperger, and Norma Sering.

Row I: Norma Sering, June Schmidt, Marie Uban, Virginia Garrison, Meredith Zara, Frances Dvorscak (V. P.), Patricia McMillan, Ruth Allen (Treas.), Barbara Reahard. Row II: Lalan Philpott, Betty Fryman, Sasha Ann Hire, Neva Carlos, Madaline Seely, Doris Rhinesperger, er, Carol Meyer, Mary Ann Farcus, Betty Anne Fiedler. Row III: Doris Day, Hester Muzzall (Pres.), Delores Shay, JoAnn Kirwer, Beau Seward, Linda Arterburn (Sec.), Barbara Langster, Kaye Tiegelgus, Marlene Neidhardt, Anita Parent, Mary Johnson.

Pi Beta Phi

Pi Phi's Maureen Sweet, Nancy Ullrey, Carol Hudson, Ginger Albright, Marcia Combs, and Phyllis Russey seemed pleased over their first place trophy—and who wouldn't be?

Last year the Pi Phi's sponsored the Miniature 500. The initial event was such a success that it seems the Miniature 500 will become almost as necessary to the Little 500 weekend as the big race itself. Another first and great success was the Greek Week all-campus open house.

Pi Beta Phi placed first in sorority scholarship this year, but broke the monotony of study with two pledge dances and the Monmouth Duo, a dance co-sponsored by Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Kappa Gamma in honor of their foundings in Monmouth, Illinois.

Pi Phi is represented on Mortar Board, Jr. Panhellenic, and Jr. Union Board. Early in the year Sandy Schroeder reigned over the Sweater Hop as Sweater Queen.

Sigma Delta Tau

Myrna Yalowitz (Pres.), Sara Frances Maza, Marlene Goldzwig, Judy Hershenow (V. P.), Maxine Mages. Row IV: Sheila Fienberg (Sec.), Ellen Glickstein, Barbara Jane Strauss, Sandra Solotkin, Jackie Rubenstein, Loris Slutsky, Sheila Ulit.

The 31 members of Indiana University's Upsilon chapter of Sigma Delta Tau proudly wear their pins, which are in the shape of a torch.

The white frame house on the corner of Jordan and Seventh had many functions last year. The Sigma Delta Tau had formals and open houses in honor of their new pledges.

This year the SDT's studied hard and excelled in many activities. Marlene Braun was Treasurer of Panhellenic, Barbara Strauss served as Secretary of the Freshman Class, and Carol Kalver was the Corresponding Secretary of Hillel.

Showing a true spirit of Christmas by sending food to Bloomington underprivileged children are Paula Levenstein, Sheila Fienberg, Sheila Ulit, Maxine Mages, Myrna Yalowitz.

Sigma Kappa

Row I: Donna Jo Neal, Suzanne Steckley, Mary Bassett, Kathryn Weil-and, Judy Meise, Mrs. Ruth Wooton (Housemother), Miriam Hoge-meyer, Gwen Scherger, Claudette Nebelsick, Sally Martin, Janice Smith. Row II: Bunnie LaBartt, Priscilla White, Rowena Green, Jo Anne Marshall, Phyllis Mason, Virginia Hall, Gloria Ankers, Mary Pauer, Janice Myers, Jan Cork, Lois Schnaiter. Row III: Judy Stucky, Margaret Johnson (V. P.), Gail Gallinger (Treas.), Ann Galvin, Jo

Ann Varkony, Nancy Leighty, Roberta Colbert, Margaret Emrick, June Hauenstein, Pat Bless, Patricia Ingels, Carol Gilkey, Beverly Melton, Donna Sue Hageman. Row IV: Pat Anderson (Rec. Sec.), Betsy Kroger, Laura Tesh, Nancy Fields, Mary Jane Musgrave, Karen Abrell, Marilyn Asher, Marilyn Anderson, Virginia Bergstrom, Margaret Ed-mondson (Cor. Sec.), Mary Gavin, Judy Reick, Nancy Janney, Barbara Manhart, Janet Rongey, Carolyn Longcamp (Pres.).

Bidding their sister and her handsome date goodnight are Jo Anne Marshall, Miriam Hagemeyer, Jan Cork, and Cil White.

The 55 actives and pledges of Sigma Kappa hope to double the size of their English style house by August of 1956. They are adding a wing which will include a dining room and a kitchen on the first floor. There will also be two floors of study rooms and baths, and a sundeck.

The Sigma Kappas were busy all year but especially in the Spring when they had their house dance "Lavender Lane," Mother's Weekend, and the Faculty Buffet.

Last year, the Sigma Kappas won the University Sing trophy for the third consecutive year. They were equally as proud of this as the many activities in which their members participated. They had people on Mortar Board, Union Board, Vice-president of WRA, and a majorette for the Marching Hundred.

Theta Phi Alpha

Actives serving pledges breakfast in bed? That's exactly what happened at the Theta Phi Alpha house on turnabout day. The actives and pledges changed roles for 24 hours, and while the pledges had their fun, the actives just bided their time.

Socially, the Theta Phis got underway with the Halloween pledge dance. Amidst witches and corn shocks the pledges were honored by their "active mothers." Christmas provided the theme and atmosphere for the next event, the Candy Cane Strut. A gaily decorated Christmas tree and colorful candy canes added to the holiday atmosphere. The social year also included a Spring Pledge dance and the annual White Rose Formal. The Theta Phis celebrated their April 30th founding with a dinner followed by the installation of new officers.

Relaxation supreme on a rainy night . . . one hi-fi will do it. Enjoying the set are Roberta Mastey, Barbara Overdeck, Lois Paloski, and Mary Jane Simons.

Row I: Donna Griffin (Sec.), Joanne Gillette Beckmar (Pres.), Mrs. Helen Cahill (Housemother), Roberta Mastey, Cecilia Gutierrez. Row II: Barbara Overdeck (Treas.), Joyce Freehauf, Laun Everetta, Lois

Zeta Tau Alpha

The girls of Zeta Tau Alpha are looking forward to moving into a new colonial styled house next year on New Fraternity Row.

The ZTA's had a Fall Pledge dance and a Christmas Party for their pledges. The women of Oxford Manor then entertained at the Waiters' Dinner and held a Spring Dance and Junior Prom breakfast.

The Zeta Tau Alphas are proud of Helen Whittymore who won the Panhellenic Scholarship last year as well as other members active on campus. Georgelma DeVault was a Student Senator and copy editor for the Arbutus. Georgia May was night editor of the Daily Student and Barbara Malmstrom served on Union Board. Other members were in YWCA, Pleiades, Alpha Lambda Delta, Theta Sigma Phi, the Hoosier Queens, and Indiana Belles.

Carefully adjusting their characters for a house dance are seated, Marilyn Tuttle and Susie Fulton. Standing are, Donna Steckman, Georgia May, and Pat Watkins.

Row I: Lois Cole, Mary Anne Barkley, Frances Logan, Janet Musgrave, Martha Welch, Georgia May, Ann Wilkinson, Wilma Ebert, Marilynne Tuttle (V. P.), Phyllis Brown, Barbara Craney, Ruth Hargis, Pat Marocco, Nancy Hershman. Row II: Bonnie Barnard, Betty Ellis, Mary O'Neill, Karen Keefer, Peggy Hampton, Janet Harding, Suzanne Fulton (Pres.), Mrs. Walter J. Stahlschmidt (Housemother), Sharlie Shull, Pat Watkins, Barbara Lockhart, Carole Regas, Sandra Troyer, Rosalyn Bright, Dona Steckman (Sec.). Row III: Carolyn Wisner,

Fraternities

Acacia

Beneath their impressive crest, Paul Bender, Dave Haviland, Richard Routh, and Bill Mann study an important amendment to the by-laws.

The 60 men of Acacia live at 702 East Third. In addition to the fellows, "Alex" also lives there. He is their Boxer. (Dog, not fighter!)

Last year the pledges of Acacia had a dance which was a great success. The pledges and their dates wore decorative costumes. Around Christmas Acacia had a formal dinner, as well as a Christmas party for orphans. They also joined forces with the ATO's and Phi Gams for the Iron Triangle. With Spring came the annual Spring Colonnade. Mother's day was celebrated with an ice cream social.

Acacia held the pole position in the Little 500 last year and won the Houdy Wilcox Award.

Alpha Phi Alpha

The members of Alpha Phi Alpha reside in South Hall of the MRC. John P. Ward and William Haines are on the staff of the Department of Government. Donald Ward is a member of the Big Ten track team.

Members and their dates enjoyed the Athenian Formal, the annual Spring dance. Especially exciting was the selection of the Alpha Queen and her court. The boys took their dates to a skating party, the traditional Homecoming Dance, and the annual Founder's Day ceremonies.

They excelled in the Intramural world by being runner-up in the all campus basketball tourney.

Alpha Tau Omega

Row I: Richard DeFreeuw, William Stoner, Edward Miller, Thomas Beck, Richard Masselink, Stan Dickson, Bruce Curtis (Pres.), Phil Antibus, Jim Seeright, Jerry Young, Jim Wertenberger (V. P.). Row II: John Reid, William Snyder, Neill Petronella, Donald Leak, Bill Cumberland, Jack Wade, Gene McNary, Steve Stavron, Bob Brennan, Ted Booher, Jim Capehart, Kent Cunningham, Dave Riggs, Harry Gallagher. Row III: Edward Whalen, Warren McCullough, Dick Painter, Keith Kookan, Bruce Smith, Dave Bryant (Sec.), Mike Robin-

Four men, four paddles, and four good times . . . Bruce Curtis, Stan Dickson, Gary Gieseke, and Jim Capehart.

The ATO's joined the Sigma Nus to present the annual V.M.I. dance. A pledge dance and the Little 500 breakfast were also included on the social calendar during the last year.

Stan Dickson was President of YMCA and Jerry Young was Vice-president. Don Leak and Charles Douglas served on the YMCA Cabinet.

The members of "Tau House" walked away with first place in the I. U. Sing, and in the Intramural world they were recognized as the volleyball champions of the year.

The ATO's and their neighbors on Third Street, the Acacias and Phi Gams, presented the first Iron Triangle dance at Christmas time.

Beta Theta Pi

A well-known Fraternity house located on East Tenth Street is the Beta House. They were the first Fraternity on Indiana University's campus. In 1954 the Betas added a wing to their house which adds many new facilities for the members. The Betas have four University buildings named after them. The Beta Theta Pi Well House was dedicated by Betas.

The Betas showed their usual great form in presenting their annual social events. Among these were the Miami Triad, Beta Underworld Dance, and the Honeymoon Dance.

They placed second in intramural sports. Included in their membership was Jim Droege, a Justice of the Supreme Court.

Wail that stick, man! Herb Bradford, Charles Sims, Jack Kern, and Keith Barnett rock 'n roll at the Beta house.

Row I: James Bowen, Charles Sims, David Scott, James LaBrash (V. # Delta Chi

Memoirs of bygone years are heralded by the Delta Chi scrapbook. Examining its records are seated, Fred Gehrke, Bill Dowling, Wayne Eastridge, Ron Bengtson, and Jim Whittaker. Standing are Mike Glasscott and George Rafferty.

The Greek letters Delta and Chi form the pinlight of the 60 members of the Delta Chi fraternity located on Jordan Avenue. Wyngate Lodge is the title given to the Old-English style house by the Delta Chis.

A Jordan Avenue mud fight was one of the activities of Delta Chis last semester. They also sponsored the Bleed the Greeks blood drive and Thailand Students dinner and finished in third place in the 1955 Little 500.

Again last year the Delta Chis presented their DB dance and Blue Champagne Formal. House awards were given to the outstanding senior, the outstanding pledge, and for scholarship. William Dowling was President, and Wayne Eastridge Vice-president. Outstanding athletes for the season were Les Kuhn, football, and Dick Anthony, wrestling.

Row I: John Holt, Jim Whittaker (Cor. Sec.), Dick Groben, Paul Metcalfe, John Hooning, Paul Nuppnau, Wayne Eastridge (V. P.). Row II: William Coomes, David Kellams, Jack Kelly, Robert Allen, David Campbell, Bob Sturn, Ronald Bengtsan (Sec.), David Moore, Michael Glasscott. Row III: Joseph Orear, Joseph Bodart, John Charles, Charles Liedtke, Dale Ehrlich, Clinton Warkow, Joe Camman, Robert Nelson, Ted McFall, Jerry Kane, Douglass Milligan. Row IV: Roger Wolcott, Row V: John Lee, Ed Cockerill, Bruce Mortensen, Denny Krick, Daniel Harrigan, A. J. Pasma (V. P.), William Walsman (Cor. Sec.), Joe Miller, Jack Pummer, Fritz Haussman, Nick Roknich, Don Hooker (Rec. Sec.).

A large annual social event of the Delts is the "Jazz of the Deltharmonic." For the last five years the Delts have held this campus-wide jam session. This year, despite bad weather, 2500 people attended. The Montgomery Johnson quintet provided some of the finest "modern" jazz ever heard on this campus.

Some of the outstanding Delts include members on the Board of Aeons, the Vice-president of Alpha Kappa Psi, members in Beta Gamma Sigma, Delta Sigma Rho, the Singing Hoosiers, and the Debate team, and the Comptroller of the YMCA. The Executive Assistant and the Associate Chairman of the YMCA are also Delts. This year two Delts were co-captains of the football team.

It takes all this to plan a . . . party? Ed Wittenberg, Elam Huddleston, George Popadopoulos, Tom Ford, John Albertson, Jack Shaw, and A. J. Pasma undoubtedly agree on all the details.

Delta Upsilon

Row I: David Endwright, Dave Kamerschen, Michael Pack, Dale Johnson, Don Bissell (Pres.), Rich Ferguson, Louie Domonkos, Ronald McClintic. Row V: Raymond Christiansen, Larry Admire, Richard Need, Tom Kilpatrick, John VanSenus, James Meadows, Raymond Ball, George Held, Edwin Hill, Robert Coughlin, Don Downing, Jan Poling, John Drew, Bill Miller.

Six men and a dog . . . Steve Shreiner, Dave Fletcher, Don Bissell, Phil Watts, Dave Endwright, Jim Platt, and "Dup."

As one enters the archway of the Delta Upsilon house he might be greeted by Dup, the Delta Upsilon dog.

The "Firehouse" was host to the traditional Rose Ball, the Fireman's Fling, and the Casino Rush Party this year.

The DU's participated in many campus activities. Members served on the Student Senate, Board of Aeons, Student Supreme Court, Union Board, YMCA, Arbutus, and the basketball and wrestling teams.

The firehouse group won fifth in Intramural Athletics and seventh in fraternity scholarship. They also obtained the Delta Upsilon State Day Athletic Trophy and a Fall Carnival trophy.

The most outstanding event to occur at the Delta Upsilon house was the purchase of a new fire truck.

Kappa Alpha Psi

The men of Kappa Kastle were host last year at a tea and reception held in honor of Hamilton Niss who spoke at a forum. The public was invited to meet Mr. Niss.

Kappa Alpha Psi participated in Homecoming activities last Fall, held several open houses, and had a dance for the pledges based on a Christmas theme.

Tom Owens was Secretary-Treasurer of IFC and a member of Sphinx Club and many of the members were active in NAACP.

Mulligan, Brubeck, and the others rate high with all jazz platter lovers, especially Bill Jackson, Don Robinson, and seated on the floor, C. R. Currie.

Row I: Bill Jackson (Pres.), Laurence Williams, Chester McKenzie, Clarence Currie (Sec.), Walter Stephens. Row II: Earl Goosby (Treas.), Leonard Lawrence, Charles Dillard, Donald Robinson, Thomas Owens. Row III: Carroll Dickinson, Don Streets, Francis Rowe, Winston Baker, Webster Brewer.

Kappa Delta Rho

After dinner chess is quite the sport, eh what! Engaging in the competition are standing, Bill Roseberry and Roger Burton. Seated are Thomas Lockwood, Eldon Versteeg, Paul Muckenfuss, Bill Wessel, and Bill Fair.

The fraternity at 814 E. Third houses the 46 men of Kappa Delta Rho. At best, their worries are now over, for the big event of the year was the burning of the mortgage. Hardly had the celebration of this victory died away when plans for the construction of a new house began. With a lot on New Fraternity Row, the KDR's seem to be set.

Kappa Delta Rho claims Kent Arvin, Treasurer of the Junior Class, Secretary of the Organized Party, a member of the YMCA Cabinet, and the Arbutus staff.

The KDR social plans included the Pledge Dance, Winter Formal, Rodeo Dance, the Spring Alum gathering, and the Venison Banquet, Dad's Day and Mother's Day were not forgotten either.

The 65 men of Kappa Sigma live at 1503 East Third with George, the 165 lb. St. Bernard pup, who celebrated his first birthday.

The Kappa Sigs had a freshman banquet, the Granary Ball, and the Useless Man Contest in addition to Casino Night, the Underworld Ball, and the Stardust Ball in honor of Hoagy Carmicheal.

Kappa Sigma's outstanding men include their president, Herb Lyons, who is Senior Director, Executive Officer of the Arnold Air Society, and the member of Sphinx Club. Bob Bruce was President of the "I" Men's Club.

Kappa Sigmas won the IFC Scholarship Trophy and the All-Fraternity and All-Campus Homecoming Decoration Contest.

Visiting the Kappa Sig house, "George" greets Dennis Philpott at the door. Admiring the Swiss hero are Richard Heena, John Nichols, and John Gray.

James Lawsell, Tom Gilson, and Lloyd Milliken find why Long Sam is so long . . . legs maybe?

The I.U. chapter house of the largest national fraternity sits back on a hill on Third Street. Living with the boys in the house this year was Pat, a Scotch collie pup.

The Lambda Chis took first place honors in the production numbers division in last year's I.U. Sing with the AOPis and also for their Homecoming decorations. They held a Winter formal, "Stairway to the Stars," pledge dances, and their annual White Rose Formal.

Last year the Alpha Phis helped the Lambda Chis color and hide five thousand Easter eggs for the children of Bloomington, an annual event for the Lambda Chis.

Bill Dallas, President of the house, also served on the IFC Judicial Board.

Phi Delta Theta

The Phi Delts opened the doors of their new house to the entire campus last Spring and invited everyone to dance to the music of Count Bassie. In addition, they also had a Fall Pledge Dance, the Miami Triad, and the Beachcombers' Ball.

The Phi Delts placed in the top ten teams in the Little 500 and won a trophy for the best front at the Fall Carnival.

It was not all play and no work, however, for their scholarship improvement brought them from 23rd to 11th place on campus.

Active in campus groups were: Jack Rake, Secretary of IFC, on I. U. Foundation, and a member of Sphinx Club; Jack Shang, IFPC; and several members in Falcon Club.

Phi Gamma Delta

On 631 East 3rd Street the stately house of the Fijis is located. Besides being active in intramural sports, the Fijis collected house awards. They were first in scholarship during the spring semester and had the highest cumulative average in scholarship for Fraternities during the last school year. In intramural sports the Fijis won the all-intramural race.

Socially the Phi Gams were also active. The Jeff Hop and the Fiji Island Dance were great successes. Among outstanding members past and present are: Calvin Coolidge, Norman Vincent Peale, Lloyd C. Douglas, Ross Lockridge, Christy Matthewson, Glen Cunningham, and Bob Mathias.

Row I: Nickolas Parisis, Daniel Whitmer, Louis Mangels, Richard Neal, Larry Hightchew, Robert Burns, Richard Barrett, Kenneth Carr, Bill McGarvey, Joseph Baxter, Edward Sturdley. One of the most important resident of the Phi Kappa house is a collie who goes by the distinguished name of Herman "Lodestone" Wells, or "Pledger" for short. Pledger is the spirit chairman of the house. He sees to it that the pep is kept at a high pitch at all of the Phi Kappa athletic affairs. Should it begin to wane, woe be to those who fail in their cheering. Pledger personally sets the example with his own vocal interpretations.

On the social scene, two formals were on the agenda. "Winter Waltz" was the theme for this year's Winter formal. A gigantic Christmas tree was the center of attraction as mistletoe, holly, and other reminders of Winter and Christmas lent a festive air. Old fashioned lamps lit the hall as the "Lamp-lighters Ball" passed into Phi Kappa history.

Phi Kappa Psi

A famous drinking song is undoubtedly being perfected by Carl Meyer, John Fenn, Jim Rogers, and Dick Davis.

This year has been a very good one for the men of Phi Kappa Psi with many activities, social and otherwise on the agenda. They are extremely proud of their Dance of the Golden Veil. This is an annual event when 1022 East Third is transformed into a picture of the Arabian Nights—complete with gardens, waterfalls, and sand. A Fall pledge dance and the Jeff Hop were also held.

Bruce Collins was on an IFC committee.

The Phi Psis placed tenth in the Little 500 last year and participated in intramurals, the University Sing, and the Fall Carnival.

Phi Kappa Tau

Many couples waded through the sand beach on the front porch of the Phi Kappa Tau house to attend the Beachcomber's Ball last Fall. Other events on the social calendar were the Homecoming, Christmas, and Valentine dances, and the Dream Girl Formal.

When one visits at the Phi Kappa Tau house, he will probably be greeted at the door by Teddy, their black setter dog.

The Phi Kappa Taus were represented in several student organizations and they won the "best front display" award at the Fall Carnival last year.

The fraternity, one of the newer chapters on campus, has been progressing rapidly and hopes to build on its lot on New Fraternity Row sometime in the near future.

Phi Sigma Kappa

Joe Tansey, Merrill Neal, and Joe Young, take advantage of a January snow to break the monotony of final week.

The fraternity at 317 E. Second Street houses the 40 members of Phi Sigma Kappa. The men were about to move, but were disappointed when they were unable to begin construction on their new house.

The Moonlight Girl Dance started the Phi Sigs social calendar. Next in line was the Pajama Dance with a prize going to the "best dressed." The Hobo Hop and the Phi Mu-Phi Sigma Kappa football game were also big events last year.

One of the Phi Sigma Kappa traditions is to award a hammer to the pledge who "goofs" his pledge test; nice boress, but not for the pledge—the Phi Sigma Kappa mallet weighs 20 pounds.

Pi Kappa Phi

Row III: Franklin Whitaker (Sec.), Robert Montgomery, Alex Bottos, Bob Roberts, Paul Eshleman, Richard Boyle, Edward McPain.

Herman the Dachshund, a well-known dog around campus, is the mascot of the Pi Kappa Phis. During the year they had several informal dances and their formal dance, the Rose Ball. The pledge-active football games were very exciting.

The Pi Kappas were represented on campus by Jim Marshall, President of IJC; Dick Boyle, member of Sphinx Club; and Bob Roberts, Skull and Crescent.

Are those guys tickling that poor dog's foot? The situation is dubious but Ron Timmons, Dick Boyle, Al Bottos, Jim Marshall, and Bob Robert make a handsome picture.

Pi Lambda Phi

Row I: David Schwartz, Phillip Strauss, Gordon Sakuloff, David Shapiro, Stuart Gold, Michael Smith, Stuart Kahn. Row II: Irwin Narter, Ted Kreines, Howard Rader, Lew Levin, Ira Fenster, Mike Rosenberg (Sec.), Allen Marmalad, Fred Block, Harvey Kraut. Posing by the sign locating the site for their future house on North Jordan Avenue are Mike Rosenberg, Buddy Feldman, Lew Levin, Mel Cantor, and Jim Levy.

Thirty-five Pi Lambda Phis live at 415 Sixth Street. One of the annual events is the Tri-pledge game between the Sigma Alpha Mus, the Zeta Beta Taus, and the Pi Lams. This year the Pi Lams won that event.

Each year at Homecoming, the Pi Lams have a dinner at Skyland Lodge to promote good fellowship and enthusiasm for the game. Another annual event was the Spring formal which culminated the active social year for the Pi Lams.

Lew Levin and Ira Fenster were members of Skull and Crescent and Jim Levy was a member of Falcon Club.

Pi Lambda Phi won the trophy for the best booth, single entry, at the Fall Carnival this year.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has the pleasure of presenting to you members who are serving on the IFC, Union Board, YMCA, varsity football team, Arbustus, Board of Aeons, and the Student Supreme Court.

Such traditional events as the Foreign Students' Tea, the Little 500 Reception, the Apple Polishers' Dinner, the well-known Gypsy Dance, and the Winter Formal at the "Jordan Crest Gables" made the year as busy one for the SAE's.

Honors of the year consisted of the National SAE Scholarship, the SAE Leadership trophy, all-fraternity scholarship trophy, and a second place intramurals award.

In the near future the SAE chapter is planning an addition that will house about twenty-five more members.

Bob Swanson explains the architect's sketch of the beautiful proposed extension to "Jordan Crest Gables" to John Conger, Bill Dieter, and Tom Gorman.

Row I: Martin Bassett, Gregg Elmer, Bob Edwards, Jack Graham, Pete Dodson, Bob Lewis, Jerry Current. Row II: John Staley, Mike Quinn, Jim Bennett, Bob McKinney, Richard Curry, Jack Spangler, Jim Dartnall, Jay Lindsey, Nick Spentzoo. Row III: Dan Palmer, Joseph Landgraf, Ed Pfafflin, Guerry McNabb, Tom Alt, Philip Dauler, Thomas Gorman (Pres.), Jack Dunfee, Dickwin Armstrong, Ray DeTournay, Bill Griffin, Jack Vore, Dick English. Row IV: Don Rumbaugh, Thomas Hurt, Jack Taylor, Bob Dillon, Jim Simmons, Joe Chalfant, Tom Goris,

Sigma Alpha Mu

Enjoying the comfort of their new house on North Jordan are seated on couch, Ed Fine, Lou Mervis, Lew Litzky, Phil Winik. Peering over their shoulders are Hank Greenberg, and Leo Cohen.

The Sammy house, which is located on North Campus Drive, is very modern in construction and has one side almost completely made of glass.

The 80 members of SAM again held such traditional social events as the Winter and Spring Formals, Initiation Dance, and the Homecoming Dance.

The Sigma Alpha Mus received many scholastic and athletic awards. They received awards for the highest scholarship and the most improvement in scholarship. They also received awards for the best athlete, best pledge, and various activity awards.

Row I: Bernard Newbauer, Jack Gross, Leo Cohen, Philip Siegel (Sec.), Philip Winik (Pres.), Lewis Litzky, Arthur Shanker, Bill Emil, Jerry Dann, Jerry Newman. Row II: Samuel Greenstein, Minton Oster-tag, Al Pearlman, Stan Hess, Sandy Sirkus, Jack Schuster, Eddie Fine, Hershel Krushen, Lyle Siegel, Marty Soloman, Ronald Weiss, Al Rob-bins, Ronald Richards, Howard Kraus, Jim Harfield, Arthur Samuel. Row III: Herbert Berman, Gerald Strick, Mark Pastor, Seymour Him-elstein, Harvey Himelstein, Paul Cohen, Marshall Stein, Karl Karkovitz, Michael Field, Stephen Jacobs, Gerald Cohen, Malcolm Milsten, Har-

Sigma Chi's colonial house on East Seventh Street was filled with 75 actives and pledges this year. The Sigs were very active in campus activities. Richard Albershardt is the NCAA trampoline champion; Ronald Schneider, a Student Senator; Steve Bakerhead, an announcer for WFIU; and Tom Mitchell was President of Skull and Crescent. Athletics also brought honor to the Sigs. They made a good showing in Spring golf and this year won the State Sigma Chi Bowling Award.

The annual Melon Mess held on Jordan Field might best be described as messy, but provided a good time for all who attended it. The Melon Mess is not only an activity of the I.U. Sigma Chis, but is now a national event sponsored by Sigma Chi chapters throughout the nation.

Warm weather means walking time, as Bill Pomp, Kent Nixon, and Frank Popoff leave the house for points unknown . . . ?

The social highlights of the Sigma Nu fraternity were their pledge dance, the Bar Room Brawl, and a Spring formal, the V.M.I. dance. The Christmas party held for foreign students was a great success.

The Sigma Nus had outstanding members in many organizations including IFC, I. U. Foundation Steering Committee, Student Senate, Daily Student, and Skull and Crescent. The chairman of the Card Section and the Senior Class President also represented the house.

The Sigma Nus won awards in the Little 500 and the I. U. Sing.

An annual event for the Sigma Nus is their Service Week. This year the project was clearing the area for the new Campus chapel.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The Sig Eps are anxiously awaiting the September opening of their new home on Jordan Avenue. It is to have a set of glass doors across the back opening onto a patio which can be used for Spring dances.

Socially, two formals and a pledge dance were held. "Queen of Hearts" was the theme of the Winter formal. The Spring formal was a joint affair between the Sig Eps and Sig Pis and the Spring pledge dance was a gala costume affair. Highlighting the athletic calendar was the annual football game between I. U. and Purdue chapters of Sigma Phi Epsilon for the "Scrub Bucket."

The Sig Eps won the IFC Scholarship Improvement award and had members on YMCA Cabinet, as Chairman of Campus Service Council, on the I. U. Foundation, and as Director of the Sophomore Class.

Agreeing on the beauty of their proposed house and grounds are Ed Stevens, Gary Crawford, Bob Schindler, Bill Percifield, Larry King and Dave Hanna.

Sigma Pi

"Dummy" Bob Miser keeps an eye on his partner Jay Grimes as Mike Long and Ray Heiman proceed to stop their opponents.

The men of Sigma Pi are rightfully boasting of one of the best scholarship improvements on campus. Last year they jumped from twenty-first to ninth place in scholarship.

While the emphasis was on scholarship last year, the social program was by no means neglected. On the calendar last year were the Basketball Homecoming Dance, the Orchid Formal held jointly by Kappa Delta Rho and Sigma Pi in the Masonic Temple, and the annual Pledge Dance which was a costume affair. Sigma Pis were members of Union Board, and the baseball and football teams.

P.), Dave Ertel.

Carnations completely captured the eye as Tau Kappa Epsilon presented their annual Winter formal, the Red Carnation Ball. The fountain and pool in the center of the house was ringed with carnations as the theme was carried throughout the house. Earlier in the year, they held the annual Hollyberry Hop. Stimulated by traditional Christmas decorations, the holiday spirit reigned. Other social events were two pledge dances and a Spring costume dance.

The TKE's maintained their trophy-winning ways in the Fall Carnival. This was the third year of the last four that they have won an award.

Outstanding TKE members are: President of the Wesley Foundation and a member of the Arnold Air Society.

Proving that tin ears and a tin horn symphony don't mix are Denis Laymon, Tom Ringo, Bill Grogg, Larry Lauterbach, and Norman Blackwood.

A queen candidate enters . . . men rise—adjusting sweaters . . . boy is she fine! Ron Borcharding, Jack Ryan, Jerry Spindler, and Ralph Moreland meet the occasion.

The small white dog with black spots that many people have seen on campus is "Chi" the Theta Chi dog. Just as well known as the Theta Chi dog are their social functions. No one can forget their Bicycle Bounce on the eve of the Little 500 at which they have had many well known show people. Many enjoyed their other parties—the Barn Dance, Ple Jama Party, and the Pig Dinner.

Last year's pledge class was first in scholarship. Theta Chis participating in activities were: Carl Dentice, Captain of the tennis team; Armond Road, outstanding track man; Jim O'Bryant, Secretary of Sphinx Club; and Ralph Moreland, a member of the swimming team.

Theta Xi

The 30 men of Theta Xi live on North Campus Drive. Besides having record dances during the year, they sponsored the French Cabaret, complete with costumes, checked table cloths, and candlelight. Another big dance of the year was the Installation Ball commemorating the founding of the Indiana chapter of Theta Xi. The pledge dance and Winter formals were also included in the season's events.

Jon Bulkley was one of Theta Xi's outstanding members with his position as Chairman of the Organized Party, membership on IFC Judicial Board, and on I. U. Foundation. Bill Lambert was Auditorium Manager and Art Wallis was Vice-president of Delta Sigma Pi.

"What's the hurry, boys? Let her wait awhile" Bill Lambert, Bill Rudolph, and Lee Judd typify a common male thought.

Zeta Beta Tau

John Mormol, Mel Slavin, Bob Schlens, and Manny Zinn await happily and hungrily the evening dinner bell.

The boys moved out and 75 girls moved in. No, it wasn't a change of ownership, but only the ZBT's "Hotel Weekend." The mass walkout Friday noon began a weekend unique to I. U. The dates of the ZBT's occupied the house and planned, decorated, and entertained for the Saturday night dance. From the success of this first affair, it appears it will become an annual event. Other dances during the year included the Heidleburg Hop, two formals, and the pledge dance.

A new wing has almost doubled the living space in the ZBT house.

Some of ZBT's members held positions as President of Phi Kappa Epsilon, Vice-president of the Sophomore Class, Vice-president of Falcon Club, and Vice-president of IFC. Other members were in Scabbard and Blade, YMCA, and Jr. Union Board.

Organizations

Student Body President

Student government contributes to the central function of the educational process. Jerry Strauss, President of the Student Body, 1955-56. Resident of Salem, Indiana. President of the Big Ten Universities Student Body Presidents' Council. International Politics major, College of Arts and Sciences.

Student Senate

Row I: Jan Foulkes, Gloria Close, Joyce Weigel (Sec.), Barbara Bassett, Kathleen Callon (Treas.), Mary Lou Kolb, Jerry Young, Mrs. Jackie Grinstead, Issie Shelton. Row II: Itayne A. Kimmel, Lou Mervis (V. Pres.), Charles McCall, Ron Yenerick, Judy Blake, Debbie DeVault, Leslie Yearian, Ed Whalen, Sue C. Groh, Judy Asmus, Jane

Allen, Fred M. Meyer. Row III: Jim Soukup, Dick Vosburgh (Advisor), Norman Hayes, George Edgar, Clarence Doninger, S. David Stoner, Doule Winter, Jerry Dann, Michael Moss, Charles A. James, Reza Rezazadeh.

The Student Senate put into effect this year a student health insurance plan enrolling approximately 4000 students. Through the use of a Senate Newsletter, Senate suggestion boxes, and other public opinion media, an attempt was made to inform the student body and find out what the student expects of the Senate. Because of Senate action, school dismisses a week earlier next year enabling students to have a better chance finding a good job than previously. The Senate provided an activities orientations program for freshmen for the first time. A leadership training program was also set up to train senators so that they could more adequately do their job. A special committee of the Senate has dealt with a structural revision of student government to enable it to work more effectively. The Senate revised the method of election procedure saving students approximately $350 by using non-paid workers at the election polls. They blocked efforts by faculty members to impose a $10 parking fine for first offenders. A resolution was passed against local discrimination of I.U. minority groups and forwarded to members of the community.

From Senate sessions, comes progress.

Student Supreme Court

Row I: Stanley Brosman, Diann Brickley, George Held, Mary Lu Kolb, Thomas Thorson, Barbara Taulman, Jim Droege, Anne Para-menko, Don Finney.

The Student Supreme Court is concerned with interpreting and revising the Student Body Constitution. The Supreme Court is the highest judicial body on campus and hears and decides upon a solution for cases brought before it by any student, group of students, or organization. The body also handles cases referred to it by the Dean of Students' Office, as well as matters on which an advisory opinion is desired.

The court is composed of nine members, chosen by the Student Body President with the consent of the Student Senate. These members, chosen every Spring, must have a 2.1 scholastic average and knowledge of campus government, activities, and organizations. Through their experience and understanding of these activities, the justices are well-qualified to hand down unbiased, fair, and objective decisions. This year the Chief Justice was Tom Thorson.

Thomas Thorson is Chief Justice of the Student Supreme Court.

Union Board

Dean of Students. Bottom Row: Carol L. Creed, Program Co-ordinator; Marlene A. Chambers, Student Spirit Director; Neil R. Hinchman, Public Relations Director.

The Union Board, which serves as the governing body of the Indiana Memorial Union, determines, for the most part, the operation of the recreational functions. The Board also serves in an advisory capacity to the Director of the Union Building. This group of twelve students endeavors to provide the I.U. students with a well-rounded program of activities.

Top Row: Jacqueline A. Grinstead, Group Activities Director; Norman K. Kassenbrock, Special Events Director. Second Row: Barbara A. Malmstrom, Student-Faculty Relations Director; Ruth C. McKnight,

Cultural Activities Director; Claudette Nebelsick, Personnel Director. Bottom Row: James L. Platt, Social Director; B. Belle Stewart, Publicity Director.

Union Board membership is the coveted goal of all Union members. There are eight seniors and four juniors on the Union Board. Three of the seniors are holdovers from last year, three were appointed by the Selection Committee for the Union, and two were elected in campus elections last Spring. Three of the juniors were appointed and one elected last Spring.

Indiana Memorial Union

"Meet you at the Commons at 3:30" is a familiar phrase on campus. The relaxation enjoyed in the Commons, the card section highlighting the football games, the formal and informal dances attended by the students, the queen contests, the jazz concerts, and the activity clubs are all a vital part of the program of varied activities and services offered by the Indiana Memorial Union.

One of the annual activities which is sponsored by the Union, is the Fall Carnival. All campus housing units participate in this event in order to obtain proceeds for the Campus Community Chest Drive. The proceeds exceeded $11,000 this year.

Harold W. Jordan, director of the Indiana Memorial Union; Carol Creed, program chairman; and Jerry Montgomery, President of the student board are the guiding figures of the Union.

"Put the U in the Union, for you are the Union."

Pondering over the business at hand are Gary McDonnell and Jerry Montgomery.

Davis, Marilyn Cotton, Nancy Bugg. Row V: Carol Austin, Beverly Wright, Linda Walker.

Maintaining high social standards and promoting participation in campus activities among the women students of Indiana University are the purposes of the Association of Women Students. The Council is a means of expressing the wishes and opinions of coeds by representing them in various organizations. Members of the Council are elected for one term and are chosen on the basis of scholarship and participation in campus activities.

The opportunities of participating in the Charm Clinic and of enjoying the series of talks on health, both of which were featured in this year's program, were given to every woman student on campus. There was also a survey of education which was undertaken to find various educational advantages and development among I.U. women.

This year the Indiana University AWS was hostess to the Regional Conference of Intercollegiate Association of Women Students.

AWS Board of Standards

Row I: Diane Seright, Barbara Bassett, Rosalie Tetrault, Susanne Siems, Doris Rhinesperger, Gloria Randle, Linda Silver. Row II: Jo Ann Hall, Carol Schilling, Pat Kelso, Sandy Kemp.

The AWS Board of Standards is an advisory and judicial board of the Council of Women Students. Two women from each class are chosen on the basis of interest and application. Also on the board are ex-officio members including the President of Panhellenic Council, the President of Women's Residence Halls, a representative of the YWCA, and a representative of town girls. The AWS Board of Standards discusses matters pertaining to women's standards, such as applications for later hours and overnight permissions.

WRH Executive Board

The members of the WRH Executive Board are: (around table) Sandy Duke (V. Pres.), Dorothy Hostetler, Pat Fleming, Delores Tracy (Treas.), Marilyn Phillips, Nancy Vandembark, Marty Shields, Frances Rider, Marian Vadas, Carole Bergman (Sec.), Mary Frances Patterson (Advisor), Mrs. Jackie Lineback Grinstead (Pres.), Linda Silver.

The Women's Residence Halls Executive Board is composed of the 13 presidents of the residence halls. This group sets policies for the Women's Residence Halls Association. Since the President of WRH is a representative to many campus organizations, the Board also serves as a link between the campus and the halls. It is advised by the director of counseling and activities and one of the area directors. The WRH Executive Board, primarily a governing body, discusses problems concerned with the women's residence halls. The WRH President is elected in the Spring by all residence hall women. The hall presidents are also elected by their respective halls in the Spring.

MRHA Executive Board

Dan Ferber (Advisor), Tom Tucker (Treas.), Alex Spornick, Charles James (Pres.)

The Men's Residence Halls Association is the governing body of all men's dorms at Indiana University. Their purpose is to represent the students of the men's halls before the University administration, to promote a social program, to encourage scholastic attainment, and to promote the general welfare of the students. The Association has ten members. They are the president, vice-president, and secretary from each of the three residence centers, Men's Quad, MRC, and Trees Center, plus the president of the Association.

Trees Center Board of Governors

Row I: Richard Dewey, Peter Fischer, Edward Burton (V. Pres.), Charles McCall (Pres.), Richard Cross (Sec.), Jerald Andrew, John

Ban. Row II: Dick McPherson, James Brown, Leland Powell.

Dick Cross (Sec.), Ed Burton (Vice Pres.), and Charles McCall (Pres.) ensure harmony among the Trees.

Eight men serve a one year term on the Trees Center Board of Governors. These governors represent the eight units of Trees Center as a governing body. This board co-ordinates the activities and social life of the men it serves and seeks to preserve a spirit of unity among the four dorms. The group is confronted with a variety of requests, questions, and duties which it must answer and perform in order to channel the wishes of the men it serves.

Besides acting as an advisory board which represents the men, this group voices complaints and opinions about the rules and regulations to the administration and sponsors functions such as their annual Governors' Ball which is given in the Spring for all residents of Trees Center.

This group sets up social standards and formulates policies concerning conduct in the dorms. It holds as its main objective to govern the men fairly and justly and to serve their best interests.

MRC Board of Governors

Setting a shining example for MRC are E. Jay Rommes, Don Crowe, Alan Bergstedt, John A. Roush, Dick Bellson, and Al Nathanson.

Each unit of the Men's Residence Center and South Cottage Grove is represented on the MRC Board of Governors by a governor. This governor is elected by his unit to serve two semesters on the board and to represent his unit's policies and opinions.

The board sponsors unified activities and offers the housing units represented a chance to compare ideas and solve their problems. Nine governors, two officers, a salaried business manager, and the head counselor of MRC make up the board. Beside co-ordinating subsidiary groups such as the Social, Secretarial, and Athletic boards; the Board also controls the dispensation of finances for different projects and sets up social regulations for the men living in MRC and South Cottage Grove. Each year it sponsors several large dances.

Unity is stressed in the work of the halls, and the Board is continually striving to improve the dorms by creating better relationships among the men.

Men's Quadrangle Board of Governors

Seated: Jerry Grove, Norman Brown, Virgil Spornick (V. Pres.), Robert Shinn (Pres.), Robert Butler (Sec.), Charles Brune, Fred Meyer. Standing: Richard Stamper, William Rodal, William McCormick, Morris Cone, George Cook, Gary Gronemeier, Emmett Inskeep, Florian Latek, Jerry Miller, Edwin Burkhardt, Dave Allgood.

The Quad Squad keeps its dorm in form. Calling the signals are Robert Butler (Sec.), Virgil Spornick (Vice Pres.), and Robert Shinn (Pres.).

Activities of men in the Quad are directed by governors who are elected by each unit. These 18 governors plus two other members, the President and the Secretary, compose the Men's Quadrangle Board of Governors.

This Board regulates the appropriations made to different councils operating for the residents of the Quad such as the Arts Council, Social Activities Council, and the Religious Council. It also coordinates the activities of the individual units so there will be no conflicts in the scheduling of social events. The Board also sets up the social rules and standards by which almost all activities in the Quad are regulated.

Four dances which are open to all students on the campus are sponsored by the Board of Governors each year. These dances are seasonal affairs which occur on or near holidays and are held in the Main Lounge of the Quad. The decorations and novelty of these dances plus the fact that they are free usually draw large numbers of students.

Panhellenic

Row I: Janet Carter, Marlene Braun, Mary Lu Kolb, Martha Hartzell.
Row II: Barbara Mathews, Judy Weinmann, Ann Lynch, Marilyn

Austin, Nancy Cochran, Kathy Riggins.

The Indiana University Panhellenic Association, a representative group of the campus' 20 sororities, conducts rush, co-ordinates the activities of the individual campus sororities, and serves them in government, personal, and campus relations.

Panhellenic acts as a judicial board for sorority business, hearing infractions of rules and petitions for membership. It includes the Executive Council, which decides the major policies, and the Presidents' Council, which co-ordinates sorority programs and enacts the rules regulating rush.

Also included in the "Panhel" organization are the Junior Panhellenic, an organization of sorority pledges, and the Rush Counselors, who answer the questions that rushees have concerning rush. The Panhellenic Association is affiliated with the National Panhellenic Conference and the State Panhellenic Council, for which it was host this Spring. The president's office for the 1955-1956 year was filled by Mary Lu Kolb.

Sorority Presidents

Sorority presidents are: Row I: Waneta Laughlin, Margaret O'Bannon, Jacqueline Henry, Mary Ann McNary, Joanne Gillette Beckman, Suzanne Fulton. Row II: Myrna Yalowitz, Carol Hudson, Shirley Spear, Laura Lee Davis, Beverly Boegaholtz, Joanne Varady. Row III: Carolyn Longcamp, Dorothy Williams, Betty Bordner, Suzanne Peakman, Judy Morrow, Frances E. Smith, Diann Brickley, Hester Muzzall.

Junior Panhellenic

Junior Panhellenic, composed of sorority pledge class presidents, promotes the same goals as Panhellenic on a pledge level. The organization awards a $25 scholarship to the most deserving sorority pledge. The members are: Row I: Lillian Walker, Sandy Benjamin, Patricia A. Thomas, Miriam Hogemeyer, Dawn Tamsin, Judy LaFollette, Carole Regas, Carolyn Koehlinger, Georgia Rider, Sherry Eisen, JoAnn Nusbaum, Lucinda Benzel (Pres.). Row II: Jameseta Petway, Nada Stil-

Pres.).

Interfraternity Council

IFC Officers are: Don Lowenstine (V. Pres.), Jack Dunfee (Pres.), Jack Rake (Sec.), and Ron Yenerich (Treas.).

Film a movie about the satisfaction and sheer fun of fraternity life on Indiana University's campus? Yes . . . that is one of the many projects that the Interfraternity Council on Indiana's campus is going to fulfill this year so that incoming freshmen as well as other interested students, alumni, and parents may see just what makes a fraternity "tick."

The IFC Council discusses, debates, and decides upon solutions for various problems of the fraternities, enacts certain rules, and judges infractions of the same rules. This organization was established to make fraternity life more enjoyable by discussing ways to better fraternities and the fraternity system.

The quality of leadership is a "must" as each of the thirty members represents his fraternity and his own fraternity's feelings. Thus, in accordance with these beliefs, he votes for policies for the good of his fraternity and the good of the entire group. This deliberation of organized men, taking place in the William Lowe Bryan Room, promotes unity of purpose and a spirit of brotherhood on the Indiana campus.

The IFC Administrative Council members are: Row I: William Lambert, Jim Lakatos, Jim O'Bryant, Clint Warkow, Bruce Collins, Jerry Dann. Row II: Joe Hughes, George Ginn, Jim Dickey, Lloyd Milliken,

Interfraternity Pledge Council

Row III: Eugene A. Harris, Jr., James A. Cusick, James O. Kneisley, Franklin I. Miroff, Harold A. Jackson, Robert P. Marshall.

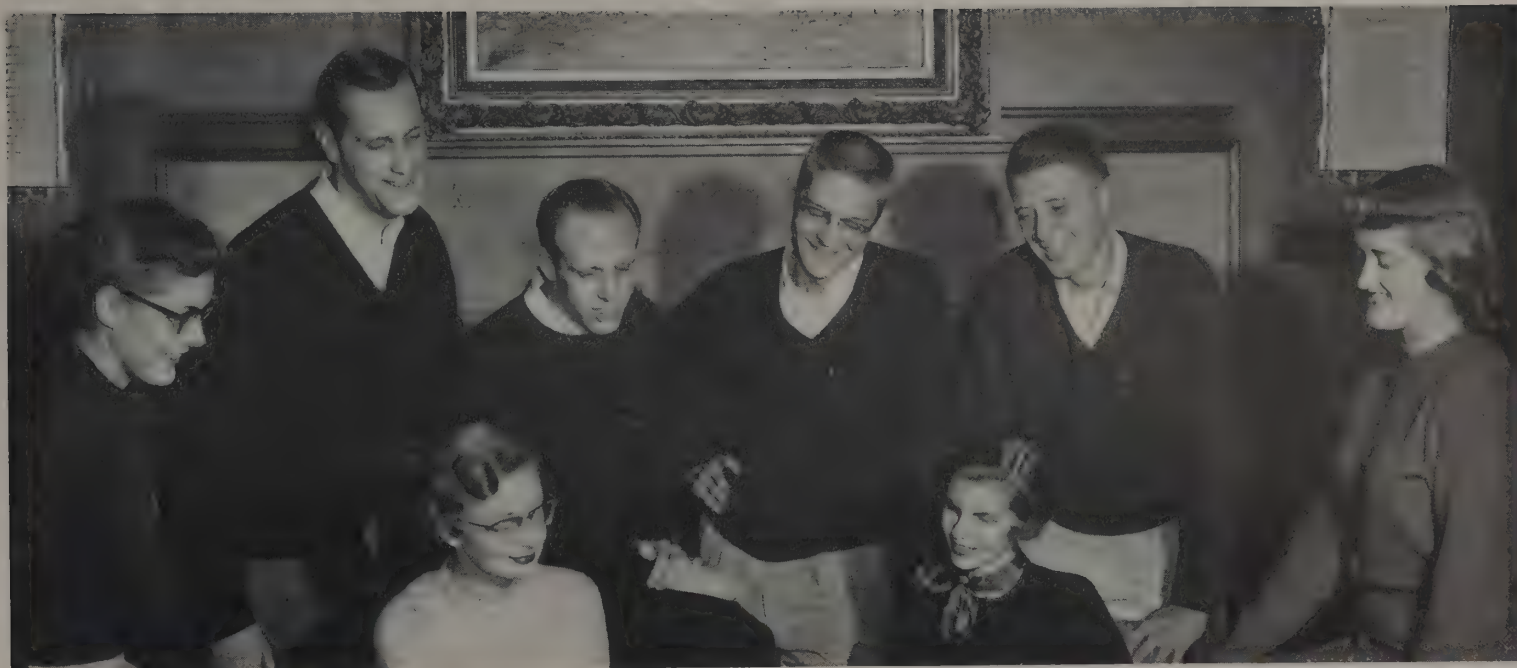

"Pledges of the campus! Arise! Throw off your chains!" Plotting this underground movement are Ron Bollock, Bob Wait, Ted Kreines, and Robin Antrim.

The Interfraternity Pledge Council can boast the best and most successful organization since its founding on the Indiana University campus. IFPC endeavors to stress pledge unity and scholarship, while at the same time organizing the pledges on campus into a more functional group. There are nine committees in the IFPC which carry out its different activities. These committees are responsible for such activities as pledge dances, scholarship trophy, intramural competition, and various service activities. This organization works under, and co-ordinates itself with, the IFC. It consists of 29 pledges and their alternates, each pledge representing his respective house.

This year, the IFPC held its all-pledge dance, "The Pledge Ponder," which has now been established as their annual dance. At the Purdue football game the IFPC was responsible for the seniors cords being laid out to spell "Go I.U." These are just a few of the many activities which the IFPC sponsors every year.

Senior Class

rector), Herb Lyons (Director), S. David Stoner (Pres.), Leo Schear Cohen (V. Pres.).

The officers of the Senior Class act as a steering committee for the class's activities. It is their job to plan the festivities of Senior Week, which include a barbecue, a reception for all graduating students given by President Wells, the traditional planting of the Senior Tree, and the annual presentation of the Senior Class gift to the University. Senior Week is climaxed by the Senior Siwash which is an annual dance-party held for members of the graduating class. Besides being responsible for these activities, the Senior Class officers plan reunions, Commencement exercises, and other class functions.

Junior Class

erich (Pres.), Marilyn Austin (V. Pres.), Roberta Fox (Sec.), Kent Arvin (Treas.).

Since the elections were contested, the Junior Class had no president until late in the season. In spite of this, the Jolly Juniors had a great Junior Week starting April 25th and topped off with the Junior Prom on April 27th.

Sophomore Class

(V. Pres.), Ed Whalen (Pres.), Ed Stevens (Director), Doris Ast (Director).

Freshman Class

enburg, Ginny Sly (Sec.), Virginia Reed.

Mirror, mirror on the wall, the King and Queen are fairest of all at the Freshman Tyronian, a social highlight of campus activities, sponsored by the Freshman Class under the direction of Russell Fritz, President of the Class of '59.

I. U. Foundation

I.U. Foundation Steering Committee members are: Sitting: Anne Curlee, Janet Carter, Dan Thomasson (Pres.), Diann Brickley (Vice-Pres.), Marilyn Cotton. Standing: S. David Stoner, Jim Dils, Jo Ann Moore, Vance Clark.

"Is that really the official pace car which is used at the annual Indianapolis 500 mile race?"

Obtaining the pace car, organizing and producing the Little 500, and enlisting the ardent support of the University's student body are important tasks in making this annual classic a success.

The Little 500 is only a part of the role played by the Indiana University Foundation in campus activities. This non-profit organization encourages and administers gifts given to the University.

In order to acquaint the students with the purpose of the group, student membership in the foundation was introduced in 1950. Members are appointed by President Wells from outstanding junior and senior men and women.

Discussing Foundation policy are Dan Thomasson, President of the I.U. Foundation, and William S. Armstrong, Foundation Director.

Beta Gamma Sigma

Beta Gamma Sigma is a national scholastic honorary for business students. The national organization was founded in 1913. The Indiana University chapter was founded in 1923. The organization is based on tradition, and there have been no innovations since the founding of the local chapter. Students elected are not to exceed the upper 10% of the Senior Class or the upper 4% of the Junior Class. There are 64 chapters nationally. The present campus membership consists primarily of faculty members. The only meetings are bi-annual initiations. The presidents of all chapters are faculty members. The I.U. president is J. Edward Hedges. Each year the Rawles Key is awarded to the senior ranking highest in scholarship at the end of his junior year. This key is named for William A. Rawles. Senior Scholarship awards are also given yearly to the highest 1% of the seniors in business by Beta Gamma Sigma.

Those elected to membership Fall 1955 are:

Alpha Lambda Delta

Victors, Louise Bamberger, Nancy Mathews, Helen Mathews, Patricia Moll, Alice Aldrich, Sharon Bush, Jeanne Stove, Marlene Freds, Pat Curtis. Row IV: Sharon Kraybill, Natalie Smith, Ann Hattery, Rosemary Bronstein, Ginger Baker, Ann Foley, Sandy Gauthier, Dianne Murray (2nd V. Pres.), Carolyn Holder, Linde Schmidt (1st V. Pres.), Marian Vadas, Pat Arnold, Nancy Jones, Gayle Walters, Janet Hodges, Sally Buchanan, Jane Ransel, Joan Erickson (Pres.).

Who needs to study for a 2.5, it's easy! This seems to be what Nancy Buerke, Carolyn Holder, Sharon DeRose, Jean Erickson, and Linde Schmidt are saying.

Alpha Lambda Delta, a scholastic honorary organization for freshman women, is composed of women who maintain a grade average of 2.5 or better for their first semester on Indiana's campus, or an accumulative of 2.5 for the first two semesters.

By rewarding its members with a certificate from the national headquarters and a pin in the form of a small lamp and candle, the group helps new coeds become aware of the importance of scholastic achievements and of maintaining a scholastic goal.

Each Spring after initiation, Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Lambda Delta sponsor an annual banquet. At this banquet, the members honor the outstanding Alpha Lambda Delta senior woman. These two groups also sponsor a table stocked with study aids in the main library.

Each year Alpha Lambda Delta presents the senior member with the highest grade average for the four years an anthology of poetry.

Phi Eta Sigma

Row I: Bernard Minkow (Pres.), Roger Seltzer, Melvin Greenball, Edward Whalen, John Bowers, Marvin Mishkin (V. Pres.), Fred Blackwell, Panya Chottikhun. Row II: C. Douglas Shue, Jack Wade, Robert Harris, Norman Hessert, William Alltop, David E. Allbright, David Baldwin, Arthur From (Treas.), John V. Holt. Row III: Fred Dyar, Kenneth H. Brooks, Tom Alt, Dave Zeller, William J. Studer, Freshman men maintaining a 2.5 grade average or better for their first semester's work or a similar cumulative average for their first two semesters on campus are eligible for membership in Phi Eta Sigma, a scholastic honorary. Members of this honorary are usually from the upper five per cent of their class.

In their efforts to promote a high standard of scholarship, the members of Phi Eta Sigma together with Alpha Lambda Delta distributed pamphlets during Orientation Week entitled How to Study and maintained a table in the main library stocked with study aids.

Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Lambda Delta held a joint banquet in the Spring after the initiation of new members in order to discuss annual projects.

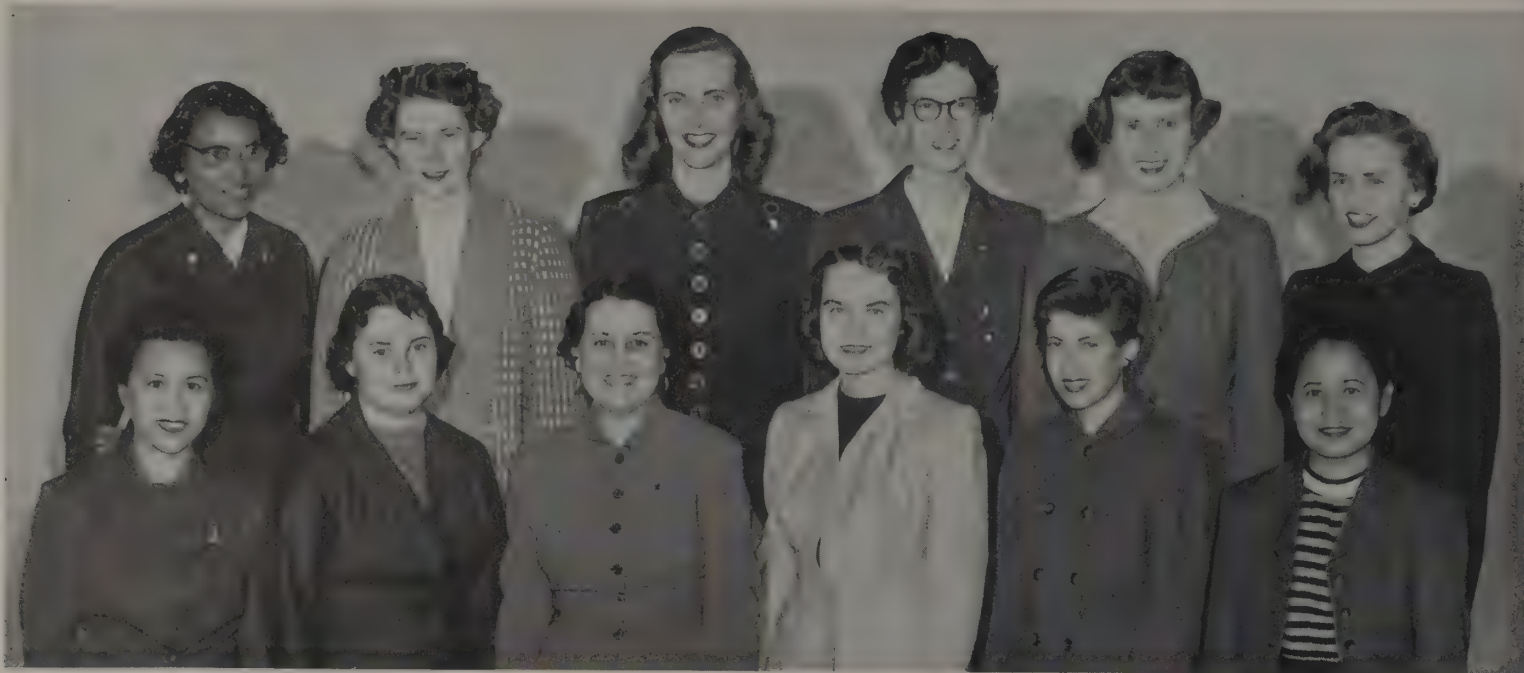

Membership in Phi Eta Sigma is coveted by all freshman men as their reward for a job well done. It is their recognition for the many hours of study and preparation which result in the making of superior grades.

Is this the way to greater grades? Fred Blackwell, Roger Seltzer, Bernie Minkow, Richard Hawley, and Arthur From seem unconcerned about hitting the books.

Pi Lambda Theta

Row I: Adoracion Q. Arjona, Bethany Hoot, Mary Vanmeter, Peggy Bourne (Pres.), Twyla Cox (Journal Corres.), Erlinda A. Cuizon.

Pi Lambda Theta is a national honorary fraternity made up of upperclassmen, faculty, and graduate students with a 2.0 average or above who are interested in education. The fraternity fosters a professional spirit in education, maintains high academic standards, and promotes democratic learning in the country.

This year their theme of "TV for Children: At Home and at School" was carried out through all the meetings. Their first trip was through the TV stations. Their meetings present business, social, and educational aspects. They discuss problems of education with emphasis on culture. Pi Lambda Theta's project this year was to purchase books for the Christian Center. They also gave scholarships such as the one to the Bangkok University in Thailand. The officers are initiated twice a year, in January and May. New members are also initiated at these two dinners. The members receive the magazine, Educational Horizons.

"To instill the importance of undergraduate study in the future medical student" is the purpose of Alpha Epsilon Delta. Membership in this national honorary is limited to pre-medical students who have completed three semesters of science requirements with an average of B or above.

This organization was founded in 1949 to bring medical and premedical students closer together with the educators, to develop a better program of study, and also to help the members maintain high scholarship. Movies are used to develop a keen insight to medical study, and informative talks are given to members by the faculty.

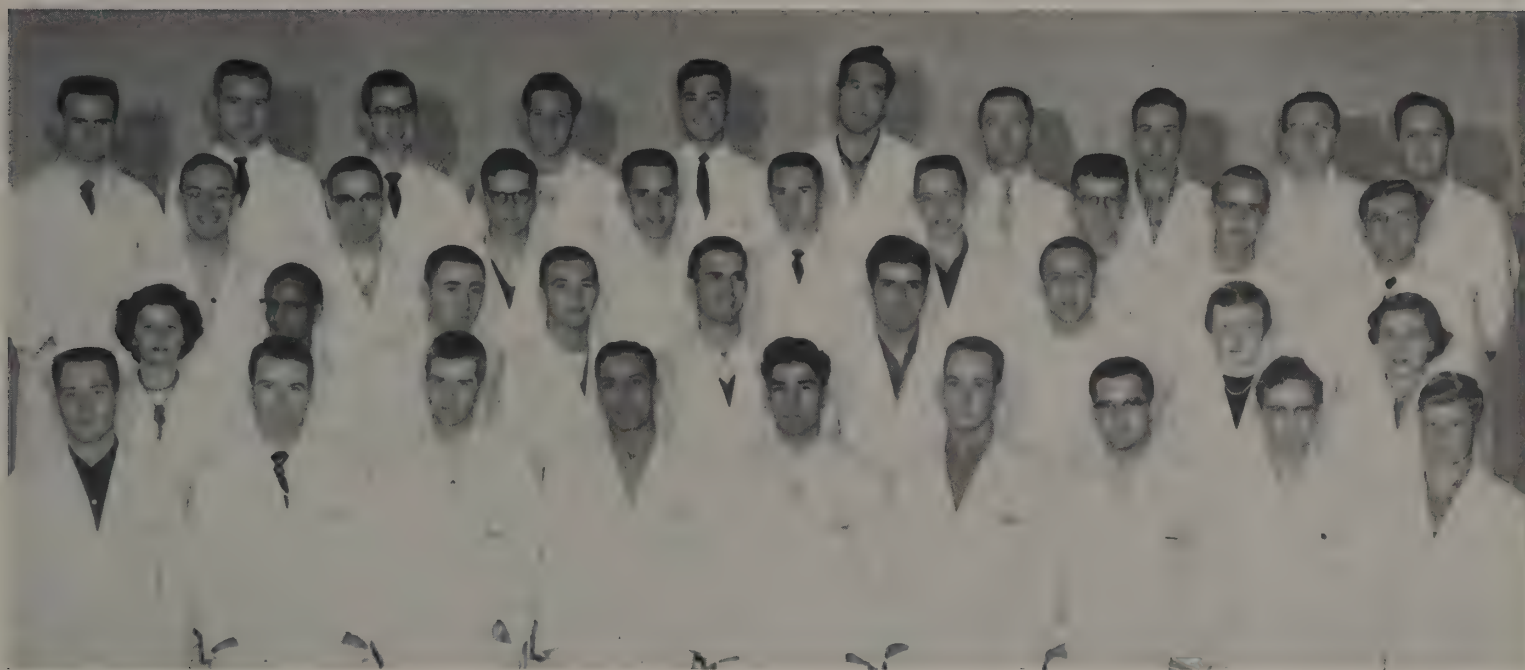

Each year Alpha Epsilon Delta sponsors a meeting for all premedical students to acquaint them with the overall program of the study of medicine and to introduce faculty members who will be their instructors. Another activity of the honorary is the annual presentation of an award to an outstanding premedical student.

Absolutely nothing like cutting up cadavers all day to give a premed a good sense of humor. The smiles that Duke Egnatz, Keith Kooken, Leo Sampanis, Tom Krueger, and Bob Shlens are giving prove it.

Lyle Siegel. Row III: Maxine Mages, Rabbi Victor Eppstein (Director), Ronald Popp, Peter Leonard, Robert Harris, Marvin Mishkin.

Hillel Foundation, a Jewish religious organization, is open to all Jewish students on campus. The foundation offers cultural and social events for the members. They have cultural discussions on Judaism and have prominent religious leaders speak to them. This year President Wells spoke to them about his impression of Israel. They had two Ella Feibleman lectures. The first was given by Professor Baron of Columbia University who spoke on Modern Nationalism in religion. The second speaker was James MacDonald. They have services once a week and on every religious holiday.

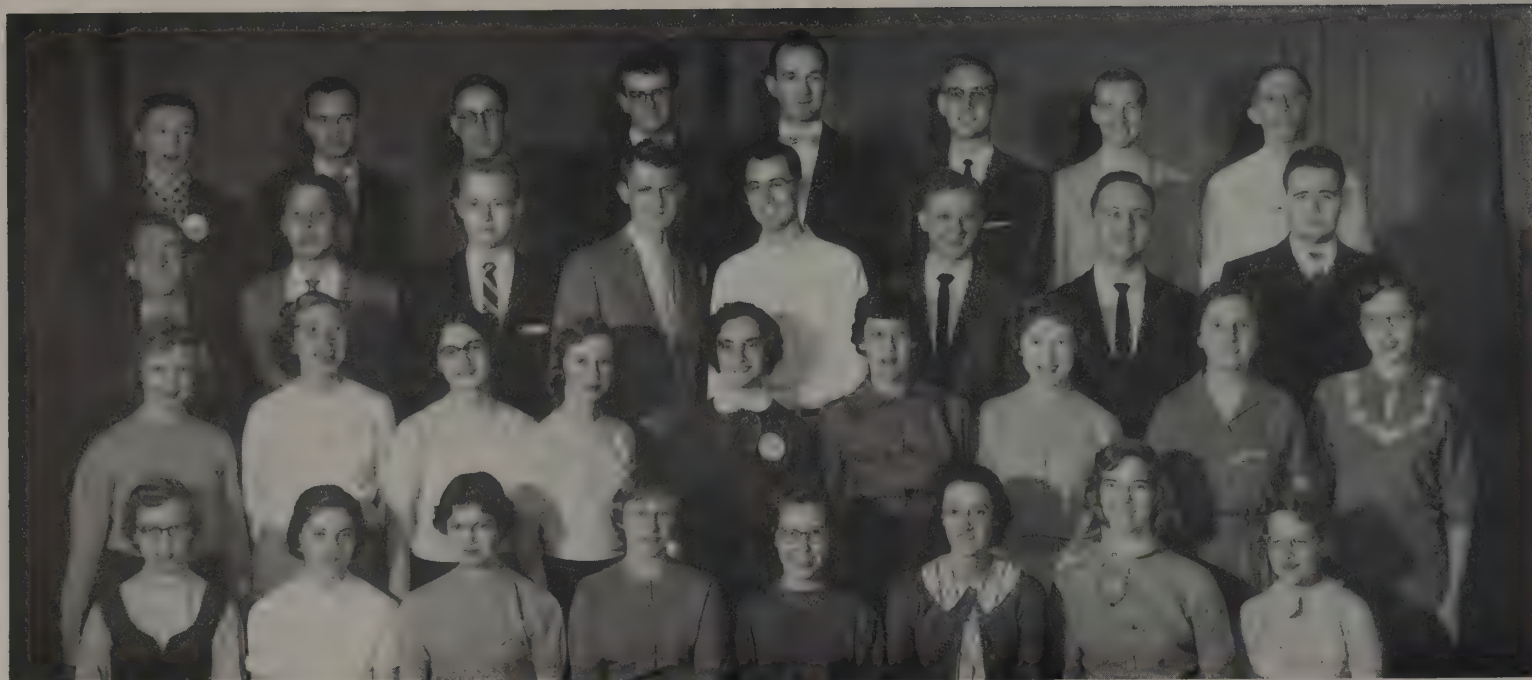

Socially they sponsor dances, open houses, tea dances, Sunday night dinners, and other recreational activities. The highlight of the year was the stunt show on February 22. All the Jewish sororities, fraternities, and independent groups made up acts for the variety show. Hillel offers Jewish students a place to meet people and to have fun.

Receiving instructions in religious tradition from Rabbi Eppstein are Peter Leonard, Cy Silverman, Louise Bamberger, Carol Kalner, Lyle Siegel.

Board of Aeons

Working for a fair deal for I.U. students are Lou Mervis, Don Finney, George Held, and Bob Skoronski.

Forming a bridge between the administration and the student body, the Board of Aeons functions to interpret student opinion and to report it in such a manner that officials of the University may set policies which best serve the interests of the entire campus population.

Most of the activities of Aeons are carried on quietly. This is not motivated by any desire of the members to create another secret society. Working behind the scenes enables Aeons to be more effective in their appointed tasks.

Aeons is composed of 12 undergraduate men chosen by President Wells from the ranks of students rating both high in leadership and scholarship. The Board was organized by William Lowe Bryan in 1921.

Row I: Wayne Kimmel, Fred Wilt, Don Finney, Jerry Strauss, Tom Thorson, Lou Mervis. Row II: Jerry Montgomery, Dan Geist, Bob Skoronski, George Held, Charles Schwartz, Clarence Doninger.

"Break if you must this old grey head, but spare I.U.'s good name," he said. Dean Shaffer pleads, but Wayne Kimmel, Fred Wilt, Clarence Doninger, and Charles Schwartz take no heed.

Mopping up some of the back-door coalitions of campus politics are Dan Geist, Tom Thorson, Jerry Montgomery, and Jerry Strauss.

Blue Key

The three master Keys are these; George Held (Rec. Sec.-Treas.), Nick Parisi (Pres.), and Lou Mervis (Corresponding Sec.) busy themselves unlocking Blue Key's problems.

Upperclassmen of outstanding character and ability who have won campus distinction for scholarship and non-political attainments in service and leadership are chosen for membership in Blue Key, national honor fraternity.

Members are chosen twice each year by the unanimous vote of the active members and by the approval of the President of Indiana University and the National President of Blue Key. Honorary memberships are extended to a limited number of faculty and alumni.

Each year there is a drive to establish a scholarship for an underclassman who best exemplifies the ideals of Blue Key. Blue Key members charge 25 cents for polishing shoes of fellow students to raise money for this scholarship fund.

This year Nickolas Parisi headed the meetings of Blue Key which were held in the Bryan Room of the Union Building. Through organized effort among student leaders, the honorary holds as its goal to improve higher education.

Dragon's Head

David Stoner, Tom Dailey (Pres.), George Held.

This year Dragon's Head received into its lordly group several of the biggest rods on campus. They were duly installed as Executives (everybody starts at the top) of the Indiana University Dragon's Head Society. Despite the organization's theory of participating in nothing, it has become one of the most revered organizations on the campus.

The organization is based on democracy, scholastic excellence, service to the University, and modesty. Selection for membership is based on recognition of superior leadership, outstanding service, political maneuvering, dashing personality, enthusiastic handshaking, and gracious living while attending Indiana University.

Dragonettes

Row I: Mary Lu Kolb, Bobby Onksen, Ruth Meininger, Kathie Riggins. Row II: Carol Capel, Jane Allen, Izzie Shelton, Diane Seright, Kathie Neff, Jackie Lineback Grinstead.

*Dragonettes were hard at work—doing nothing.
They were carrying out their goal—doing nothing.
Their members were elite,
Their purpose hard to beat,
They had a splendid year—doing nothing.*

The Dragonettes, a boress organization of the highest caliber, selects as its members presidents of prominent organizations. Membership in the club is held dear to the hearts of all its members and is the dream of all campus roddesses.

Enomene

Enomene is a scholastic and activities honorary for sophomore women who have maintained an average of 1.8 or better and have participated in at least two of the activities on campus.

It serves Indiana University through the leadership, friendship, and unity of its members; a spirit which helps to fulfill its purpose of unifying student spirit. Through speakers and visits to the various organizations on the campus, Enomene provides a leadership training program and ideas of organization and leadership for its women which is and will be useful to them in campus and future life.

The group serves the University in many ways. Enomene sponsors a hostess group composed of Enomene members to escort University guests around the campus. It sends magazines and Daily Students to the infirmary. Collecting donations for the American Olympic Team, selling the Crimson Bull and participating in the Turtle Derby are other contributions which Enomene offers.

Chapeauxed in the latest style, Sandy Kemp, Nancy Jones, Dawn Tamsin, Nikki DeRose, and Connie King reflect their "podded" heads.

Falcon Club

The Falcon Club, an honorary for junior men, elects its members on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and service. Its aims are to promote friendship between the Junior Class and the student body. The members are: Row I: Doug Boggs, Dick Painter, Don Lowenstine (V. Pres.), Jerry Dann (Pres.), Jim Seeright (Treas.), Jim Sandifer (Sec.), Donald Gage, Lino DeMichieli. Row II: Herbert Berman,

Pamarada

Pamarada is an organization for independent junior women. The members are selected for scholarship, leadership, and service to the university. The organization sponsors the Wellhouse Waltz with the Flame Club. The members are: Row I: Jackie Grinstead, Issie Shelton (Pres.), Kathleen Callon, Sue Truitt (Sec.). Row II: Marilyn Cotton, Nia Scopelitis (V. Pres.), Ruth Meininger, Judy Blake, Barbara Taulman. Row III: Jo Fields, Louise Bamberger, Carol Niedhammer, Diane Seright, Rosalie Tetrault, Nancy Thomas (Treas.), Marilyn Phillips.

Flame Club

Row I: Richard Schweizer, David Allgood, Charles McCall, Thomas Richards, Michael Hriso, Fred Meyer, Jerome Kessler, Norman Rickard, Nick Sangalis. Row II: Gerald Parker, Clark McClellan, Norman Pence, George Edgar, Remo Cataldi, Don Moreton, Jack Bornejko, Dennis Runyan, Ronald Foust, Virgil Spornick (Treas.). Row III: Christopher Borman (Sec.), Theodore Fody, Richard Cross, Edgar Sergent (V. Pres.), Norman Brown, Jim Martin (Pres.), Harvey Naffer, Thomas Foreman, Don Thompson, Robert Luddy.

Flame Club is composed of outstanding independent upper-classmen who have maintained an average of B or better. Leadership in campus activities and contributions to the University through service, loyalty, and cooperation are some of the other requirements which are necessary for membership. It was founded in 1938 and was originally known as the "Secret Committee of X."

The purpose of Flame Club is to foster goodwill among junior and senior independent men and to give undergraduates a good start in campus activities.

One of their activities is the maintenance of the Wellhouse, which is the chief concern of the Flame Club. Proceeds from a booth in the Fall Carnival, co-sponsored by Flame Club and Pamarada, and from the Flame Club's Wellhouse Waltz help to maintain the upkeep of the Wellhouse.

Mortar Board

IV: Dottie Williams, Janet Rothert, Mary Lu Kolb, Diann Brickley. Row V: JoAnn Fields, Jane Allen.

Each year Mortar Board, a national activities honorary for senior women, elects to its membership women who are outstanding in "leadership, scholarship, and service." This Indiana University honorary was founded in 1921.

One of the highpoints of the honorary's annual activities is the Dames Ball, a formal dance when the fellows are invited by the girls. Other annual projects include the sale of Mortar Board calendars, the Mortar Board Retreat, and the presentation of scholarships to outstanding and deserving women. Sophomore women achieving high scholarship and participating in student activities are recognized at a tea given by Mortar Board.

During the pledge period, pledges may be seen wearing graduation caps. After being activated, members wear white jackets with the Mortar Board insignia. Women who are selected may proudly feel that their college life reflects a job well done.

Pleiades

Row I: Jo Ann Moore, Waneta Laughlin, Marlene Braun, Martha Hartzell, Kathie Riggins (Pres.), Janet Carter, Carol Kalver, Shirley McAlpine, Gloria Mueller, Margaret O'Bannon, Suzanne Fulton. Row II: Barbara Hibner, Janet Rothert, Becky White, Hester Muzzall, Priscilla White, Laura Lee Davis, Dotti Williams, Sally Branson, Mary Lu

Three girls are chosen from each sorority house on campus to represent their house in Pleiades, an honorary for organized upperclass women. Members are chosen on the basis of scholastic standing, leadership qualities, and a good record in campus activities. The purpose of the organization is to provide better leadership among girls in the social groups represented. Their activities include helping with student elections and the Little United Nations Assembly. The group invites speakers to speak at meetings. Members can be identified by their dark blue pods with gold-winged emblems.

Admiring the bust of Wendell Willkie are Donna Steckman, Mary Ann Pfaffenberger, Kathie Riggins, and Gloria Mueller.

Skull and Crescent

Row I: Daniel M. Couch (Treas.), Ed Stevens, Gary Crawford, Ira Fenster, Lew Levin (Sec.), Gene McGarvey, Stan Rice, Larry Bowser, Larry Kelly. Row II: Tom Walker, Phil Hitchner, Edward Whalen, Martin Bassett (V. Pres.), Joseph C. Butterworth, Dick Bishopp,

Composing for better fraternity harmonizing. Creating the chords are Marty Bassett (Vice Pres.), Thom Mitchell (Pres.), Dan Couch (Treas.), and Lew Levin (Sec.)

Every year three outstanding sophomore men are chosen by each fraternity on campus for membership in Skull and Crescent. This honorary was founded to bring together those interested in activities and to promote better feeling among organized men at Indiana University. Whenever possible, the organization assists the University in various projects.

Approximately 50 men compose the membership of Skull and Crescent and are readily identified on campus by their orange and green pods. During the pledge period, pledges are required to carry a paddle on campus and to get active's signatures on it.

Besides the honorary's main project of the year, the Sweater Hop, when Sandy Schroeder was chosen Sweater Queen, there is an annual award given to an outstanding senior chosen on the basis of scholastic excellence and participation in campus activities. Also, a $100 scholarship is given to an outstanding student.

Sphinx Club

Row I: Cyril Silverman, Gordon Wemyss, Bruce Collins (V. Pres.), Thomas Lockwood, Jack Walkmetz, Jack Rake, Framp Rowland, Salvatore Emmi, Dave Hanna. Row II: Jack Kelly, Tom Walker, Don Bissell, Jim Soukup, Stan Dickson, Kent Arvin, David Porter, John Conger, Donald Hull, Don Lowenstine. Row III: Jim Capehart (Treas.), Jim Lakatos, Joe Hughes, Neil Hinchman, Jon Bulkley, S.

Sphinx is a club which promotes unity among organized men on the campus. Sphinx was organized on campus to promote high standards of scholarship, to develop qualities of leadership, and to encourage good fellowship among all men at Indiana University.

They sponsor Dad's Day each Fall when the fathers of the football players are invited to a luncheon and are honored at the football game in the afternoon. Sphinx offers a scholarship to athletes. The scholarship is given to the best all-around athlete in any of the campus sports. The trophies are given to the best major sport athlete and the best minor sport athlete.

Members of Sphinx are chosen for their service, scholarship, and leadership. Fraternities choose two of their outstanding men to represent them. Sixty men, all of whom must be upperclassmen, comprise the organization. New members are chosen each Spring. They may be recognized by their white caps with black borders.

Bill Lambert (Treas.) and Gordon Wemyss (Pres.) show Steve Jacobs (Sec.) the proper "podding" procedure for a Sphinx member.

Tomahawk

Row I: Jerry Nickels, Fred M. Meyer (Pres.), Richard O. Christian.
Row II: Jorgen Rasmussen (Sec.), Robert Harris, Dennis L. Runyan, Richard O'Kelly (Treas.). Row III: Jerry Compton, Norman Brown (Gov.), Richard Neal, Ronald K. Foust.

Tomahawk recognizes those sophomore independent students of Indiana University who have been outstanding in their contributions to the University through their service, loyalty, and cooperation. One of its chief aims is to promote good will between Independants and Indiana University.

Its members may be recognized by their maroon and gold pods. The pledges are to be seen in full Indian regalia during their search for that mystic maiden named Malvena Humperdink, the most "sought-after" female on campus. A big powwow was held in the Commons by Tomahawk pledges after finding Malvena Humperdink of '55, Miss Sandy Duke, Vice-president of the Junior Class.

Besides sponsoring an annual banquet for new active members, the members of Tomahawk touch up our campus bridges with some fresh paint, aid the Student Senate during Orientation Week, and strive to promote good relations at I.U.-Purdue athletic events.

Tomahawk braves gettum fed up with old Chief. Jorgen Rasmussen, Bob Butler, Dick O'Kelley, Dick Morris, and Sandy Duke (Melvena Humperdink) lendum encouragement as Norm Brown prepares to eliminatum Chief Fred Meyer.

Folio

Folio staff members are Don W. Woodworth, Stanley Cooperman,

Bruce Olsen, Nick Moore, and Malcolm Bradbury.

The Folio, a literary magazine which emphasizes fiction and poetry by new and established writers, is one of the few literary magazines in American Colleges that is edited by college graduates. It is "concerned with twentieth century literature and attempts to print the best of modern literature and poetry."

Twenty-two years ago manuscripts were received from all over the country, and a nationwide distribution of the magazine began. Since then distribution has grown from 300 copies per issue to 1700 copies at the present time. Circulation has increased steadily until 75 per cent of the last 1700 copies were distributed outside the state of Indiana.

Such noted writers as C. C. Cummings and S. C. Williams, poets, and Leon Edel, Leslie Fiedler, Mark Spilka, and Frances Fergusson, literary critics, have contributed articles to The Folio. The works of Indiana University students and faculty have also been published in the magazine.

Daily Student

Student Editor-in-Chiefs are Kathy Neff, Dan Thomasson, and Lynn Sproatt.

The Indiana Daily Student, which acts as an important part of the I.U. campus, serves primarily as a laboratory for students in the Department of Journalism. At their headquarters in Ernie Pyle Hall, they publish the Student five days a week during the school year. The duties of the Student's staff can be shown by relating how a story is born and printed in the Student. A reporter must first get the facts concerning some event or occasion. After typing his story from this information, the story goes to the campus desk where it is checked by an assistant editor. It is then passed to the main desk for a headline. The night editor receives the story, checks it, and schedules it on a special chart. The stories go to the type-setting machine, are printed, and proofread. The story is placed on a "dummy" sheet which is a reproduction of a regular Daily Student page. When the dummy is completed, the type is set and presses start rolling in the "wee" hours of the morning. A story has been born and completed, and another Student is ready for the students.

City Editors of the Student are Peter Cerf, Helen Mosbrook, and Sharon M. Long.

Looking over copy are Student Sports Editors, Conde Sargent and Ed Herrold.

Night Editors of the Student are Dan Grimes, Marty Anderson, Dotti Williams, Mike Finkelstein, Kay Baldwin, Georgia

May, Dick Routh. Seated in center is Jerry R. Wallace.

Crimson Bull

Smart, Jim Sprengelmeyer. Row II: Rick Beckrich, Gil Kett, Arthur Coyne, Tom Gump.

The Crimson Bull, the campus humor magazine, again delighted the Indiana University students this year. Although owned and operated by Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity, it is an all-campus publication and is operated under the profit-sharing plan. Special issues are put out periodically, for example, the Little 500 issue. Although a campus humor magazine was founded at Indiana University in 1919, it was not known as the Crimson Bull until recently. In 1921, a group of students received passes to several Indianapolis theaters if advertising of the houses appeared in the publication. In 1930, the publication came out as the Bored Walk, a "take-off" on the many board-walks on the campus at the time. When it "died," it was not revived until after World War II as Date.

Sigma Delta Chi

Row I: Richard L. Routh, Dallas L. Dinger, Don Finney, Bob Corya, Ed Herrold, N. V.K. Murthy, Vance Clark. Row II: Burton J. Dermer, Jerry R. Wallace, Robert D. Lewis, Robert F. McLaughlin, Mike Finkelstein, Dan K. Thomasson, Lewiell R. Winkler.

Sigma Delta Chi, a national professional fraternity for men, establishes a closer relationship among journalism students and provides a bond with professional journalists throughout the country.

Pledges are identified by their pressmen's hats which are made of newspaper. Members wear a diamond shaped pin with a quill and scroll in the middle.

During the year the activities of Sigma Delta Chi include the Blanket Hop where the senior "I" men receive blankets; the editing of the Crimson Bull, the campus humor magazine; and the presentation of awards. The Leather Award is presented to the person who has offered the most to the University. The "Brown Derby" is presented to the most popular faculty member. The "Big Wheel Award" is received by a person outside the University who has made an outstanding contribution to I. U. Plaques are also given to an outstanding high school senior and the ten outstanding senior men at Indiana.

Members of the Sigma Delta Chi Executive Board are: Burton J. Dermer (Treas.), Dan Thomasson (Pres.), Vance Clark (V. Pres.), Pete Cerf (Sec.).

Theta Sigma Phi

Theta Sigma Phi is an honorary journalism sorority in which the members are as active after graduation as during college life. Annually, the sorority sponsors the Razz Banquet and the Matrix Table. The members are: Row I: Ann Porter (Treas.), Emma R. Livingstone,

Contest Alumni on Campus

The Contest Alumni on Campus organization is open to all I.U. students who were in the high school achievement program. They give valuable service to contestants and teachers coming to the campus on final day in April. The members are: Row I: Helen Jane Brothers, Parmula K. Weedman, Eleanor K. Schmedel, Margaret Sheets, Martha Bird, Rosemary McIntosh, Sarah Zimmerman, Sue Ann Tanksley, Susan Shinabarger, Gayle Huminsky, Ann Stone. Row II: Erlene

Black, Barbara Anne Johnson, Roberta Wysong, Bonnie Brown, Alexa Brudek, Phyllis Brown, Julia Henderson, David R. Weber, John Hedge, James Parr (Pres.), Lois Schroeder, Marcia Ruderman. von Cornberg, Ibrahim-Tajbakhsh. Row III: John N. Hatgi, Yann E. Graff, Walter E. BurnLaw, Jay E. Bachrach, Pierre Boule, Ehsan-Fadai, Nestor Marquez-Diaz, N. V. K. Murthy.

"Above all nations is humanity." This is the motto of the Cosmopolitan Club, which was established in 1917. The purpose of the club is to foster the spirit of brotherhood among students of all nationalities and to promote the spirit of cosmopolitanism based on democratic ideals.

All students on campus are welcome to attend the weekly meetings at the International House located on Third Street. At some of their meetings, members discuss international relations and the problems of particular nations. Other meetings are social gatherings at which the customs and manners of many countries are compared.

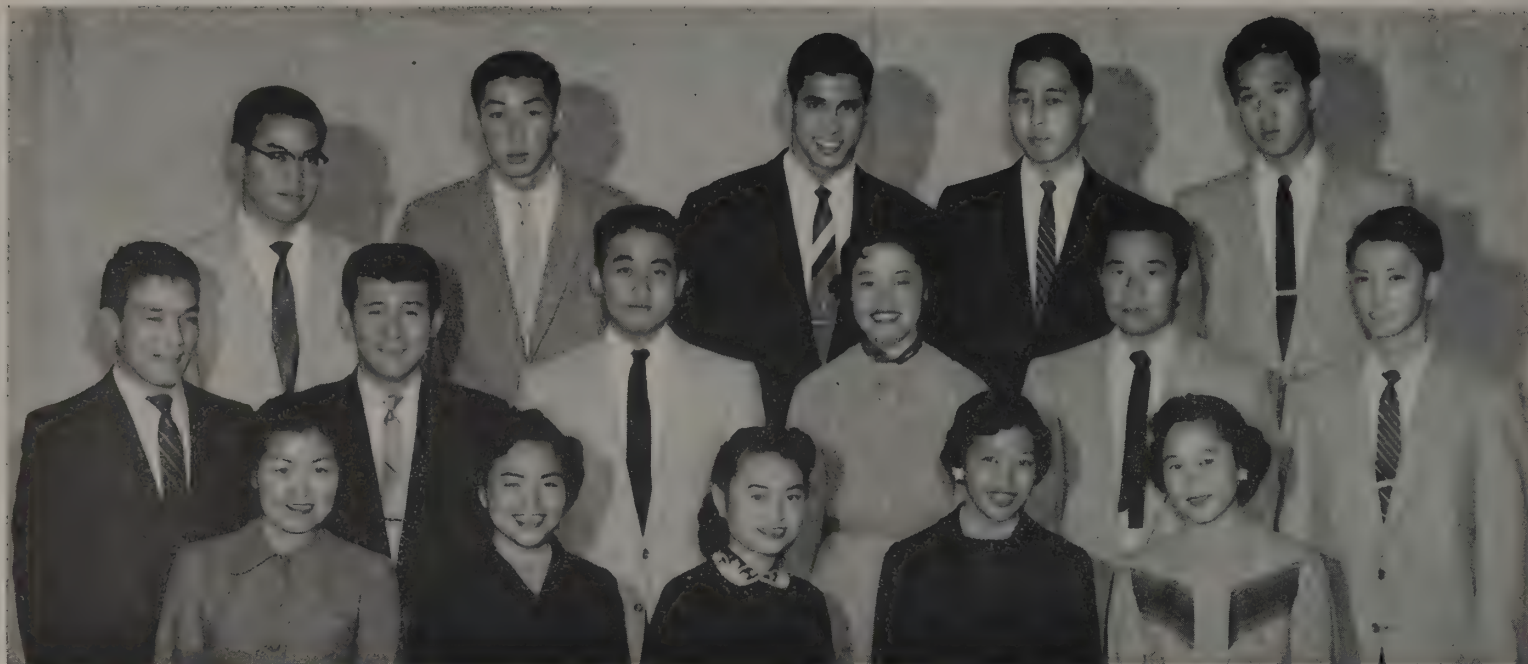

Each year to celebrate United Nations Day, they sponsor the International Dinner and International Night. During the week of the Little United Nations Assembly members of the Cosmopolitan Club serve in an advisory capacity and work in conjunction with the YMCA and the YWCA to make the delegates feel welcome.

Nader Hilbaoui speaks at International Dinner celebrating United Nations Day, October 24th.

Hawaiian Club

The Hawaiian Club, an organization for Hawaiians, has as its purpose the friendship and fellowship of other Hawaiians on campus. They prepare programs which they give at certain functions, such as the International Night. The members are: Row I: Frances Matsunami,

NAACP

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, an organization which strives to better race relations, is open to anyone who wishes to further this purpose. Speakers, debates, panel discussions, movies, and dances highlighted this year's program. The members are: Row I: Sandi Rubinstein, Roberta Wysong, Morris E. Phil-

Flying Club

The Flying Club, whose membership includes students, faculty, and townspeople interested in flying, enables its members to fly in an economical way. The members are: Row I: Forrest Ricken, Ed Matthews Jr., J. W. Myers (Instructor), Paul Knocoles, Bob Bradley. Row II:

Ruth Quinn, Jay Thomas (Pres.), Gary Gieseke, John Charles, Edward Wolf, Ray Smyth. Row III: Stephen F. Bedwell (Treas.), Steven Stavron, J. C. Campbell (Bd. of Directors).

Beidenhagee, Russell James, Bill Lush, Eugene Gore, Thomas Sevier, Robert Frazier, Carl McKee, David William, Jack Cassingham, Frank Portolese, Ralph Merkel.

"Dentures due tomorrow" is the dilemma of these dental students.

Psi Omega, the largest dental fraternity in the world, lends assistance to its members in their professional background. By keeping in touch with their alumni, members meet and gain knowledge from many outstanding men in the dental field.

Many social functions were enjoyed by the members. These included a Valentine Dance in February, a Sophomore Party in March, an Easter Parade in April, a Rush Dance in May, and a Senior Dinner and Dance in June.

The Omega chapter of Psi Omega was founded at Indiana University in 1903 and is now located at the I.U. Medical Center at Indianapolis. The national organization was organized in 1872 at Baltimore College of Dental Surgery.

Xi Psi Phi, a fraternal organization composed of students in the School of Dentistry at Indianapolis, exists for the purpose of promoting higher ideals and character in the dental field. The School of Dentistry at Indianapolis is affiliated with the School of Pre-dentistry at Indiana University.

The profession of Dentistry is one of the highest among those which seek to preserve health and well-being of the individual. This organization seeks to cultivate the highest ideals of good dentistry in each of its members and to lend assistance to its members in their professional background.

The social activities of Theta Chapter have included a dinner and dance in honor of the new members following their initiation and a highly successful Christmas party. Earlier in the year a Halloween party was held at the chapter house. Guest speakers of both a professional and non-professional nature were engaged for meetings which were open to all dental students on the Indianapolis and Bloomington campuses.

New method of pulling teeth astounds Xi Psi Phi members.

Sigma Theta Tau

Sigma Theta Tau is an honorary organization of nursing. It is the only National Honorary Society of Nursing in the United States. The purposes of Sigma Theta Tau are socially and professionally significant. The organization is dedicated to the task of promoting high professional standards. It contributes to the development of leaders in nursing through the encouragement of desirable personal and social characteristics as well as stimulating intellectual advancement. The organization concerns itself with fostering creative work and emphasizing the importance of scientific research in all areas of nursing. It attempts to stimulate professional interest and growth in its members, after completion of their formal education, through the programs of the local chapters and the work of the National Committees. Sigma Theta Tau was founded in 1922 at the Indiana University Training School for Nurses.

Indiana University's 1955 Football Squad: Row I: Head Coach Bernie Crimmins, Bob Skoronski (Co-Capt.), Tom Hall, Ernie Ferrario, Dan Coughlin, Ron Rauchmiller, Jim Stone, John Bartkiewicz (Co-Capt.), and Bob Maddock (Asst. Coach). Row II: Tom Cassidy, Dan McGrath, Carmen Gondoli, Ron Battreall, Don Brodie, Mert Hoagland, Herb Sisson, Bill Misiak, and George Bell. Row III: Charles Rogers, Chester McKenzie, Russ Burns, Sal DiPietro, Barry Johnson, Jim Yore, Gene Lieber, Jim Brazier, and John Gentile. Row IV: Ken Hubbard, Bill Takacs, Bob Sobczak, Joe Amstutz, Dick Klim, Doug MacGillivray,

This year we watched our football season in thirds . . . we saw the first three games lost, the next three won, and the final three games lost.

Before the season began, we knew that our schedule was way ahead of our rebuilding process. Our schedule was tough, so tough that we were rated behind only Stanford University as the team playing the toughest schedule in the nation.

We took on Michigan State, Notre Dame, Iowa, Ohio State, and Michigan—all in the country's top ten at one time or another.

Coach Bernie Crimmins, in his fourth year as Hoosier mentor, began the first third of the season against Rose Bowl winner Michigan State. We lost 20-13.

We topped Notre Dame in statistics but came out on the bottom of a 19-0 score. Iowa rounded out the first volley by beating us 20-6.

On October 15 we broke the ice by taking Villanova 14-7. Our victory skein lasted until November 5, with victories over Northwestern (20-14) and Ohio University (21-14) during it.

But then Ohio State came from behind to beat us 20-13, Michigan shut us out 30-0, and Purdue squeezed out a come-from-behind 6-4 victory.

The man and his leader

Coach Bernie Crimmins

Bob Skoronski, Co-Captain and most valuable player.

Coach Crimmins "talking it up."

It's all mine . . . He's all mine—Brad Bomba, Hoosier end, pulls down forward pass, and Villanova safety man pulls down Bomba.

Foresight instead of hindsight—Milt Campbell, Hoosier halfback, looks ahead to what is coming, while Villanova lineman grabs him from behind. Quarterback Chick Cichowski arrives too late to do anything except cross his fingers.

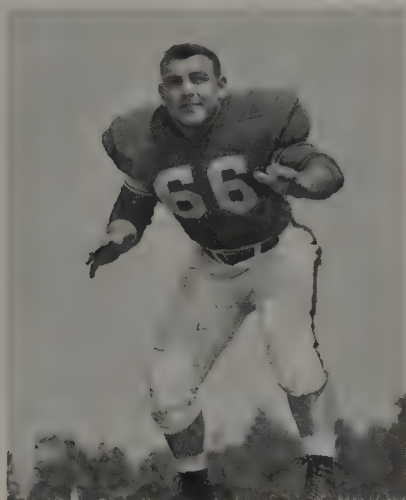

Les Kun

Ted Karras

Tom Hall

Some will be gone . . .

John Bartkiewicz

Our individual statistics showed John Bartkiewicz as our leading ground gainer with a 4-yard average a carry. In the passing department quarterback Chick Cichowski completed 50 of 102 attempted passes with an average of 11 yards a completion.

Milt Campbell led the scoring parade with four touchdowns—more than one-fourth our total scoring.

Brad Bomba snared 13 passes to lead that department. Milt Campbell was the leading pass interceptor with six, and captain Bob Skoronski recovered the most fumbles.

For next year . . . .

Next year our generals will be the same, Crimmins from the bench and Cichowski from the field. And with what probably was the best freshman squad ever to replace the lost seniors, we should be ready enough for another grueling schedule.

George Crowe

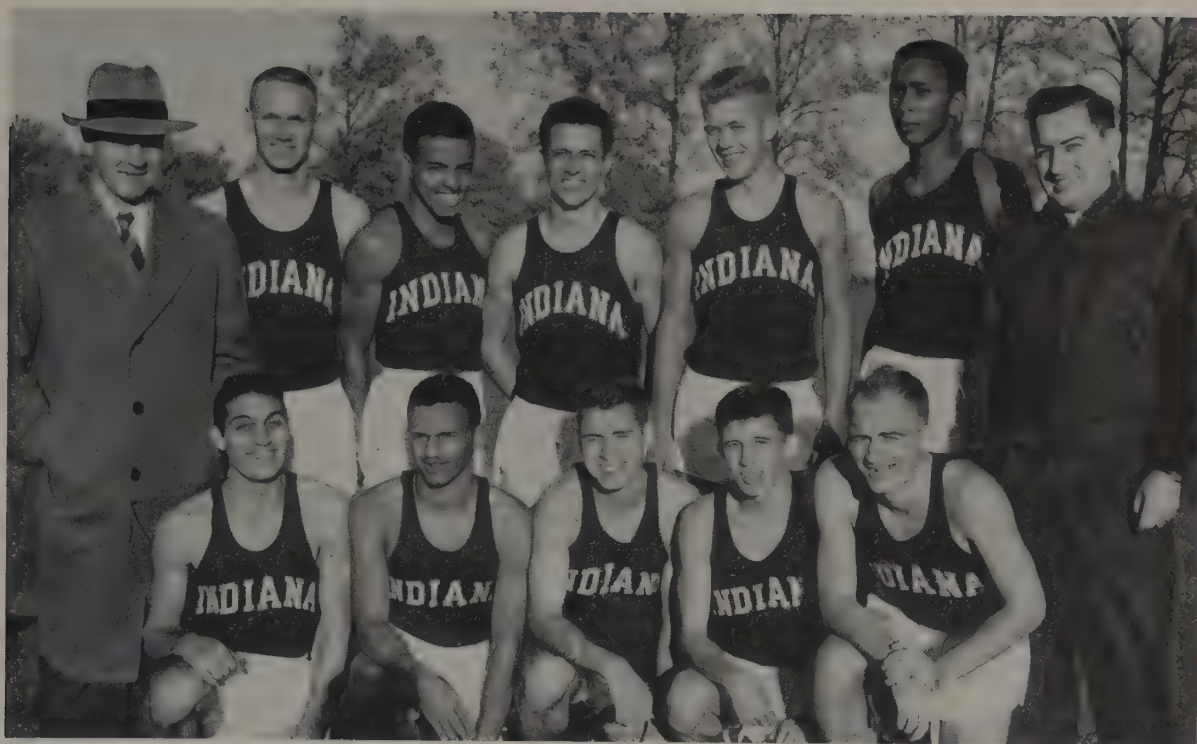

Pat Fellingner

And there they go . . . top row left to right: Coach Gordon Fisher, Robert Lawson, Donald Philpott, David Hedges, Thomas Linnemeier, John Miller, and

The champions . . . Row I: Tom Weisz, Pierre Boule, Bill Mueller, Ted Christian, John Carmody, Lann Graff, Jim Sands, Andy Mirkakis, John Hicks. Row II: Ehson Fadaï, Bjorn Malmstrom, Jerry Korcak, Gus Omary, Don Ba, Ricardo Roquette-Pinto, Dick Anderson, Arive Ginzburg, Tom Turpin, Haissam Midani, Coach Joe Guennel.

Me first—Gus Omary, All-American Hoosier, right, and Horst Voight of Navy Pier dive for a loose ball in a game which Indiana won 4-3.

The Indiana University campus was very fortunate this year in the fact that coach Joe Guennel and his squad brought home a Big Ten soccer championship. Last year's team came close, winning eight, while dropping one contest and tying another to rate second place. But this was the big year.

Sparking the championship club were All-American Gus Omary and Ralph Hasch. Omary won second team honors while Hasch made honorable mention.

Next year's squad should be just as effective, since the nucleus of the squad will be back, and Hoosier backers are anticipating another championship ball club.

Fans travel from far and wide to watch basketball, the Hoosier mania.

Hard wood and hard benches

"Hey, ref!"—The referee appears to be sharing the spotlight in this picture as St. Louis' All-American candidate, McLaughlin (No. 45), looks on.

A metal rim-- ten feet high

Hallie Bryant and his fade-away jump shot.

Go, Jim, go! Jim Phipps drives hard and fast for an Indiana tally.

According to the laws of physics, what goes up must come down, and after two years of being on top, the Hurrying Hoosiers are now down.

After Big Ten championships in 1953 and 54, I.U. has spent the last two years wallowing in the depths of the second division—sixth place both times.

This year, I.U. won eight of the first nine tilts. Then, two starters were slapped with scholastic ineligibility, and after that everything except the fieldhouse floor caved in.

For the remainder of the season I.U. fought to maintain a .500 Big Ten record. They lost. Winding up 6-8 in the Big Ten they finished the year with a 13-9 mark.

In the moral victory department, I.U. was undefeated—dropping a game to Illinois (then in first place) after leading for the first 35 minutes, and losing to Big Ten champion Iowa in the last seconds.

But physics says nothing about having to stay down, and with four or five starters returning next year, I.U. is once again pointing to the top.

Silent swishes and loud roars

Big Archie Dees tallies over the heads of two Kansas State Wildcat defenders.

Wait for me! An unidentified St. Louis player lags behind fast-breaking teammates on point-producing play.

Senior Wally Choice, the team's Most Valuable Player led the scoring parade with a 21.0 average. The 6' 5" forward rewrote the Hoosier accuracy record with a .510 percentage.

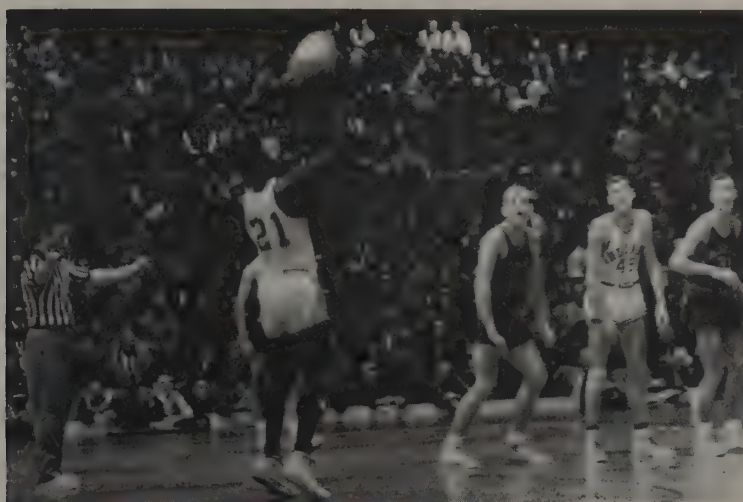

Next year, runner-up to Wally Choice in total scoring, center Archie Dees will lead the revenge-minded Hoosiers. He will be bolstered by veterans Jerry Thompson, Hallie Bryant, Pete Obremsky and Charlie Hodson.

Up and in- Basketball ranks second to none for a combination of thrills and entertainment.

Stretch, Wally—Wally Choice goes high for a jump shot against Ohio University.

Be there! Jerry Thompson shows great anticipation as a teammate attempts a free-throw.

Tile, water, and fourth in the Big Ten

I.U.'s top aqua-athlete—Bill Woolsey, Big Ten Champ in the 1500 meter, the 440 yard, and the 220 yard free-styles.

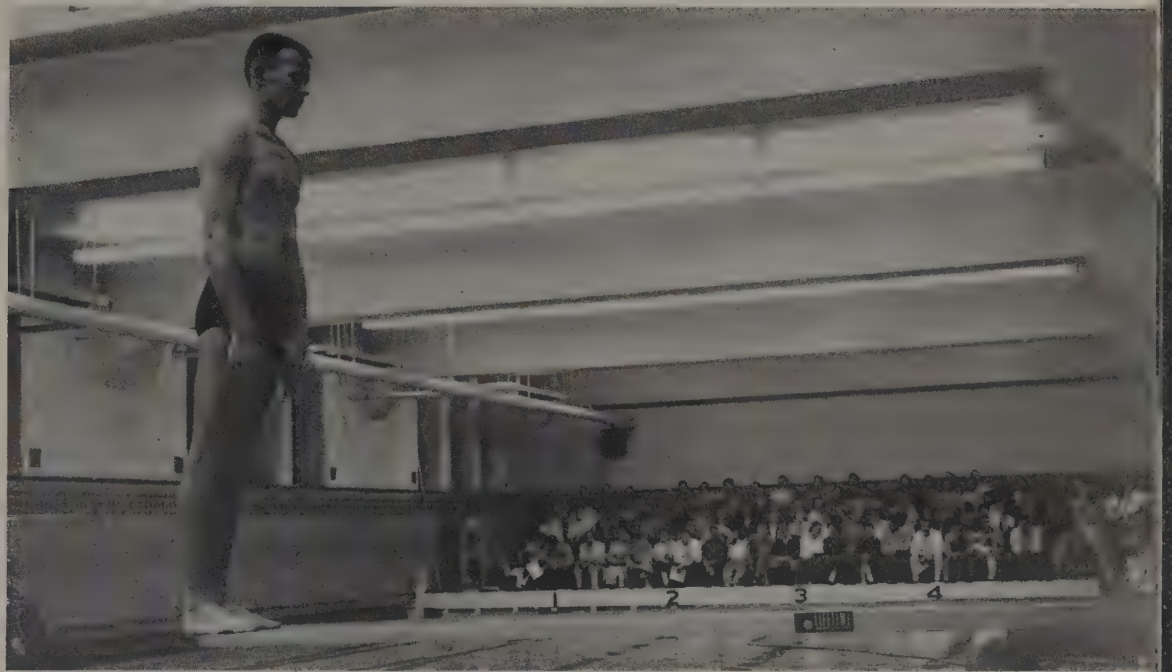

Larry Good . . . . . backing his way in.

Possessing five of the finer performers in collegiate swimming but lacking the necessary depth, I.U.'s swim squad settled for a 7-2 mark in dual meets and a fourth place finish in the Big Ten.

Throughout the season the team's "Big Five," Bill Woolsey, Sonny Tanabe, Tom Lord, Barry Yap and Ron Hoonda led in point production.

Ready, set. . . . Jerry McIntosh shows the form which gained him the reputation as one of the squad's best divers.

Another Hawaiian Hoosier—Dick "Sonny" Tanabe, who set the American record for the 150 yard individual medley.

Dick Anthony, I.U. wrestling star who divided his time between the 191 pound and the heavyweight divisions this season.

Matburns and escapes

If Coach Charles McDaniel says that he dislikes the number six, don't argue with him! His wrestlers compiled six consecutive victories before going on a losing spree. Senior wrestling star, Dick Anthony, recorded six straight triumphs—five of them on falls—before going on the first losing streak of his career. I.U. finished the season in fifth place in the Big Ten Conference. Norm Komorowski and Bob Winkler are the only returning veterans to bolster Coach McDaniel's hopes next season.

The trampoline, rings, and parallel bars.

Indiana's soaring National AAU Trampoline Champion—Dick Albershardt.

Led by the consistently top performances of two-year letterman Dick Albershardt, Coach Otto Ryser's gymnastics squad finished their season with a sixth place standing in the Western Conference.

He was ably assisted in point production by returning lettermen Dick Heeschen, Jerry Wright, Ed Straub, Ed Spencer, and sophomore newcomer Ron David.

Wright, an outstanding all around performer, starred in four events—trampoline, tumbling, sidehorse, and the parallel bars. Straub participated in the free exercise, the sidehorse, and the tumbling events.

Heeschen, the Hoosier's No. 1 horizontal bar man, participated also on the rings and the parallel bars. David, the only member of the squad with a gymnastic background in high school, was the Hoosier's best tumbler.

Marksmen all. This year's rifle squad which so successfully bore the cream and crimson colors consisted of:

Kneeling: Paul Klein, Robert Thomas, Russell Drake, Robert Urdal, Lawrence Lauterbach, and Stan Sessler.

Standing: M/Sgt. Willard W. Reed, instructor and Capt. Jack M. Darden, coach.

One of the most successful units athletic-wise was the rifle squad. Under the direction of Captain Darden and M/Sgt. William Reed, the marksmen breezed through dual meet competition undefeated. Included in this victory chain are Big Ten conquests over Illinois and Purdue.

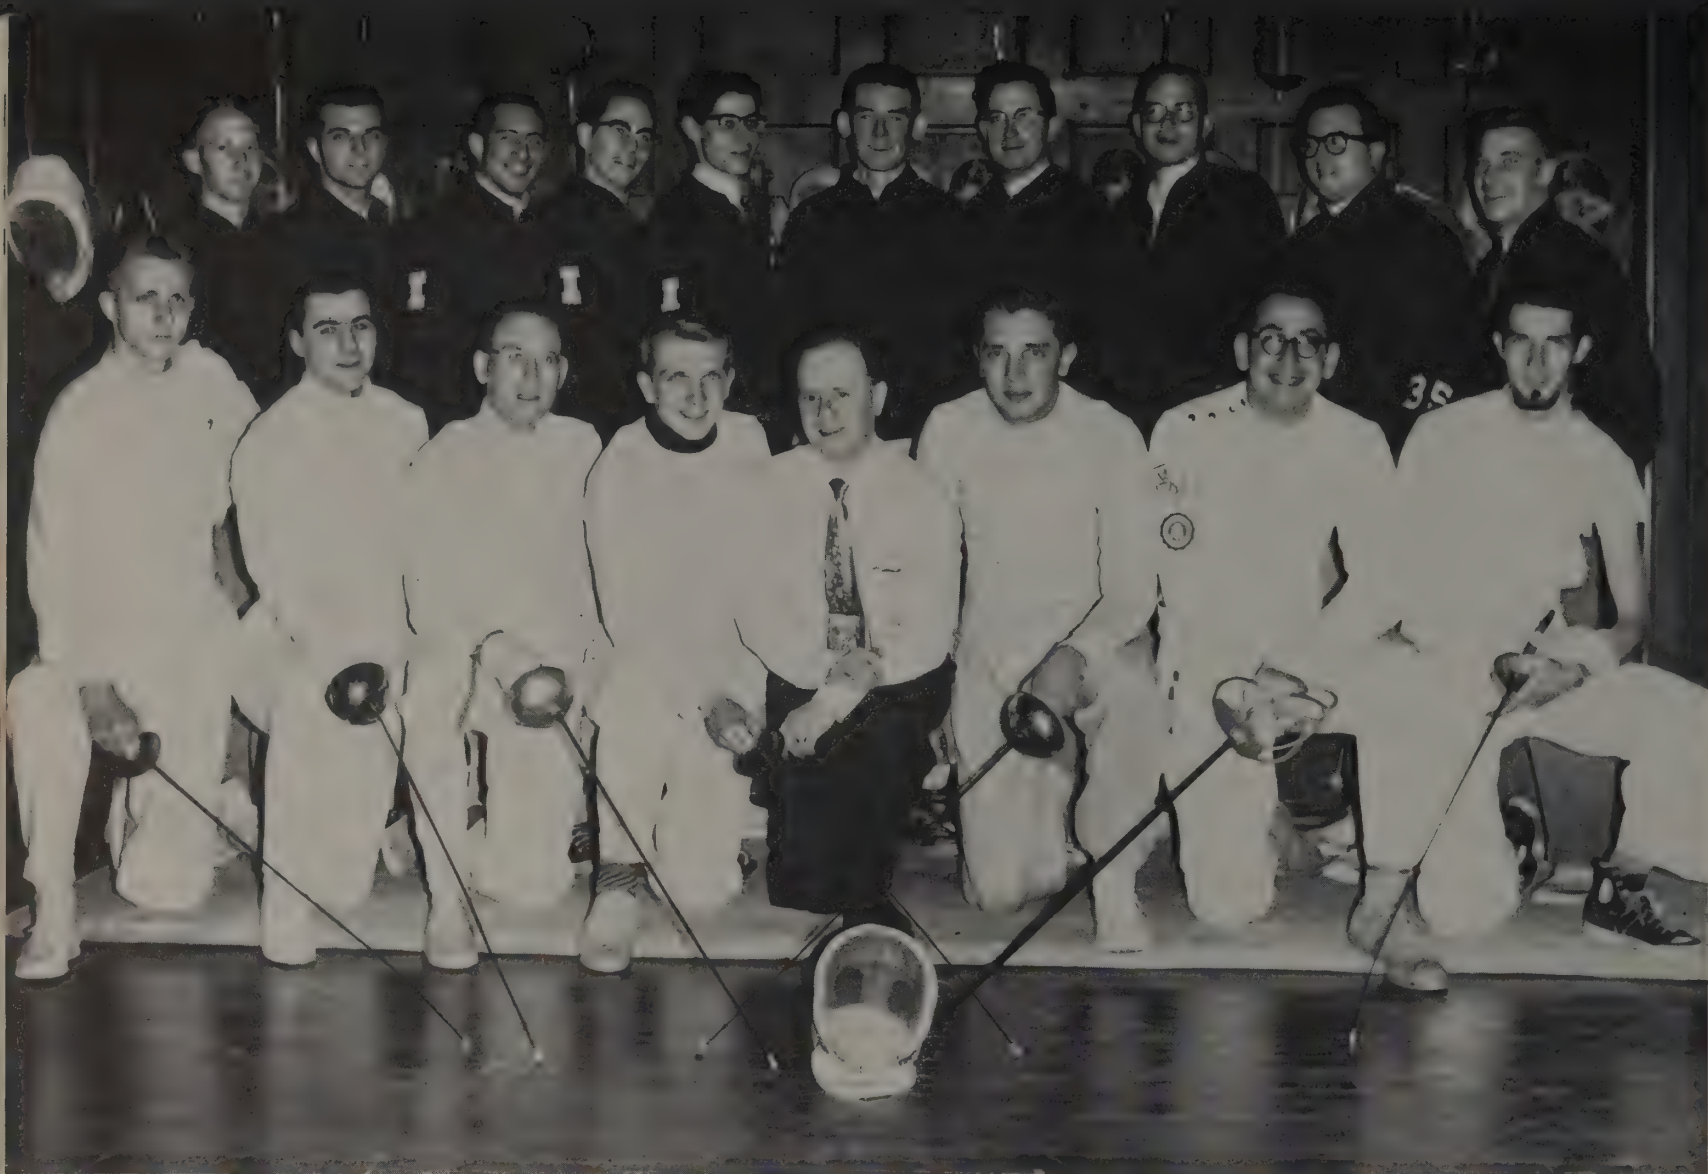

Eyes on the target! Robert Thomas, who proved himself one of the most adept marksmen on the squad, eyes the target in a warm-up session prior to a meet.

Steadily—aim—fire! Russell Drake shows the relaxed form which gained him a respectable position on the Indiana University firing line.

Arnie Spellman, Tom Betts, Joe Rodenberg, Fred Gehrke, John Vickrey, Jay A. Bachrach, Ronald Popp, Carl M. Fenner.

Inexperience hampered the fencing squad somewhat this season, and as a result they failed to crack the .500 mark. After dropping their initial contests to Culver Military Academy and Notre Dame, the crew showed little progress.

The Cream and Crimson did manage to rise for very impressive appearances against Northwestern, however, and this year's young squad should prove a strong contender next season.

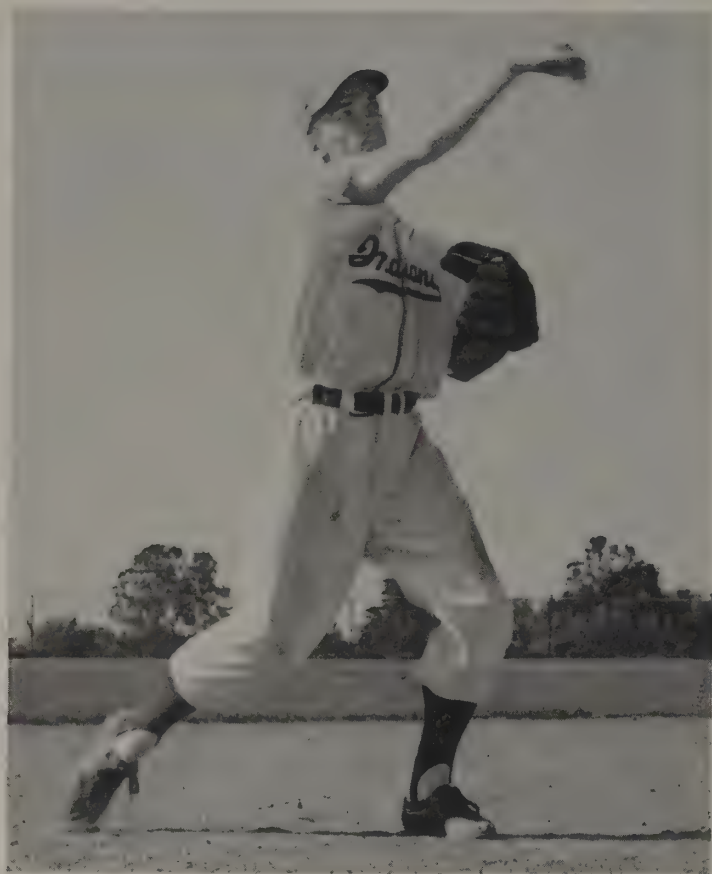

Pacing the offensive drive of the Hoosiers were coach-captain Ron Stangl, Fred Gehrke, Duane Burnor and Fred Nickel. Stangl and Gehrke, both juniors, will probably see a lot of action in next year's bid.

Game, set and match.

Take that . . . Mike Fields grins with confidence as he returns an opponent's serve.

Seventy-five per cent is usually passing in any exam, but for coach Dale Lewis, it's eighty. Big Ten titlist three of the last four years, the Hoosiers will field the best club ever for a prospective repeat performance.

Bowing only to champion Michigan in the playoffs and to non-conference Kalamazoo, Indiana boasted a 20-2 over-all slate, and their conference performance gained them second honors.

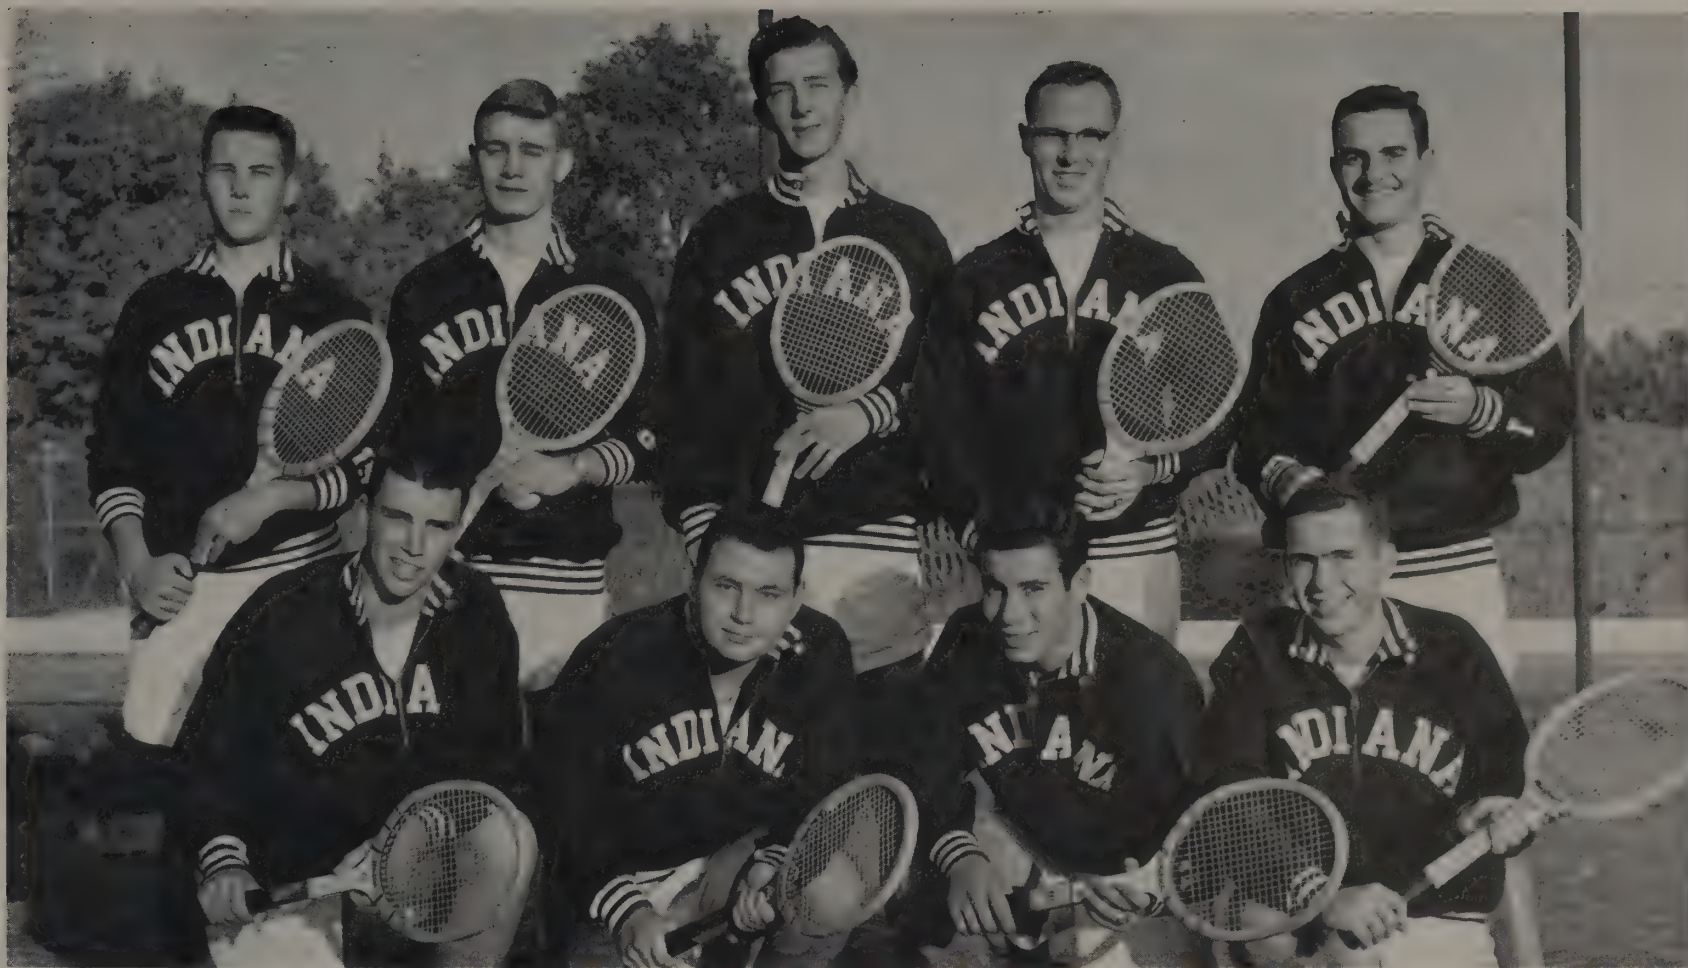

Absent from this year's roll call will be John Hironimus, four-year veteran and a valuable asset. The rest of the club has gained another year's experience, however, and should prove themselves a hard team to beat.

With Mike Fields pacing the squad, each player exhibits the individual potential which, combined, should avenge last season's narrow loss of the crown. Such stars as Parchute, Dentic and Huddleston also show great promise at the art.

Go, team, go . . . This season's prospective Big Ten champions consist of, kneeling, Tom Fallon, Elan Huddleston, Carl Dentice and Bob Gray. Standing are Bill Petric, Gene Tardy, Jerry Parchute, Ken Dillman and Mike Fields.

With the greatest of ease . . . Jerry Parchute exhibits a graceful style which makes him one of the nation's top racquet-men.

Dyar, and Ron Terrell.

Bob Dyar—teeing up, getting set and watching it go.

Drivers, putters and irons.

With the return of three varsity lettermen and the development of several promising underclassmen, Coach Chili Cochrane looked to the Spring season, confident that last year's record of 3 won, 11 lost and 1 tie would be bettered.

Bob Dyar, Phil Antibus and Rick Williams were the only holdovers from the squad which Coach Cochrane said was one of the best teams that he had seen but which was also one of the unluckiest, citing as an example the fall of the "Swinging Hoosiers" from second place to last place in the Big 10 Tournament due to bad weather.

Heading the list of underclassmen that were slated to see a good deal of varsity action were Tom Johnson and John Dimitri.

“” ’$&’% ) ( & ¼ ? ” ¼ $ & ( — ) ’$ THAT SLICE—Phil Antibus

The high hurdles . . . part of an afternoon of track.

Tape measures and finish lines.

Coach Gordon Fisher's track squad promises to be one of the most well-balanced teams that Indiana has had in several seasons. The big three—Milt Campbell, Greg Bell, and Don Ward—are likely to bear the brunt of this year's scoring attack.

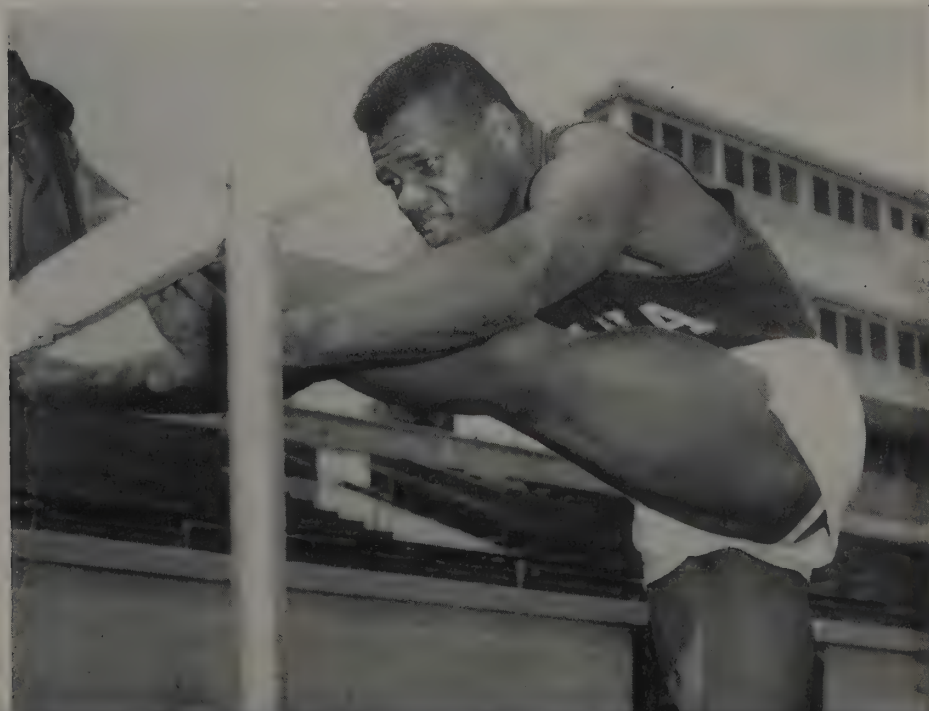

Campbell, possessor of decathlon fame, won the A.A.U. and the Big Ten-Pacific Coast meets in the high hurdles. His time of :13.9 equalled the NCAA track record and shattered the Indiana intercollegiate mark.

Sophomore sensation, Greg Bell, holds the distinction of broad jumping farther than any Indiana athlete and is a possible candidate for the approaching Olympics. Ward, a quarter-mile specialist, last season reeled off a :47.5 to tie the I.U. varsity record.

All eyes were focused on last year's Indiana cinder crew copping the Big Ten outdoor meet, but as the tension surmounted, the thinlies wilted in their tracks. This is a new year, however, and the tracksters intend to win!

Greg Bell and the broad jump

Intramurals has gained an unbounded popularity in the past several years, since it is a sport in which everyone can participate.

Football was the first major sport of interest, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon gained recognition in this field by turning back the Pogo Pups 7-0. This gave the SAE's a substantial boost in the final point ratings as the teams turned to the winter sports.

These Delta Tau Deltas take advantage of a warm-up session in the swimming pool.

By February it was basketball time, and the league playoffs found the Phi Psis and Sigma Nu fighting for the lead. The Phi Psis downed their worthy opponents and went on to fall to the Buccaneers in the championship tilt, but by this time had compiled a substantial lead.

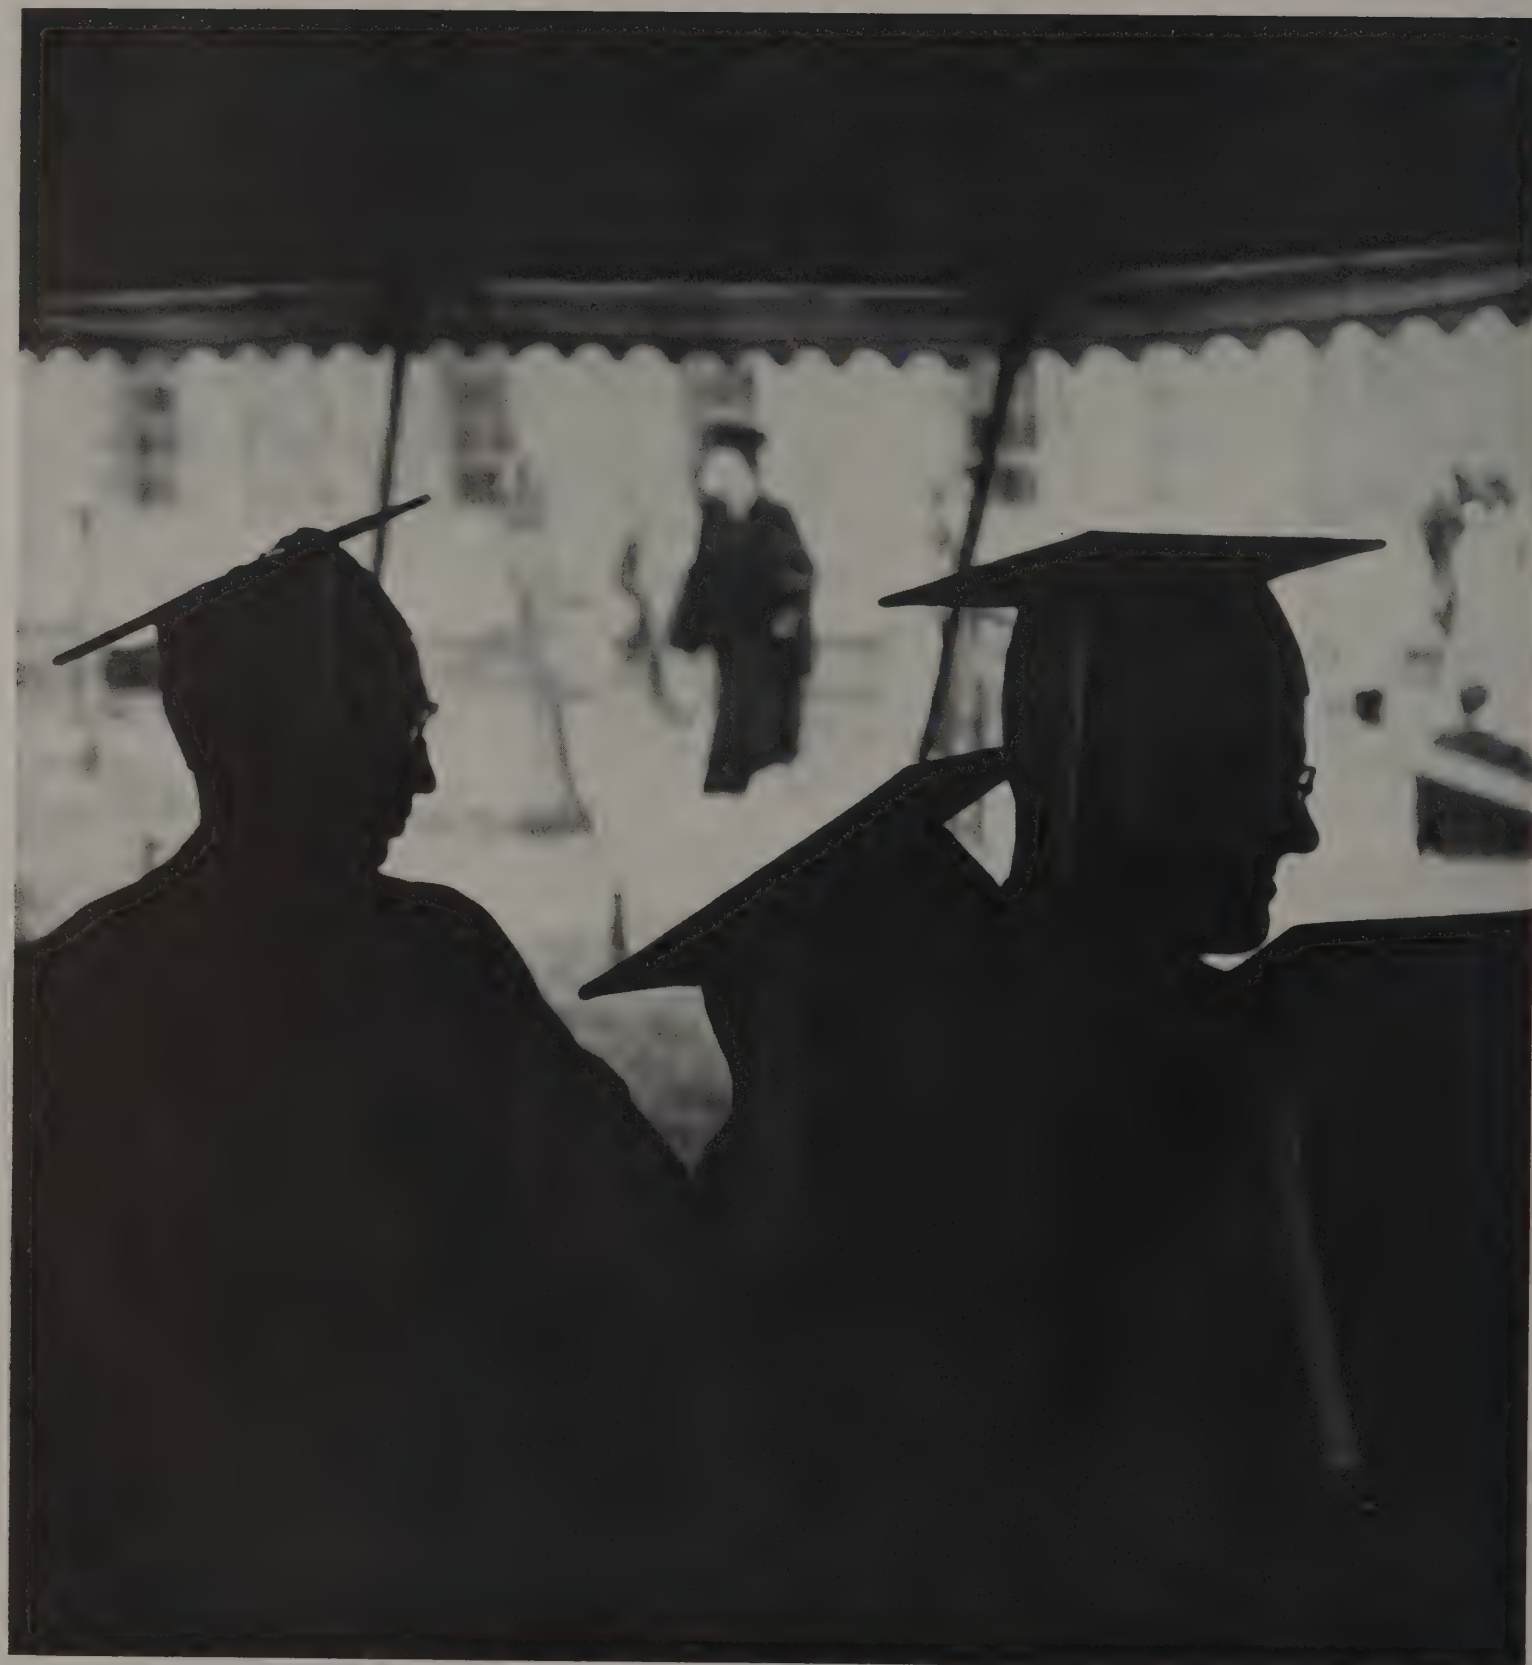

Wrestling, handball, softball and all the spring sports will decide the new winner. May the best team win.

YOU STAND ON THE THRESHOLD

... of the great electric age. Today, the ways in which electricity works for you are almost without end. Yet, this is but a forecast of years to come! Whatever the future brings, you may be sure of this! As the electric company for this area, we will use every scientific skill, every technical advance, and the most efficient methods to assure abundant electric power for those we serve—today, tomorrow and in the years ahead.

Over 7 Times

THE ELECTRIC POWER SUPPLY FOR THOSE WE SERVE..1941-1958!

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF INDIANA, INC.

Good, Low-Cost Electric Service to More Than 700 Communities in 70 Counties in Indiana

Simple Arithmetic

Farm Bureau's program is designed to lift farm net income and increase agriculture's share of the total national income.

13% of the people in the United States live on farms, but receive from farming only
5% of the national income.

To aid its program, Farm Bureau proposes a soil fertility bank plan, research in new uses of farm products, increased exports of farm products, and flexible price supports.

Acknowledgments

Because often the people behind the scenes go unsung, we wish to be sure that this year all those who contributed invaluable advice and assistance will receive their full share of credit.

We first wish to thank the Board of Student Publications and the Arbutus Advisory Board for their aid in helping us to implement the new yearbook plan and personnel program for the 1956 Arbutus. Our special thanks go to Miss Gretchen Kemp, Mr. James Mahler, Mr. Pointer McEvoy, and Mr. Henry Smith of the Advisory Board for the hours they devoted to discussion and guidance in this project.

To those outside the University family who added their knowledge and experience to the task: we extend our deepest gratitude to Mr. Richard Brier, Mr. Frank Persell, and Mr. Fred Noer of Indeco, our engravers; Mr. Bob Everett of Bookwalter Company, our printer; and to Mr. Tom McConnell of Kingsport Press, our cover suppliers.

To all the many persons who remain unnamed we extend our appreciation for patience when tempers were short, for the boosts of morale that were given in the darker moments, and for the encouragement which is so vitally needed when embarking on a new project as important as the 1956 Arbutus has been to us.
